PRESIDENT ASKS HOUSE TO VOTE JOB INSURANCE

Bill Seeks to Set Up Systematized Dole.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today urged passage of the pending unemployment insurance bill which aims to establish a systematized dole for persons out of work along the lines of the British dole.

In a letter to Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee, the President indorsed the Lewis bill which provides a plan for inducing the states to establish unemployment insurance systems. It provides for a five per cent federal tax on employers' pay rolls, but permits as credits on such payments the amounts employers contribute to state unemployment insurance funds.

Has Advocated Insurance.

"I need not tell you," the President wrote Mr. Doughton, "that for a long time I have advocated unemployment insurance as an essential part of our program to build a more ample and secure life. The loss of a job brings discouragement and privation to the individual worker and his family. If an insurance or reserve fund has been accumulated, even a small payment from it at such a critical time will tide over the worker and keep up his morale and purchasing power.

"The benefits of such a system will not be limited to the individual, however, but will extend throughout our social and financial fabric. We have in the past relied almost entirely upon private charities and public treasuries to sustain the costs of seasonal and intermittent unemployment. This is a practice that necessity will compel us to change to a very substantial degree. There is no reason why they should assume the entire burden of meeting a foreseeable loss, the major cost of which ought to be computed and borne like every other cost of a business.

Calls It "Stabilizing Device."

"Of course, unemployment insurance alone will not make unnecessary all relief for all people out of work for the entire period of a major economic depression, but it is my confident belief that such funds will, by maintaining the purchasing power of those temporarily out of work, act as a stabilizing device in our economic structure and as a method of retarding the rapid downward spiral curve and the onset of severe economic crises.

"I am interested to see that the bill before your committee seeks to promote unemployment insurance under state rather than national laws. This is an approach with which I agree, and which fulfills the promise of the Democratic platform for 1932 to favor 'unemployment insurance under state laws.' The states are peculiarly equipped to administer legislation of this type, and the recent efforts of this administration in such a closely allied field as the creation of public employment offices have been along this line.

Considered as Tax Measure.

"The bill has another advantage in establishing a suitable relation of the national government to unemployment insurance. Under our system of government the task of caring for the unemployed falls primarily on the states. If a state cannot bear the burden the United States must be prepared to do so and to collect revenue for that purpose. That is why this bill is properly considered a revenue measure. But if a state, by requiring local industries to contribute to unemployment reserves, has cared for its needy and avoided a strain upon the federal treasury, such contributions ought to be deductible from federal taxes."

Few Exceptions Named.

The bill, which was introduced by Representative David J. Lewis [Dem., Md.], applies to all employers of ten or more persons and to all such employés except farm laborers, domestic servants, teachers, physicians, railroad employés and a few minor classes. The tax section provides:

"There shall be levied, assessed and collected annually from every employer subject to this act for the taxable year commencing July 1, 1935, and for each taxable year thereafter, an excise tax measured by an amount equal to 5 per centum of the employer's pay roll as defined in section 1 of this act:

"Provided that said tax shall be paid after the close of each taxable year and may be paid in quarterly instalments, under suitable regulations promulgated by the commissioner of internal revenue with the approval of the secretary of the treasury.

"B. Any employer who has paid the

J. H. Rand Jr. Stirs House Committee.

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—Sensational charges that the "brain trust" within the administration is deliberately plotting a revolution in this country precipitated today a virtual uproar at the house interstate commerce committee's hearing on the revised administration bill to control the nation's stock exchanges.

J. H. RAND JR.

James H. Rand Jr., business equipment manufacturer and chairman of the committee for the nation, startled the committee and the audience with the assertion that certain elements close to the President are seeking, without Mr. Roosevelt's knowledge, to provoke "revolt among the masses."

Less sensational, but of considerable more significance, was the complete indorsement which Gov. Eugene Black of the federal reserve board gave later to the revised stock exchange bill during the testimony before the house committee and before the banking and currency committee of the senate.

Considers Plan Fair.

The reserve board had exhibited little or no enthusiasm for the exchange control measure as originally drawn, but Gov. Black emphasized today that he regarded the new version as being "greatly improved."

"The federal reserve board," Gov. Black said, "is prepared to approve the measure as revised. The board feels that it is fair, workable, right in principle, and that it will accomplish the purpose of regulating the exchanges under rules of fair practice."

Featuring Mr. Rand's testimony was a letter purporting to have been written by Dr. William A. Wirt of Gary, Ind., who was described as the founder of the Gary school system.

In the letter, which Mr. Rand introduced into the record, Dr. Wirt charged that conversations last summer with unnamed members of the "brain trust" had convinced him that certain officials of the administration were plotting "to overthrow the established American social order."

Road to Communism.

As a preface to his reading of the Wirt letter, Mr. Rand declared:

"This bill was written by a group of radical young lawyers who hold no elective office. It represents an important step in their attempt, by indirection, to establish a 'planned economy,' in which politically selected burocrats will assume powers that have belonged to property owners, stockholders, and business management.

"Here in Washington," he continued, "a group of theoretically trained young men, sincere but inexperienced, wield great influence. This group is guiding the country to the left, to what it calls a 'planned economy,' but which, in reality, is the road to communism. We are being pushed along the road from democracy to communism."

Mr. Rand then began to read the letter from Dr. Wirt, recounting the conversations which the Indianian allegedly had with certain members of the so-called "brain trust."

President "in Swift Stream."

"I was told," the letter stated, "that they believe that by thwarting our then evident recovery they would be able to prolong the country's destitution until they had demonstrated to the American people that the government must operate industry and commerce."

In the letter Dr. Wirt quoted one of the group with whom he talked as follows:

"'We believe that we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot turn back or escape from it. We believe that we can keep Mr. Roosevelt there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin. We all think that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution.'"

Mr. Rand's reading of the letter was interrupted by Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle [Dem., N. C.], who demanded to know the names of the "brain trusters" mentioned in the document. Mr. Rand was unable

Standard Oil (Cal.) Indicted on Code Rule

Los Angeles, Cal., March 23.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of California, the Associated Oil company, three alleged subsidiary companies, and 41 individuals were named in indictments returned by the federal grand jury tonight. The indictments charge violations of the National Petroleum Industry's code of fair competition.

In addition to the Standard and Associated companies, the Signal Oil and Gas company, a Delaware corporation, and the Signal Oil and Gas Company of California, reputedly controled by Standard, and the Seaside Oil company, an alleged subsidiary of Associated, were indicted.

Declare Grades Identical.

The indictments charged the major companies produced gasoline which was distributed and sold through the minor firms with different trade names. The three grades of gasoline distributed by Standard and Associated and in turn retailed by the minors were said to be identical in each instance and to have been manufactured by the major organizations.

In the cases of first and second grades of gasoline the indictments said prices charged by the minor companies were identical with those of the majors. On the third grade product the minor companies were declared to have "undersold" their ostensible competitors. "For the purpose of secret price cutting on the lower grade gasoline," the indictments stated, both the Seaside and Signal companies operated in "ostensible competition" with the parent companies.

Causes Price Cutting War.

Through "rebranding" of the same gasoline "the most vicious price cutting war in oil history is now in effect," the indictments said, picturing independent oil producers and distributors as facing ruin.

For each day's alleged violation of the oil code since last Aug. 19, when it was signed, a separate count is listed in the indictment. A maximum fine of $500 for each defendant on each count is provided in the code. The possible fines for the Standard defendants are approximately $1,600,000 and in the Associated case $2,200,000, authorities said.

SEIZE MAID OF MALOY; SUSPECT KIDNAPING PLOT

Hoodlums who police think were trying to lay the groundwork for the kidnaping of Tom Maloy, movie union czar, or some member of his family abducted the Maloy family maid last night and held her prisoner for nearly seven hours. She is Sample Parker, a Negress, living at 6754 St. Lawrence avenue.

Shortly after leaving the Maloy home at 6806 Chappel avenue and only a block from her own flat Mrs. Parker was dragged into a red sedan by two armed white men. They threw a blanket over her head and drove her to a basement flat, where a third man was waiting. There they asked her where Maloy was and questioned her about Mrs. Maloy. They wanted to know if Mrs. Maloy owned much jewelry and whether the Maloys kept a safe in the house. Maloy is now in Hot Springs, Ark.

The maid told the three men that Maloy was out of town. Then two of the men departed. They returned several hours later, after which she was driven around and finally released at 68th street and Evans avenue. Police meanwhile, notified of the maid's disappearance, had gone to the Maloy home. There they discovered the telephone wires had been cut. This fact and the maid's experience suggested the kidnaping theory to them, and Lieut. James McCarthy of Woodlawn station posted a detail at the Maloy home.

5 Stone & Co. Officials Get Prison Terms

Five former officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate concern, who were found guilty March 16 of using the mails to defraud, yesterday were denied a new trial and all were sentenced by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

Under the sentence four of the defendants will go to prison for three years. They are Henry F. Norcott, president; Harold D. Bennett, vice president; W. Scott Carroll, controler, and Charles P. Packer Jr., treasurer. Leslie A. Needham, who was general counsel for the company, was ordered to prison for a year and a day.

Second Trial for Five.

It was the second trial for the five men. An earlier one had resulted in each of them being sentenced to twenty years' incarceration and a fine of $15,000. With the fine deleted from the penalty and the marked reduction in the time behind bars, it was uncertain whether the defendants would appeal. A stay of execution for one week was granted, however, when attorneys for the ex-officials asked they be given an opportunity to consider this phase.

Judge Sullivan did not specifically decide where the sentences will be served. He would, he said, order the defendants to a correctional institution and allow the attorney general of the United States to decide in which one. The defense attorneys had pleaded that they be allowed to remain in a jail rather than a penitentiary.

The judge overruled a motion by Assistant District Attorney Joseph A. Struett that the bonds of the men be increased pending their being taken into custody for the trip to prison. They will remain at liberty in bonds of $5,000 each.

Wives Are in Court.

Neither of the defendants nor the wives of the four of them, who were in court—Mrs. Needham was absent on account of illness—seemed greatly cast down by the outcome. It was pointed out that all the men will be eligible to parole after serving two-thirds of their sentences. If they had been assessed the maximum punishment possible, five years on each of the guilty counts in the indictment, the total would have been 160 years.

During the second trial, which occupied about two months, the government used 127 witnesses to prove that the defendants had issued bonds and debentures while their concern was insolvent and had used the mails to promote the sale of such securities. Total losses of H. O. Stone & Co., which failed in 1930, were $14,000,000.

The first trial was held last year before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. The conviction was reversed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and the case remanded for a new trial.

Fee Testimony Will Be Given by Wilkerson

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday accepted the invitation of a congressional subcommittee to appear before it. He promised to furnish any information the congressmen desire regarding receiverships in his court, which, with other receivership cases, the committee has been investigating this week at the United States courthouse.

The judge's appearance before the committee, it is likely, will be at Washington. The committee closed its Chicago sessions yesterday afternoon, shortly after its invitation had been extended to Judge Wilkerson, and the judge asked an opportunity to study the record of testimony already given. His only request was that executive sessions be held on those cases which he still has pending before him.

Plan Title and Trust Quiz.

Before its members left the city the subcommittee held an executive session. Congressman Tom D. McKeown [Dem., Okla.], chairman, announced following the session that a representative of the committee is to conduct an investigation of complaints against the Chicago Title and Trust company.

The company or its officers have been receiver or trustee in numerous receivership and bankruptcy cases in the Chicago federal courts. While neither George Lavin, counsel for the committee, nor Chairman McKeown would confirm it, it was reported that the investigation is to be conducted by Mr. Lavin. Upon the report of the investigator, Congressman McKeown said, the committee will decide whether to return to Chicago for public hearings on the Title and Trust company's federal court activities.

The subcommittee must make a report on its hearings to the full judiciary committee of the house before June 30 and Chairman McKeown said that work on the report has been started and that he expects to be able to present it in advance of June 30 should congress adjourn before that date.

Dodges Impeachment Query.

He was asked whether any further recommendations of impeachment against federal judges might be expected from the subcommittee, on whose previous recommendation the house voted charges against Federal Judge Harold Louderback of San Francisco. The senate acquitted Judge Louderback.

"I can't answer that question until we make a study of the evidence," replied Congressman McKeown.

The chairman also said that if Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville, whose receiverships of the Insull holding companies and the Security Life Insurance company have been described at this week's sessions, wishes to appear, he will be given an opportunity, probably at Washington.

End Security Life Testimony.

Yesterday's session saw the conclusion of testimony regarding the Security Life receivership, which was started Thursday evening with extended questioning of Ald. John A. Massen [48th], receiver for the company.

The original testimony of Ald. Massen brought out that Judge Lindley had ordered bids for reinsurance of Security Life policyholders to be kept secret and that the reinsurance contract was awarded the Central Life Insurance Company of Illinois without hearings at which other bidders might have presented objections. Questioning also brought out that at a later hearing at Danville Judge Lindley permitted amendment of the reinsurance contract which allegedly shut off holders of $2,000,000 in policies in Security Life from its benefits.

Employed Same Attorneys.

It was also brought out that Ald. Massen had employed as his attorneys Bull, Lytton & Olson, who had been attorneys for the company before receivership. Machir J. Dorsey, presi-

JOHNSON, LABOR SEE ROOSEVELT PLAN ACCEPTED

Industrialists Glum, But Likely to Sign.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—Peace in the automobile industry probably will be signed tomorrow.

After a day filled with conferences, in which all sides participated, culminating in White House sessions which kept President Roosevelt a full hour from his dinner, all indications were that an amicable settlement of the labor controversy will be effected.

"Things look good," opined Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industry's taskmaster, as the White House talks began, and tonight he said he expected a favorable windup of the negotiations tomorrow.

Auto Makers Look Glum.

The spokesmen for the automobile manufacturers who attended the White House meetings were sour and glum looking when they emerged. According to reports, they had little stomach for the agreement which they were being compelled to accept. But that they would accept it there seemed few doubts, because of the much worse alternatives which would greet their refusals.

Union leaders seemed happy and victorious. William Collins, given the assignment by the American Federation of Labor of organizing the automobile workers, said after the Roosevelt conference that he looked for an agreement tomorrow.

For Indefinite Truce.

"I shall report back to my group here," Collins said tonight, "and we will notify the leaders in Detroit, Flint, and elsewhere to hold off strike action indefinitly."

Asked if he felt confident that the men could be restrained from walking out because of the delay in reaching a settlement, Collins smiled and replied:

"As long as the President is handling the situation I think they will wait. They have confidence in him."

Collins said the labor men would await a summons to another conference tomorrow morning. It is planned to have Gen. Johnson call both sides tomorrow and there probably will be a final conference at the White House if no unforeseen snags develop.

Won't Talk to Press.

The attitude of the manufacturers was demonstrated by Walter P. Chrysler, leader of the group at the White House. When Pike Johnson, Washington representative of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, approached Mr. Chrysler to ask if he would issue a statement to the press, the manufacturer exclaimed sharply, "No! No! No!"

All afternoon the bluff NRA administrator, Gen. Johnson, had sworn and cajoled alternately at the antagonistic groups of automobile manufacturers and union representatives. The general had got both forces under a single roof at last as he assembled the manufacturers in one office and the labor men in another at NRA headquarters.

Going from one "sweating room" to another, the red-faced and somewhat disheveled administrator hammered away in his efforts to break down the objections which were delaying an agreement.

President Hears Both Sides.

Finally delegations of three from each group were appointed to confer with President Roosevelt. They went separately to the White House and first the manufacturers were called into the executive chamber while the labor group waited in the adjoining cabinet room. For two hours the President wrestled with the manufacturers and then they left, and the labor men were admitted to the President's office.

Representing the industry were Mr. Chrysler, C. W. Nash, and Donaldson Brown, the last named a vice president of General Motors. For labor the delegates were Mr. Collins, Richard Byrd, and Joe Bailey.

The terms of the settlement toward which the President is driving were not disclosed, but it was reported that a formula has been drawn under which labor elections will be held in all automobile plants.

Some Other Developments.

President Roosevelt's warning to the automobile makers that he would induce congress to pass a drastic measure giving the national labor board dictatorial powers over labor disputes produced the desired effect of frightening the manufacturers.

The manufacturers, while still refusing to accord recognition to the American Federation of Labor, as labor demands, were reported ready to accept a compromise whereby elections will be held in their plants to determine the choice of the workers.

In line with this position, and supposedly in efforts to hold their employés' confidence, the principal manufacturers, representing more than 90 per cent of the industry, announced cuts in working hours, from 40 to 36 hours a week, without any loss of pay to workers.

The prime point at issue, which was still to be settled, was how elections should be held in the plants, under federal supervision, and what specific questions should be placed before the employés.

Differ Over Ballot Questions.

The manufacturers were reported as insistent that they never could agree to any elections by which the workers would be asked to choose between representation by company unions or by the American Federation of Labor. They were not ready to assent to elections on the question of whether the employés preferred representation inside or outside the plants.

The manufacturers were said to be willing to submit to elections, if individuals were put up by name, whether in or out of the industry, in or out of the federation of labor, provided the choice was between individuals and not in any case between a union or nonunion choice.

The union men insist the elections should be held on the desire of the men to be represented by the American Federation of Labor.

In this situation it was reported tonight that a middle ground has been found acceptable to both sides, although in the case of the manufacturers it appeared that they accepted it with greatest reluctance and only in the face of the President's forceful threat.

President Roosevelt met newspaper men this afternoon at his regular press conference. He declared he was holding himself in readiness to meet with either or both sides of the controversy at any time.

May Delay Vacation.

The President acknowledged that he could not leave next Tuesday on his long planned fishing trip unless he had settled not only the controversy in the automobile industry but three other pressing problems as well. Pleading jocularly for the reporters to pray for him, the President gave every indication that he still hopes to take his well earned vacation.

The three other obstacles before the President are: First, the formulation of a definite and permanent policy for reletting the air mail contracts to private companies; second, an agreement with congress on the independent offices bill carrying the much fought over provisions for increased payments to war veterans and restoration of pay cuts to federal employés, and lastly, a settlement of the pending controversy over railway wages, or at least the setting up of machinery for an amicable negotiation of that controversy.

The President refused to discuss the possibility of his inducing congress to pass the Wagner industrial disputes bill, and he would not verify or deny whether he had held it over the heads of the automobile manufacturers, as was reported in THE TRIBUNE this morning.

Senator Gives Warning.

However, it was learned definitly that the industrialists received the warning, delivered through a United States senator, and that it scared them aplenty and to the point where they are willing to accept a reasonable compromise.

The Wagner bill, in addition to giving the national labor board drastic powers over labor disputes, would practically outlaw all company unions and thus compel industries to recognize national and local labor unions.

The manufacturers, it is known, caused an independent survey to be made to determine whether the bill could be passed by congress over the strenuous opposition from industry generally. They came to the conclusion, it was learned, that the bill could be defeated if the automobile strike was averted, but that if a strike is called the President could obtain its adoption without delay.

One report to the manufacturers, it was learned, was that if a strike paralyzed the important automobile industry, and President Roosevelt called publicly upon congress to pass the Wagner bill immediately so that he would have a weapon with which to enforce a settlement of the strike, the pressure would be so great upon congress, that the bill could be passed within 24 to 48 hours.

The action of the employers in voluntarily reducing working hours to 36 per week was seen as a definite move toward demonstrating to the workers that their best interest would be served by voting, when the elections are held, to sustain the company unions.

AUTO FACTORIES CUTTING HOURS, SPEEDING WORK

Pay Is Same; Detroit Expects Peace.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 23.—[Special.] — While President Roosevelt wrestled in Washington for settlement of the automobile controversy and to halt a strike that might wreck industrial recovery, the automobile industry here today was hastening into effect a ten per cent increase in wage rates and a ten per cent decrease in weekly working hours.

Both sides, employers and workers, and Detroit business folk in general spent another day of watchful waiting, and strong belief seemed to prevail that a settlement of some sort will be reached.

With the union officials and the leaders in the industry concentrated in Washington there was little activity here, save in the plants which put on new bursts of speed to turn out cars and trucks to catch up with the unfilled orders.

The reduction of weekly hours of productive labor in the motor factories from 40 to 36, and a compensating ten per cent increase in wage rates, were to be placed in effect not later than March 31 under the recommendations of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in agreement with NRA.

Starts Ahead of Time.

General Motors today launched the 36 hour week in its factories. Notices are being posted in all its plants throughout the country and an unofficial estimate is that 75,000 workers will be affected by the change. The corporation found it impossible to make the change simultaneously in all plants, because of bookkeeping, but the plan, it was said, is to be extended as rapidly as possible.

Formal notices announcing the new scale were posted in Buick and Fisher Body plants.

Reports from the factory areas were that in Hudson, Chevrolet, Chrysler, and other plants in the national chamber the new 36 hour week was sliding into effect. The Packard Motor Car company was reported to have been operating under the new schedule of a 36 hour week and a ten per cent increase in pay rates since Monday, every one in the plant to whom the code is applicable receiving the rates.

Ford's Previous Raise.

Ford Motor company, not a member of the chamber, more than a week ago announced its restoration of the $5 a day minimum wage for its 47,000 employés, of whom 32,680 in the Detroit area alone are thus increased from $4 and $4.40 a day to $5.

The national chamber represents 31 companies employing 183,000 workers, and by April 1 all are to be under the new schedule, according to the program.

An official of the Hudson Motor Car company said that owing to the rush of production many workers were getting in a 48 hour week.

"The agreement," he said, "calls for an average week of 36 hours over the 48 hour per week limit. At present the general run is in excess of 36 hours weekly, and when production slackens the schedule will be adjusted to balance the year's work to a 36 hour basis."

Meanwhile the sentiment prevalent in downtown Detroit was that the automobile manufacturers are adamantine in declaring they will not give recognition to the American Federation of Labor unions. This has been a traditional open shop area and so has the automobile industry.

Incidentally, it was indicated that the statement of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce given out at Washington last night accusing the American Federation of Labor of trying to make a closed shop of the industry was put out as an answer to a radio speech last night by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

"Naturally," said one industrialist, "the automobile chamber of commerce couldn't let Mr. Green make all the closing statements."

Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, came to town today to give a lecture in the town hall series at the Cass theater. It was a regulation speech.

Auto Industry Going Ahead.

Showing how the automotive industry figures as a bulwark in recovery, Miss Perkins unleashed a few statistics, showing factory employment in Michigan has risen 68.8 per cent since last March and in the same period pay rolls have increased 146 per cent.

"Michigan's strides towards recovery," she said, "are founded principally on a 41.5 per cent increase in automobile production over 1932. How was this possible? It was brought about largely through the increased incomes of farmers in the south and west, and of industrial and mine workers."

Among the arguments presented to President Roosevelt and Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson by the Michigan union men it developed today was one concerning the seasonal character of the industry.

EASTMAN WILL SEEK AGREEMENT TODAY IN RAIL PAY DISPUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—Though refusing to discuss what took place in two conferences he held today with the railroad conference committee of managers, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, said he would meet tomorrow with the Railway Labor Executives' association in his efforts to settle the rail wage controversy.

The coördinator was believed to have obtained what the managements would agree to for submission to the employé spokesmen tomorrow. The conferences followed a long session with the employé group yesterday. The coördinator, it is understood, as the result of that conference, was able to indicate to the railroad managers on what basis labor might agree to settle.

President Roosevelt, who is represented by the coördinator, has urged that the "status quo" be maintained for at least six months with consideration in the meantime to be accorded the lowest paid classes of railway employés. The "status quo" would mean continuation of the plan under which 10 per cent is deducted from the pay of employés. Termination of that agreement July 1 has been demanded by the labor representatives.

OPERATORS CLASH WITH LA GUARDIA OVER TAXI STRIKE

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—Mayor F. H. La Guardia and the fleet taxicab operators clashed sharply today as the rioting among the striking drivers subsided.

The mayor, lashing out angrily at those criticizing him as a result of the riots, accused the company operators of trying to becloud the issue, of trying to conceal "the fact that they have been paying starvation wages."

Some of the company officials, on the other hand, announced their intention of appealing to Gov. Lehman for intervention in the strike unless the violence was stopped by the police immediately.

Representatives of all factions concerned in the strike were requested to appear at his office tomorrow morning by Mayor La Guardia late today.

The mayor will be assisted by Ben Golden, secretary of the regional labor board, and President Deutsch of the board of aldermen, chairman of the city's taxicab committee. It is understood that the mayor will make a strong effort to bring about peace in the industry at the round table meeting.

ASK PRESIDENT TO CURB LABOR UNION ACTIVITY

An appeal to curb the efforts of labor organizers to exploit American workmen and paralyze industry, was sent to President Roosevelt last night by the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

The wire declared that thousands of willing workers are being deprived of an opportunity to earn their livelihood at high wages, because of the greed of union leadership "from the top to the bottom," and that plants are closing daily because of violence and unlawful activities.

"We respectfully submit that adoption of the Wagner labor disputes bill will throw the country into much deeper depression than that from which we are emerging."

Jas. H. Rand Jr. Startles House Committee.

to furnished them and suggested that the committee call Dr. Wirt.

"Are you making a direct charge, or one by inference, that President Roosevelt has surrounded himself with men advocating the overthrow of this government?" pressed Chairman Sam Rayburn [Dem., Tex.]. Again the witness responded with the suggestion that Dr. Wirt be summoned, but the committee was not satisfied.

"You have quoted Dr. Wirt in a way to reflect on unnamed members of the brain trust in statements that, if true, are damnable and traitorous," insisted Representative Clarence F. Lea [Dem., Cal.]. "The committee should hear the full statement and there should be an investigation. That letter involves the integrity of the government."

Pressed further by Representative Bulwinkle for the names of the men referred to in the letter, Mr. Rand declared again that he could not furnish them.

Margin Control Provisions.

"I assume," he said, however, "I know in a general way who they are."

Governor Black told the committees of both the senate and the house that representatives of the federal reserve board had conferred with treasury officials and other experts in drafting of the revised stock market bill. The board's interest, he pointed out, was directed principally at the margin requirement provisions of the measure.

"The federal reserve board," he told the committee, "is ready and willing to assume control of margin requirements if given the proper power. I personally feel that it would be more scientific for the board to have flexible power to regulate margin requirements, but I make no request along that line."

As drawn now, he pointed out, the measure provides fixed margin requirements which under exigent circumstances the board would have the power to change. This system, he said, was satisfactory.

The Case of 1929.

The powers which the bill gives the Federal Reserve board over credit, said Gov. Black, will materially supplement the authority it already has under the Glass-Steagall act to regulate credit.

Passage of the act, he stated, will give the reserve system much more control over credit than it had in 1929, when the resdiscount rate was its principal credit control mechanism.

"I think nothing could have halted the gambling in 1929 after it got started," said the reserve board chairman in response to a question. "But I think if the board had the power then that it possesses now it could have done much more to curb the orgy of speculation."

Preceding Gov. Black on the stand before the house committee was Winfield T. Riefler, chairman of the central statistical board and President Roosevelt's interpreting economist.

Richard Whitney Cool.

He indorsed the provisions of the revised bill, declaring that it would go far toward curbing speculation and even farther toward preventing speculation from "feeding on itself" and pyramiding values.

Before the senate banking and currency committee Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, reiterated the objections to the bill which he voiced yesterday before the house committee, and Tom K. Smith, assistant secretary of the treasury, evinced the same lukewarmness toward the provisions of the revised measure which he displayed in testimony before the house committee several days ago.

WIRT WILLING TO TALK.

Dr. William A. Wirt, head of the Gary school system and a nationally known educator, said last night that he was willing at any time to testify before the interstate commerce committee of the house of representatives on his charges that certain brain trusters are plotting a revolt in the United States.

He asserted that he had given James H. Rand permission to present an article written by him to the committee yesterday. He added that a number of copies of this article had been made and disseminated rather widely.

"I have not yet determined," Dr. Wirt said, "whether I shall make public the names of the brain trusters to whom I referred."

Author of "Gary System."

Dr. Wirt has been in educational work since 1895. He was graduated from De Pauw university and the University of Chicago and later made a study of teaching methods abroad. He was superintendent of schools in Redkey and Bluffton, Ind., before becoming head of the school system in Gary in 1907.

His inauguration of the "Gary system," under which both study and play of children are supervised, has been pointed to as an outstanding educational accomplishment.

In 1914 he was paid $10,000 by the New York City schools to spend one week in each month there as adviser. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

MRS. INSULL'S TROUBLES GROW; U. S. GOES TO AID

Asks Britain to Let Her In; Paris Bars Her.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 23.—By the grace of American assistance, Mrs. Samuel Insull probably will be able to leave Greece tomorrow if the British government, which now is the last obstacle, agrees to her entering England.

The British have not yet made up their minds, but the British minister, Sydney Waterlow, late today telegraphed London for the second time after the American minister, Lincoln MacVeagh, had interceded in her behalf. An answer is expected tomorrow. Mrs. Insull was greatly distressed at her inability to leave Athens tonight.

U. S. Goes to Her Aid.

The job of obtaining travel permits for the stranded wife of the fugitive Chicago utilities promoter, who apparently is still at sea in his chartered ship, the Maiotis, became really acute this morning. Thereupon the American government took the initiative in her behalf. It appeared that all countries were chary of admitting her because they were under a delusion regarding her standing with Washington.

Consul General Leland Morris instructed Vice Consul Henry A. W. Beck to offer his services. Beck telephoned Mrs. Insull. She replied, however, that her passport was in the hands of an American who was then trying to obtain visas.

Later this agent gave up the task and Beck telephoned again. Mrs. Insull, in great distress, announced that the French again had declined to grant her a visa. Beck immediately telephoned the French consulate and assured the officers there that Mrs. Insull was an American citizen in good standing whose passport was in order.

Barred From Staying in Paris.

The French consul replied that he had wired Paris for instructions yesterday and the reply had just come that in no case was Mrs. Insull to be given anything but a transit visa. She must leave Paris on the first conveyance to her destination.

Beck attempted to repeat the information to Mrs. Insull, but she had left for the French consulate to plead in her own behalf. Beck left his name and phone number with the request that she call when she returned. Later she telephoned, greatly upset because she could not remain in Paris as long as she liked.

Mrs. Insull has not yet applied for a Jugo-Slavian visa. She must go through Jugo-Slavia, Italy and Switzerland if, as intended, she travels by the Simplon-Orient express to Paris. No visas are required by Italy and Switzerland, and it is possible that she means to pay the double fee at the Jugo-Slavian frontier, which would enable her to go through.

There has been no word from Insull since Wednesday night. Early tomorrow he will have been six days at sea. There are no reports of his movements except an unconfirmable rumor in the Greek press that the Maiotis is circling in an obscure pocket in the Mediterranean at a speed of two knots while negotiations for a haven of refuge are going on. The conclusion here is that these negotiations are being pursued by Insull's agents in London.

BRITISH SEEK HAVEN

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 23.—Friends of Samuel Insull tonight said the 74 year old fugitive is quite comfortable aboard the small Greek tramp steamer Maiotis, but they refused to divulge his destination. They claimed to have had a message from the vessel stating that Insull is in much better health as a result of his sea voyage and that he is prepared to stay aboard as long as his friends want him to.

"Maybe it will be necessary to keep him aboard and out of reach of American authorities several more days," one of Insull's friends said. "We are negotiating for a permit for him to enter a certain country and as soon as it is granted Insull will go there.

"But we want to make certain he cannot be molested or arrested. American newspaper men have given him no rest in Greece, but once the American newspapers know he is beyond the reach of American authorities they will recall their correspondents and leave him in peace."

Plan Talkie of Insull's Life.

An amazing twist to the Insull story was revealed today when it was learned that some of Insull's supporters are negotiating with a certain London motion picture company to make a talkie of Insull's life. They plan to bring many actual characters into the story with the exception of Insull himself. The film, it is proposed, will record actual events in Insull's life, particularly the events in Greece and his dramatic flight from that country.

One of Insull's personal friends here is a scenario writer and has already started writing the script. The writer is a woman.

The film, if produced, will show Insull as a great financier, who was misunderstood, maltreated by authorities, and hounded almost to death for a wrongdoing of which he was innocent. The film will show Insull eventually becoming rich and famous again in a foreign land. The climax, according to the script writer, will show Insull returning to the United States with his honor vindicated.

RETAILERS MUST DISPLAY CODE'S RULES ON LABOR

Ten thousand Chicago retailers who are operating under the NRA. will receive notification from the Chicago retail code authority within the next few days that they must get official copies of the labor provisions of their code and post them in their places of business. The retailers' code applies to all retail businesses within the city except drug, food, and tobacco stores, beauty shops, florists, and dealers in sewing machines and coal. These operate under other codes.

Applications for copies of the labor provisions must be made before April 14, the local code authority stated yesterday. These may be made to the code authority office at 111 West Washington street, through Elmer F. Wieboldt, president, or Bruce Mac Leish, treasurer.

"LOST" RECORDS TURN UP AND SOLVE MYSTERY

The missing original court records in the robbery case against Harold Erlandson, former Capone alcohol peddler, were found yesterday, thus clearing up a mystery.

Because the original files were missing and incorrect duplicates substituted in their place, Judge Walter P. Steffen of the Criminal court Thursday forced Erlandson to trial. Erlandson had already had 27 continuances. The jury trying him required only 2 minutes to find him guilty. Judge Steffen immediately imposed sentence of 1 year to life in prison.

The case disposed of, Judge Steffen ordered an inquiry into the disappearance of the original files. A thorough search in the Criminal court clerk's office was made yesterday, and the original files were found. They had been misplaced because of a clerical error, according to Chief Deputy Clerk Meizar Delano. He said the original files were numbered 67,431. Instead of being filed under that number they were filed under number 57,431.

Chief Clerk Delano also explained the duplicate files. He said he had prepared them from what records were available when he discovered a short time ago that the original papers were missing.

CANADA REFUSES TO SPEED RETURN OF M. J. INSULL

Minister of Justice Says "Chicago Can Wait."

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 23.—Counsel for Martin J. Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities promoter, who is impatiently awaiting extradition to Chicago so he can gain his freedom on bail, today gave up in despair and said there was no telling when the authorities at Ottawa will issue their warant of surrender to the Chicago police.

Insull's lawyer, J. C. McRuer, has maintained all this week that the warant could be expected daily and as late as yesterday he expressed confidence that Insull would be turned over to the American authorities within 48 hours.

"But now," says McRuer, "there is no accounting for the dilatory action of the Ottawa officials. I thought the warant would surely be here today, but they have not even replied to my letter waiving the two weeks' delay."

Wants To Be "Railroaded."

McRuer insisted that the two weeks' provision should not apply after habeas corpus action has been taken and the courts have ruled. But the Ottawa officials, according to reports, were not convinced and are still in doubt.

The purpose of the delay in issuing the warant is to prevent "railroading" a fugitive. Insull, however, wants nothing more right now than to be railroaded. Thus, there is presented the paradoxical situation of a government extending safeguards to a fugitive who does not want them.

"We are carrying out the provisions of the law. Chicago can wait until we get ready to issue the warant."

Treaty Is Cited.

Article 23 of the United States-Canadian extradition treaty provides that a warant of surrender shall not be issued until fifteen days after commitment, or, if application for a writ of habeas corpus is made, until judgment is rendered thereon.

McRuer and Emil Sauer, the American consul general here, regard this as plain language, but reports from Ottawa indicate that the state and justice departments are taking their own leisurely time, scrutinizing the evidence and indulging that ministerial discretion reserved to the burocacy after the courts have ruled.

Toronto officials say they understand this is not regarded in Ottawa as an ordinary case, so it appears that "the name of Insull," which once so proudly adorned brochures to prospective investors, commands some respect in Canada as well as in Greece.

DAIRYMAN DENOUNCES WALLACE; HEARING ON CHARGES CONSIDERED

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—The farm administration may ask John Brandt, president of the Land o' Lakes creamery of Minneapolis, to prove at a formal hearing charges he made against Secretary Wallace. Secretary Wallace was expected to return to Washington tonight. His assistants have barred Brandt from the department.

Brandt said before representatives of dairy cooperative marketing associations called to draft a protest against the administration milk policies, that Wallace was "unreliable" and had failed to carry out an agreement to purchase butter bought by Land o' Lakes to stabilize the market.

The farm administration declared it paid the company $11,055.53 and would consider further payment if Brandt would submit an itemized statement of expenditures, but that so far he had failed to do so.

A CHICAGO BOUND TRAIN WRECKED; SEVERAL INJURED

Denver, Colo., March 24 [Saturday].—(AP)—A Union Pacific crack passenger train, the Portland Rose, was derailed 32 miles east of Rawlins, Wyo., late last night. The engine, baggage car, two chair cars, and a tourist car left the rails. The engineer, fireman, and several passengers are reported injured.

Special Speeds to Wreck.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 24 [Saturday].—(AP)—The Salt Lake Tribune was informed by long distance telephone early today that a crack Union Pacific train, the Portland Rose, was off the tracks between Rawlins and Hanna, Wyo.

The train runs between Portland, Ore., and Chicago. The scene of the reported wreck is 150 miles west of Cheyenne, Wyo.

N. E. Williams, general manager of the line, left Ogden immediately by special train for the scene of the derailment.

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—John Maynard Harlan, lawyer, traction expert, and one time Chicago political leader, died here today in his home at 122 East 82d street after an illness of four months. He was 69 years old. He had been a resident of New York since 1925, previous to which time, for many years, he had lived in Chicago.

Mr. Harlan's career was a strenuous one, and for 30 years he was a public figure, both in law and in politics. As recently as 1927 he loomed big in Chicago affairs, when he introduced and sponsored the so-called Lisman plan for settling that city's traction difficulties.

Educated at Princeton.

Mr. Harlan was born at Frankfort, Ky., a son of the late John Marshall Harlan, who served for many years as an associate justice of the United States Supreme court. Mr. Harlan was educated at Princeton university, Columbia law school, and the University of Berlin. He served for two years as his father's law clerk, and in 1888 went to Chicago to begin the practice of law.

Soon afterward Mr. Harlan entered Chicago politics. In 1896 he was elected alderman of the old 24th ward. In the fall of 1897 he ran as an independent candidate for mayor on the Republican ticket. His effort was not successful. In 1901 he turned down a nomination offer, but in 1905, with the support of the regular Republican party, he made a determined bid for the mayoralty. He became the Republican nominee, but failed in the election.

Mr. Harlan continued his political interests in spite of this defeat, and his voice for a time assumed national importance. The late E. N. Hurley, in his book, "The Bridge to France," credited Mr. Harlan with being the discoverer of Woodrow Wilson as a presidential possibility.

Deserts Wilson Banner.

In 1916, however, Mr. Harlan had deserted the Wilson banner, and he stumped Illinois for Theodore Roosevelt by running as a delegate at large to the national convention. Four years later Mr. Harlan became a candidate for governor of Illinois, and at that time he was identified as the "Harding-Coolidge" candidate. He took this occasion to lambast another candidate for governor—Len Small.

Small received the nomination, and subsequently won the election, but the records of the campaign at that time reveal that Mr. Harlan's chief attack on Small consisted of charges that Small was withholding $350,000 of interest money he allegedly owed the state as a former state treasurer.

Since 1920 Mr. Harlan apparently abandoned politics and devoted himself practically entirely to law. In this he specialized in traction affairs. As early as 1905 he was a prime figure in Chicago's traction problems and represented the court in Judge Grosscup hearings.

Submits Traction Plan.

In 1926 Mr. Harlan returned to Chicago from New York, whence he had moved the year before, and submitted a detailed plan to the city council for the settlement of the city's traction difficulties. He declared at the time he had the backing of New York bankers, as represented by Frederick Lisman. The principal feature of the Lisman plan called for a twenty year franchise. The plan attracted great attention in Chicago, although there was strong opposition in some quarters.

Funeral services for Mr. Harlan will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, Washington. Burial will be in Rock Creek cemetery, Washington. Surviving Mr. Harlan are his widow, Elizabeth Palmer Flagg Harlan; three daughters, Mrs. R. A. Derby, Mrs. Walter Stevenson, Miss Edith Harlan, and a son, John Harlan.

Sign New Bill to Trap Insull; Consuls Can Extradite Him

As long as Samuel Insull roams the seas aboard the little Greek tramp steamer Maiotis he is safe from arrest and extradition to the United States, but if he lands in a country in which the United States exercises extraterritorial jurisdiction, the American consul may sit as a court and extradite him to Chicago.

This explanation of the new bill signed yesterday by President Roosevelt was made by First Assistant United States Attorney Leo J. Hassenauer in the absence of United States Attorney Green. The bill was passed by congress at the request of Secretary of State Hull to prevent Insull from landing in the countries of northern Africa where, at last reports, the Greek ship was heading.

Gives Consuls Authority.

The countries affected by the bill are China, Egypt, Ethiopia, Oman, and Morocco. American consuls in each are empowered to hear the Insull case in place of the courts of the country and order Insull extradited for trial in Chicago.

In asking the senate to pass the bill, Secretary Hull said: "There is no present provision in the law whereby American citizens or nationals who are fugitives from justice may be extradited as between the United States and the jurisdiction of [illegible] officers or representatives who are vested with judicial authority in countries where the United States exercises extraterritorial jurisdiction, and the experience of this department has indicated that it is very desirable that this omission be supplied in order that havens of refuge shall not exist for such fugitives."

Another outgrowth of the Insull matter also occupied Mr. Hassenauer's attention yesterday. Under his direction, Constantine Eftax, former Chicago druggist and present resident of Greece, appeared before the federal grand jury for questioning. Several months ago it was charged that Eftax held a $100,000 fund for Insull in Eftax's account at the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

Eftax has consistently denied this. He returned from Greece a few days ago with the announced intention of starting legal action against those who had tied up his account in injunction proceedings.

Testimony Kept Secret.

Mr. Hassenauer announced that Eftax would reappear before the grand jury Tuesday for a continuation of the examination. The nature of his testimony was not made public but it was reported that Hassenauer had intended questioning him concerning his life, both here and in Greece, and did not intend going into the question of whether he knew Insull or held money for him until next week.

State's Attorney Courtney said yesterday he would confer with Judge Grover C. Niemeyer, formerly his first assistant, and with Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hara on the state's case against Insull. Judge Niemeyer and O'Hara originally handled the Insull extradition for the prosecutor's office. Mr. Courtney said today he would issue a statement on his future plans.

dent of the company, and three others were recently convicted of conspiracy in the Criminal court.

Yesterday Ald. Massen said that Edgar B. Tolman, appointed special master in chancery to fix compensation in the case, had fixed his at $100 a day, six days a week, for 56 consecutive weeks, a total of $33,600. The attorneys were paid $47,800 and McGuire, Undeutsch & McGuire, New York audtors, approximately $31,000.

Cornelius J. Doyle, Springfield lawyer and former chairman of the Republican state central committee, was questioned. Ald. Massen testified that Attorney Doyle had been employed as counsel for the Central Life company at the same time that he had been attorney for Ald. Massen as ancillary receiver of the Security Life at Springfield.

Mr. Doyle testified that there had been no conflict of interest in his employment by both parties to the reinsurance contract.

Attorney Doyle and Attorney Alfred S. Lytton of Bull, Lytton & Olson, both made spirited defenses of Judge Lindley's conduct in the Security Life case. Before Attorney Lytton took the stand, however, Attorney Edward R. Elliott testified that he has been threatened with a contempt of court citation by Judge Lindley and that his client, the Pacific States Life Insurance company, had received other threats when he sought to appeal from Judge Lindley's order giving the reinsurance contract to Central Life.

He first took his appeal to Judge Lindley at Danville, where the judge refused to enter it, he said, on the double ground that the order was not appealable and that an order in the case could not be entered at Danville, outside the Chicago judicial district.

Previous testimony had shown, however, that Judge Lindley entered other orders in the case at Danville. Attorney Elliott stated that in October, 1932, he went to the office of the clerk of the District court and asked for documents in the case preparatory to appealing to the Circuit Court of Appeals. Judge Lindley called him into court, he charged, and told him that he would be cited for contempt if he made any further efforts to appeal.

GREELEY, COLO., TAKES STEPS TO KEEP ITSELF DRY

Greeley, Colo., March 23.—(AP)—This prairie town, founded by New Englanders, Ohioans, and Indianians who heeded Horace Greeley's "Go west" cry, took legal steps today to safeguard its heritage of prohibition—an issue that has divided the population during its 64 years of existence.

A new union colony was incorporated to perpetuate the colony Greeley helped to found in 1870.

The purposes of the new colony are to perpetuate the aims of the old organization, chief among which was to "prevent intoxicating liquors from being dispensed in any form in any public place."

The union colony deeded the site for the present town and about 60,000 acres in the immediate vicinity and authorized the organization to recover title and possession of the land in cases of violation of the liquor prohibition.

Because of the provisions of these old deeds, Greeley has always been "bone dry" and continues so although Colorado has legalized the sale of beer and liquor.

2 Cut Rate Barber Shops Targets of Stench Bombs

Stench bombs were thrown into two cut rate barber shops on the south side last night. The first missile was tossed through a window of a shop at 824 East 47th street. The second was hurled through a window in the shop of Felix Chultz at 8418 Muskegon avenue. Police said both places advertised haircuts at 25 cents.

BANDIT PAIR ROB DRIVER, THEN KILL HIM AS HE FLEES

Morris Krinsky, 38 years old, 1259 South Kildare avenue, wantonly shot yesterday by a bandit, died early today in Mount Sinai hospital. Krinsky, a driver for the Eagle Wet Wash laundry, was stopped by two gunmen in front of 1339 Lawndale avenue. One of them appeared to be intoxicated. They took $28 from Krinsky, then one of them ordered:

"Run and run fast or you'll be shot." Krinsky obeyed. He ran, but apparently not fast enough for the robber who had given the command. The bandit fired twice and Krinsky fell with two bullets in his back.

Because Gus Anderson, 5304 South Troy street, a milk driver, had no money in his pockets a bandit struck him down with the butt of his shotgun last night and probably fractured his skull. Anderson was in a liquor shop at 807 West 69th street when two robbers entered. They took $75 from Max Dofsky, 4317 Flournoy street, the manager, and then searched Anderson. Finding no money, one of the robbers struck him.

HOUSE CAFE RACE SHOWDOWN SET FOR NEXT MONTH

Vote on Resolution of De Priest April 9.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—The current race feud on Capitol hill over the house restaurant ban on Negroes will come to a showdown on Monday, April 9, it was assured today.

The principal congressional combatants—Oscar De Priest [Rep., Ill.], lone Negro member of congress, and Lindsay Warren [Dem., N. C.], chairman of the accounts committee—each scored a point today. Mr. Warren lashed Mr. De Priest in a speech on the floor of the house in answer to the Chicagoan's attack of Wednesday.

Gets 145th Signatur..

Representative De Priest, however, secured the necessary 145th signature on his discharge petition to force a vote on Mr. Warren's power to prescribe rules and regulations for the house restaurant. Under the rules of the house, his resolution challenging that authority will be forced to a vote on the floor the second Monday of next month.

The vote on the De Priest resolution is expected to split the house virtually along the Mason-Dixon line, with indications that southern Democracy will win the test.

In his speech Representative Warren reviewed the jurisdiction which he said the accounts committee chairman has exercised over the house restaurant for years, and asserted that he had made no new rule to bar anyone from the dining rooms.

Infers Political Motive.

Inferring that Representative De Priest has a political motive in making an issue of the restaurant ban on Negroes, Mr. Warren stated:

"I shall not dwell on the fact that that I have received 50 or more letters from the First congressional district of Illinois, from colored citizens, telling me the motive behind this thing."

Not once in his speech did the North Carolinian refer to Representative De Priest by name, but the implication was clear when he declared that "there was one man who could have stopped" the demonstration last Saturday by a group of 30 Negro students from Howard university.

"He did not because he did not want to do it," Mr. Warren said.

St. Vincent de Paul Spends 6 Million for 1933 Relief

TRACTION BOND OWNERS OPPOSED TO FORECLOSURE

Will Ask Wilkerson to Delay Forced Sale.

Representatives of the senior security holders of the surface and elevated lines, in a conference yesterday, took steps to avert the threatened foreclosure sales of the transit properties, which have been in federal receivership for some time. It was decided to ask Judge James H. Wilkerson at a hearing Monday to postpone foreclosure action in the hope that a solution of the problem may be worked out by the bondholders and the city officials.

The conference took place in the office of Attorney Walter L. Fisher, who recently presented a reorganization plan, based on the 1930 unification ordinance, at the behest of Judge Wilkerson. On Wednesday Judge Wilkerson ordered representatives of the transit security holders to appear and indicated he would order sale of the properties as a result of the killing of the 1930 franchise ordinance by the city council. A new ordinance is being drafted by the aldermen.

Mayor Cites Objections.

The council acted after Mayor Kelly had pointed out a number of objections to the merger franchise. Meantime the reorganization plan agreed upon by the security holders of the properties is held in abeyance.

"I shall recommend to the court Monday that action on the foreclosure sales be deferred until we find out what the city intends to do in the way of an ordinance," said Mr. Fisher.

"Putting the properties on the auction block is the worst thing that could be done at this time," said Francis X. Busch, counsel for the first mortgage bond protective committee of the elevated lines. This committee yesterday approved the Fisher reorganization plan without reservation.

Want More Time.

"We will ask for time," declared U. S. Schwartz, counsel for the first mortgage bond protective committee of the Chicago City Railway company, which owns the south side street car lines. "Whatever we do in the way of a reorganization is dependent upon an ordinance."

The position of the first mortgage committee of the Chicago Railways company, which owns the north and west side street car systems, was said to be in line with that of the other two protective bond groups.

FRANCE CHARGES GERMANS BROKE TREATY OF PEACE

Asks Britain to Join Her in Arms Alliance.

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—A revival of the old entente cordiale which brought Great Britain into the world war is sought by France in a secret communication to London elaborating on an arms note.

The latter document, made public tonight, itself referred guardedly to this French desire in discussing the necessity of safeguarding against violations of any arms convention.

"If established violations endanger the security of a state, common action by the powers should be used for the benefit of the threatened nation," the note said. "This common action should come into play particularly if the violation degenerated into aggression."

Leaves Door Open.

If British guarantees of aid against an aggressor are not forthcoming, the note makes it plain that the Geneva disarmament conference is at an end.

It leaves the door open, however, for a new conference which would recognize and limit German rearmament, limit the arms of other countries, and settle the security question.

Such a conference was interpreted as essentially European and political in nature and one in which the United States and Russia probably would not be asked to participate.

The signing of an arms convention, the note added, permitting Germany to rearm would be a blow to the league of nations, to which, it asserted, "France remains faithful."

Praise for League.

"Whatever may have been said or attempted against the league, it remains the only organization capable of furnishing a collective guarantee of peace," the message maintained.

The flat assertion that Germany is violating the post-war Versailles treaty by rearming was made in the note, which said also that France refuses to sanction this rearmament and at the same time join other powers in disarmament moves.

"Germany is bringing up her armaments to a much higher level than that authorized by the treaty," the communication affirmed.

Referring to the covenant on disarmament, the note said the disarmament commission "is entitled to say in conjunction with all other interests at stake whether these principles be departed from."

Five Problems Listed.

Five problems were listed as demanding settlement:

The status of semi-military organizations—such as the Nazi storm troopers in Germany, which the reich says are not soldiers, but which France wants counted as effectives.

The methods of disarmament supervision.

Temporary and eventually permanent limitation on arms budgets.

Guarantees of the observance of any pact.

"France can neither understand nor admit that exaggerated pretentions to rearmament formulated on one side should constitute an argument for asking of other powers the reductions of armaments," it was pointed out in the note.

Regarding a British plan which would "associate an immediate reduction in armaments imposed upon certain powers with an immediate increase in armaments granted other powers, the communication said:

Rejects German Claims.

France refused, further, "the immediate claim by Germany for a regular army of 300,000 men with corresponding equipments without a previous examination of the present state of disarming" and insisted on the observance of the league's covenant clause on disarmament provisions.

"If nations are liberated from the juridical obligations to which they subscribe," it was explained, "the powers would take into consideration only their direct interests.

"Governments made wise by the lessons of the past would prefer before binding themselves to be certain that a new convention will not meet with the fate of military clauses end treaties of peace.

"Put more briefly, they would consent to be the victims of their own good faith.

"Every new concession leads to new demands or a new violation of the treaty."

As evidence of the French desire for an agreement, even at a sacrifice, if security is provided, the note pointed out that France between 1920 and 1932 "reduced the term of military service 66 per cent, the number of divisions 50 per cent, and her effectives 25 per cent, and between June, 1932, and June, 1933, reduced the national defense budget $165,000,000.

CHICAGO FLYING PARTY READY TO QUIT FAR NORTH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DAWSON CREEK, B. C., March 23.—Four months of silence was broken today when Capt. C. A. Simmons, one of a flying party of five Americans which crashed last August in the upper Halfway country, sent a telegram from Attachie, at the confluence of the Halfway and Peace rivers, saying the plane had been repaired and the party was preparing to fly out.

The party consisted of Capt. Simmons and Alton Seaman, Wyoming engineers; John Bonnell, pilot; Herman Hatfield, mechanic, and Paul Rossbach of Chicago. They flew from Chicago to Dawson Creek last summer accompanied by Mrs. Hugo A. Rossbach of Lombard, Ill. Mrs. Rossbach remained here while the five men flew into the interior, planning to go to Great Bear lake and see the sights of the far north. They cracked up 250 miles northwest of here.

Early in November Seaman, Bonnell and Hatfield came here by foot, pack horses and sleigh. They returned up the frozen Halfway river with a load of supplies and repairs and accompanied by Mrs. Rossbach, and remained in an improvised camp and hangar repairing the plane.

Simmons walked the 100 miles to Attachie on snowshoes, and is returning with a truckload of oil and gas up the frozen river. He said the plane is ready to fly as soon as he reaches it with the fuel and that the party should arrive here in two or three weeks.

THOUSANDS ROAR FAITH IN IL DUCE'S FASCIST BANNER

Observe 15th Anniversary of Blackshirt Birthday.

ROME, March 23.—(AP)—The whole of the Italian people has flocked to the Fascist banner, Premier Mussolini, speaking from a balcony of the Venezia palace, today told cheering thousands of Black Shirts, celebrating the 15th anniversary of the party's foundation.

"Fifteen years ago there was only a handful of men around the banner," the premier said. "Today the whole nation is around it. We have fought for this faith and we are always ready to fight for it. Are you willing?"

The crowd shouted a tumultuous "yes!"

Founders of Party Present.

The ceremonies began with the arrival from Milan of a group of men who met with Mussolini in San Sepolcro square, Milan, on March 23, 1919, to found the party. Mussolini and thousands of Rome Fascists met them at the station today.

The Milanese and Romans paraded to the Venezia square, where a great crowd had assembled to honor the "San Sepolcristi," as the survivors of the historic meeting are known. There are less than 100 of these men still alive and they are held in great esteem by the Fascist public.

Promptly at 11 a. m., the hour when Benito Mussolini, then a newspaper editor, officially created the party, Church bells were set to ringing in cities, towns and villages throughout the country.

Crowds Burst Into Cheers.

The massed thousands in the square burst into shouts of "Viva Il Fascismo" and "Via Il Duce." All of them wore black, those not garbed in uniform displaying the emblematic black shirt.

Thereafter the speech with which the Duce inaugurated the organization in 1919 and spurred his followers to fight against the rising communist movement in Italy was read.

PRETTY AMANUENSIS AND SUDDEN RELIGION TRAP A FRENCH SPY

TOULON, France, March 23.—(AP)—Camille Andre, former broker, was convicted of espionage today because of a pretty "stenographer" and a sudden burst of church going.

He was sentenced to 30 months in prison and fined 200 francs [about $12.20], while an alleged accomplice, Rene Vidal, a draftsman for the naval arsenal, was sentenced to a year in jail and fined 100 francs. They were charged with attempting to sell plans of submarine mines to the British and Japanese consuls at Marseille, who refused to buy them.

Andre, police said, gained the confidence of naval families by frequenting churches. Suspicious police sent to Paris for a pretty counter-espionage operative, who, posing as a stenographer, found suspicious documents in Andre's desk.

RUMANIA SEIZES FORMER QUEEN'S FRIEND IN PLOT

Accuses Him of Scheming to Kill Premier.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 23.—(AP)—Prof. Gomoju, a close friend of former Queen Helen, was arrested today on charges that he planned to assassinate Premier George Tatarescu and other government officials.

The authorities said the professor, one of the leading physicians of the country, had sent threatening letters to Tatarescu, various other members of the administration, and a number of influential people.

Member of Fascist Body.

It was revealed that high official circles had been in a state of near panic during the investigation of the plot. The arrest caused a sensation because the trial of forty-nine members of the Fascist iron guard accused of the murder of the late Premier Ion Duca is now under way.

Gomoju, socially prominent, was a close friend and adviser of the divorced wife of King Carol. He is chief physician at the Queen Helen hospital and administrator of a children's asylum founded by the former queen.

The professor is a member of "Kultur Ex-Patria," a national organization which sympathizes with the Iron Guard. He has been in close touch with Rumanian Macedonians, the police said, pointing out that he was born a Macedonian.

Student Leader Arrested.

Marius Constantinescu, president of the Medical Students' association, was arrested tonight in connection with the general inquiry into terrorist agitation.

There were reports that Gen. Radescu, former adjutant of Queen Helen, might be arrested also, but there was no confirmation of this.

LIMA, Peru, March 14.—[By Mail.]—Peru is a potential Mexico in a social and economic sense, although its latest revolution has not greatly changed its character as a conservative state. Its city folk of the coastal plain are making a beginning in the direction of economic nationalism, but there still remains a need for outside capital and technical help, and a market for about $20,000,000 a year in manufactured articles and foodstuffs.

At present Peru is enjoying a return of prosperity, which is reflected in its bill for imported goods. This is the highest since 1929. Peruvian farmers have sold $35,000,000 worth of cotton and $15,000,000 worth of sugar, as well as more wool, hides, fruits and vegetables. They are beginning to build and invest and buy more motor cars, radios, tractors, lumber, hardware, chemicals, foodstuffs, and silks.

U. S. Gets Big Share.

The United States' share of this trade is greater than is justified by Peruvian exports to that country, and this trade is not likely to increase greatly, even with steadily improving economic conditions here, unless prompt action is taken by the United States government to consolidate the position of its exporters here.

This action may take the form of a reciprocity agreement. The administration of President O. R. Benavides, which has brought a return of confidence to business, is anxious to make such an agreement, and it is indicated that in return for a quota on sugar and cotton Peru would be willing to make substantial concessions in import duties now levied on American products.

It is made known specifically that what Peru wants is to sell 100,000 metric tons of sugar a year to the United States, and 30,000 bales of cotton. This is long staple cotton, it is pointed out, and not in competition with United States cotton.

England Chief Peruvian Market.

England is the chief market now, not only for Peruvian cotton but for its sugar and wool, the three chief exports. Yet England only had 17 per cent of Peru's import trade last year, while the United States had 27 per cent.

Peru has a commissioner in Washington at present, waiting for a favorable opportunity to press the appeal for a lowering of the tariff bars in these particulars. In the meantime Japan is becoming an important buyer of Peruvian cotton and an increasing threat to the business of other nations.

Peru has no exchange restrictions or quotas, but is about to make changes in its own tariff laws at the July session of congress. Its tarif policy is to protect its own new industries, but as its prosperity depends almost entirely, not in part, on its export of raw commodities, it is compelled to make tarif agreements.

Suggest Three Cornered Pact.

The difficulty in this situation comes from the inevitable complaint in the United States against a Peruvian quota in sugar and cotton. It has been suggested that the commercial experts might get together on a trilateral treaty which would include Chile.

Peru and Chile are now working commercially under a modus vivendi, which expires this year, and a new treaty is in process of formulation between these two countries. Peru seeks first a settled basis for sugar sales in Chile. There is danger, she thinks, in having all her eggs in the English basket, for the collapse of that market would ruin Peru temporarily.

Under a tri-lateral agreement the United States might agree to take Chilean wines, nitrates, iodine, and other products not in competition with home products, under an agreement that Chile would take a certain amount of Peruvian sugar each year, Peru in turn agreeing to lower duties on United States manufactures in certain lines.

Would Set Unique Precedent.

Such a treaty would be a unique precedent in the new commercial bargaining of the nations. Under the present temporary agreement between Chile and Peru a 50 per cent duty discount is given by Peru on Chilean cereals, grains, garlic, malt, canned goods, glass, and raw hides. There is no tax on fruits, vegetables and certain grades of lumber. Chile, incidentally, has taken away 10 per cent of America's lumber trade in Peru during the last year, a matter which figure in new treaty negotiations. Peru also agrees to take from Chile 1,250,000 kilos of manufactured milk each year.

Peru, in return for this, gets free entry into Chile for fruits and vegetables, and 500,000 kilos of cotton textiles. Also rice, coffee, sugar, and petroleum "are not to be placed in a disadvantageous position with regard to the same products from other sources."

The new Peruvian tarif gives increased protection to local industries, lowers the duties on necessary raw materials and increases the duties on articles of luxury. It is the aim of the nationalists to become independent of foreign countries.

Factory Production Increases.

The government encourages factories, and there has been a notable growth in the manufacture of textiles, beer, lether, shoes, candles, soap, hosiery, confectionary, cement, and glass. The government may have to raise the duty against Japanese cotton goods, which conflicts with the growing market in Japan for raw cotton. Japan is also selling cement here. Due to transportation charges, chiefly port labor, it is found cheaper to buy cement in Japan for southern Chile than to ship it from here.

United States exports to Peru ran to $26,000,000 in 1929, but in 1932 they had sunk to $3,964,538. Last summer, with the changed fiscal policy, better crops and settling of trouble with Colombia, this trade began to pick up. The figures for 1933 are $4,985,293. The trend has been upward every month since last May, with some months doubling the corresponding month of the previous year.

Peruvian exporters, it is said, would prefer to trade with the United States rather than with England, not for sentimental reasons, but because they stand a chance of better prices. Complaint is made that the Liverpool buyers keep the wool exporters waiting until they have to sell at a lower price.

England Spurns Trade Pact.

In 1932 England had an opportunity to make a trade agreement with Peru but did not take advantage of it. At that time the Peruvian government, under the administration of the late Sanchez Cerro, was making things unpleasant for the English Marconi company and the Peruvian corporation, which owns three-fourths of the railroads and which is an English concern.

The Peruvian commission to London, seeking an agreement that would assure a permanent market and ready to make concessions to certain British goods, was received coldly and was disbanded. There is still a chance, however, that these negotiations may be taken up again, and conversations are being put in typewritten form. In view of this, the new tariff and the new Chilean agreement, as well as the Japanese trade drive, it would be well for the United States to move with some celerity.

American exporters would undoubtedly benefit by an additional steamship service on this coast. This trade is held by one company now. Last summer four more ships were put on the route to take care of additional business. Many complaints have been made against this service, however, both from a passenger and freight standpoint. There is no certainty of schedules and goods marked for a port on the down trip have been left on the ship until the return trip.

TURKEY GIVES JAPAN CONTRACT TO BUILD NAVY AND TWO LINERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 23.—Japan was reported today to have secured from Turkey a contract to build the new Turkish navy.

The Turkish program includes two 10,000 ton cruisers, four destroyers, four submarines, and two liners for the Turkish state marine service operating in the Mediterranean, as well as smaller craft.

Part of this program is to be provided for by a loan of $100,000,000 from Japan to Turkey, 80 per cent of which is to be spent in Japan. Turkey in return will lease to a Japanese company 100,000 square acres of land in Anatolia, for cotton and fruit growing. This is a blow to British interests in Egyptian cotton and to some extent to Indian cotton.

Col. Harold Woods, British commercial attaché at Ankara, now is in London discussing the Japanese trade and diplomatic menace in the eastern Mediterranean.

KILL 300 DOGS.

Marion, Ill., March 23.—[Special.]—Three hundred dogs have been killed in Marion since the rabies quarantine became effective last year, city officials reported today.

FIRE SWEPT CITY IN JAPAN BEGINS REBUILDING TASK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 23.—The first signs that Hakodate, metropolis and seaport of Hokkaido iland, which was swept by fire Wednesday night, is returning to life, were noted today as here and there citizens began erecting temporary abodes and shops.

Although embers still were smoking in many places, the harbor was a scene of considerable activity. Ships unloaded medical supplies, provisions, and building materials. The main business street already has been cleared of debris.

The number of known dead passed 1,000 today. The bodies of 60 persons frozen to death were discovered tonight. The victims had fled from the fire, were drenched by the rain, and evidently died during Wednesday night. Scores of others are freezing to death in other places, due to the impossibility to distribute, for lack of transport, clothing and blankets. Two hundred bodies have been recovered from Omori beach and 40 from the Shin river.

Insurance companies announced that they are unable to settle claims of more than $10,000,000 for some time. It is feared they may not be able to pay in full.

ILLINOIS G. O. P. HOPES TO REGAIN CONGRESS SEATS

See Strength in Eastern and Southern Areas.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Republican hopes of recouping some of the heavy losses suffered in Illinois in 1930 and 1932 lie particularly in some of the congressional districts in eastern and southern downstate sections.

In those two elections the complexion of the Illinois delegation at Washington underwent a sweeping change. The G. O. P. lost the two United States senators, the two congressmen at large, and eleven district congressional seats, three of the latter in Cook county and the other eight downstate.

It is in these eight districts which for many years were staunchly Republican, that party leaders believe lost ground may be recovered in an off year unaffected by national landslide tendencies. They are particularly hopeful because in some of these districts the issue of easy money and higher taxes is coming to the front as it has in several of the northern districts.

Hope to Win Back 17th.

One of the central districts, which until two years ago consistently sent Republicans to congress, is the 17th or Bloomington district. Frank H. Funk served three terms and Homer W. Hall served three terms. And, election after election, Frank W. Gillespie [Democrat] was beaten by a substantial margin.

But in 1932 Gillespie beat Congressman Hall by 5,604 votes. Gillespie is a candidate for renomination and so is former Congressman Funk. Gillespie has two opponents on the Democratic side, one of them, John R. Feimley of Bloomington, a serious contender. Funk has five opponents, but his record is believed to give him a decided advantage.

Feimley is described as having unusual qualifications and may defeat Gillespie on April 10. But whoever is chosen by the Democrats probably will be put on the defensive in November if Funk is his opponent. Funk says he believes Roosevelt is sincere, but he does not approve of congressional delegation of its power in such matters as tarif making, and opposes further land reclamation projects and national encroachments on local self-government.

Contest in 18th District.

The 18th, or Kankakee, is another district long represented by Republicans until, in the Roosevelt landslide, James A. Meeks, Democrat of Danville, defeated the dry William P. Holaday, an old Smallite, by 13,696 votes. Meeks has no primary opposition. There are two Republican contenders, Elmer A. Taylor, serving his third term as state's attorney of Iroquois county, and O. K. Yeager, Danville contractor.

Observers say that if there is any doubt about Meeks' having a good fight on his hands next fall it is due to the lack of acquaintance and experience on the part of the Republicans. The district is said to be slightly upset Democratically by "disapproval of air mail contract cancelations and Gen. Johnson's bulldozing methods."

The 19th, or Champaign, district is another that "should be Republican," according to form. After serving for some years, Republican Charles C. Adkins was defeated two years ago by the incumbent Democrat, Donald C. Dobbins, by 19,215 votes. Dobbins is unopposed in the primary but the issue of the New Deal is already being raised on the Republicans.

Assails New Deal.

Albert D. Sizer of Champaign, former county treasurer and one of two Republican aspirants, declares on his campaign cards that the Republican party "must be reborn and rededicated to the task of defending our charter of liberty against a more insidious enemy than the open rebellion of the sixties."

"Improvements are always in order," proceeds this text, "but surely we are not going to sell our birthright . . . for this mess of pottage, this socialistic hodge-podge called a 'planned economy.'"

Sizer's one Republican opponent is Charles H. Fletcher of Mattoon, former state's attorney of Coles county.

Republicans as well as Democrats are inclined to predict with certainty the reëlection of Speaker Henry T. Rainey from the 20th district, who has represented it for fifteen terms—not all consecutive. Warren Wright of Jacksonville is the only Republican candidate.

There is a vacancy in the 21st or Springfield district due to the appointment of J. Earl Major to the federal bench. The leading Democrat is said to be Harry H. Mason, treasurer of Sangamon county, the choice of the organization forces.

Three Other Democrats.

There are other Democratic candidates and three Republican aspirants. The latter include Frank M. Ramey of Hillsboro, former congressman; John G. Millhouse, director of mines and minerals under the Emmerson administration, and Dr. Charles N. Neal of Springfield.

The East St. Louis district, the 22d, went heavily for Roosevelt, and the Democratic incumbent, Edwin M. Schaefer, won with a margin of 38,186 votes. There are two other Democratic aspirants, one of them, E. E. Campbell, a Granite City newspaper editor. Jesse Brown of Alton, former judge who knocked out the first state sales tax, is the only Republican candidate.

The Mount Vernon district, the 23d, where Congressman William W. Arnold, Democrat, is serving his fifth term, is expected to remain in that party column. He won by 28,000 votes two years ago and is unopposed in the primary. Three Republicans are opposing administration policies, which nevertheless are said to continue to be popular.

Expect Battle in 24th.

Congressman Claude V. Parson, Democrat, in the 24th has no primary opposition, but local prophets say he will have a fall battle from James V. Heidinger, who is seen as the likely winner of the Republican nomination.

Parson beat Heidinger by only 29 votes in 1930 but won by more than 12,000 votes over Arthur A. Miles who, it is said, lacked some of the elements of Heidinger's strength.

A somewhat similar comparison is made in the 25th district, where Congressman Kent E. Keller is again a candidate for the Democratic nomination. While he won by 20,706 votes over E. E. Denson two years ago he beat the same man by only 3,869 in 1930. He is opposed in the primary by Browning Robinson, sherif of Franklin county, who is reported gaining strength steadily.

The winner, reports say, is certain to have a strong Republican opponent in November. The chief Republican contenders are Judge R. T. Cook of the city court of Herrin and J. L. Buford, Johnson City High school superintendent. The latter is lambasting the Democratic national administration.

POLICEMAN ASKS DIVORCE.

Policeman Howard Meissner charged in a suit for divorce yesterday that his wife, Josephine, beat him with a mop and threw a pot of coffee at his head.

DROPS CONTEMPT CHARGE AGAINST 2 IN T-N-T INQUIRY

Judge Michael Feinberg in the Criminal court yesterday dismissed contempt of court petitions filed against Andrew Jaicks Jr. and Wilson A. Jaicks brothers, partners in a paving business, who refused to answer questions before the grand jury regarding the "outlaw" Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T].

Assistant State's Attorneys Donald Thompson and Robert L. Donigan, whose investigation of the T-N-T resulted in the indictment of 17 persons on conspiracy charges, suggested that the Jaicks brothers be offered immunity if they would change their minds and testify. Judge Feinberg ruled yesterday that new legislation would be necessary before he could permit this procedure, and freed the Jaicks brothers.

The brothers were questioned by the February and March grand juries about various union and political connections with the paving business.

USED CAR DEALER JAILED FOR AUTO INSURANCE FRAUD

2 Garage Men, 2 Youths Held in Theft Cases.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.
Automobiles stolen, 40; recovered, 57; stripped, 7 (from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Thursday).

Sol Hannock, 30 years old, a used car dealer who got $300 from an insurance company two years ago by reporting as stolen a car he had sold, yesterday was fined $25 and sentenced to five days in the Bridewell.

On Oct. 12, 1931, Hannock sold his sedan to an automobile agency, and on Dec. 30 reported to the Transcontinental Insurance company that it had been stolen. Last October police found the car in the hands of its owner and arrested Hannock.

Jailed as an Example.

He was arraigned before Municipal Judge Robert J. Dunne last November on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses and pleaded guilty. He was granted time to make restitution, however. Yesterday he announced with a smile that all of the money had been repaid. But Prosecutor Morris G. Meyers demanded that an example be made of Hannock and Judge Dunne agreed.

Two south side garagemen, alleged to have disposed of a stolen car, were arrested yesterday by Sergt. Harry Sullivan of the Hyde Park police station. They are Herman Wills, 40 years old, 5959 Wentworth avenue, and James Duda, 1413 West 47th street.

Duda sold the car, which was stolen in November from Russell Sewell, 7827 Lowe avenue, to Albert Rogowski, 5037 South Ada street, on March 19. He asserted he had purchased the machine from Wills, and the latter declared it had been left for repairs at his place by one Frank Kane. The sale was made, Wills said, when Kane failed to pay for repairs. The disclosure that the car was stolen came after Rogowski went to the police to ask if the car had been honestly acquired by the man who sold it to him.

Two Held for Auto Theft.

William Suchack, 20 years old, of 2734 West 18th street, and Anthony Duchovick, 17 years old, of 1543 South California avenue, were held to the grand jury by Judge Joseph A. Graber yesterday on a charge of automobile larceny.

They were arrested by west park police after being chased from Douglas boulevard and Albany avenue to Ogden and Washtenaw avenues. They had stolen the car of Benjamin Klansky of 3532 Grenshaw street. Bonds of $5,000 each were set.

Justifiable homicide was the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Michael Michaelovich, 15 years old, 1932 Washburne avenue, who was shot and killed by a police squad on March 18. The boy was riding in a stolen car.

Find Hundreds Defy Law Against Parking in Loop

Mounted policemen, assigned to enforce traffic regulations, cantered up and down loop streets yesterday, gazing wistfully at long lines of cars parked in violation of the no-parking rules. Now and then, they pounced upon a motorist and handed him a ticket. But in scores of instances they looked on with sad and disillusioned eyes as self-important individuals stepped into their cars which had been parked for hours and drove away.

A survey revealed that the no-parking law, introduced in the loop some years ago amid a blare of publicity concerning its benefits is no longer observed by hundreds of car owners.

Finds Privileged Class.

Interviews with police indicated that a certain privileged class of drivers has been established. Tickets issued to these persons have a habit of disappearing mysteriously. The smart policeman learns to leave them alone. That ancient boast, "I'll get you transferred," has been proved in certain cases not to be an idle one.

The streets bordering the city hall and county building were, as usual, packed yesterday with automobiles despite the no-parking signs. It was found, moreover, that the entire loop is now open to members of the "I know the alderman" club.

Clark street, from Randolph street to Jackson boulevard, was lined almost solidly with parked cars yesterday afternoon. La Salle street was an equally bad offender. Some of the cross streets, running east and west, had comparatively few violators of the parking ordinance. Not one block in the loop, however, was found to be without one or two stationary automobiles blocking the passage of traffic.

Some with Old Tags.

Here and there a parked automobile was found with 1933 state and city vehicle licenses. With the police in the midst of a drive against motorists who have not yet purchased their 1934 licenses these drivers had not hesitated to leave their cars for hours in violation of one law with the evidence of their violation of the vehicle license law for all to see.

A mounted policeman in La Salle street near Washington street saw a reporter taking the 1933 license number on a Chrysler car parked under a no-parking sign. The number, 139-255, had been issued to Walter H. Creutzburg, 3053 North New England avenue. The car also bore an old 1933 city vehicle license sticker.

"I came on at 1 o'clock and this car was here then," said the policeman. It was then 3:30 p. m.

"I suppose, when the driver does show up, you'll get a big argument about what an important fellow he is," commented the reporter.

It's Candidates's Car.

"Maybe not," said the policeman, fingering his book of arrest slips with a gleam in his eye. He became doubtful, however, when he noted a tire cover on the car reading: "Reelect P. J. Cullerton, Democratic committeeman, 38th ward."

Other cars with 1933 licenses observed parked in violation of the regulations yesterday, and the persons to which the licenses had been issued, were as follows:

799-986, Frank Derris, Park Ridge.

Several hundred parked cars with 1934 licenses were noted but the secretary of state at Springfield has not yet released the records showing to whom the licenses had been issued.

The usual crop of stars and badges which presumably confer special law breaking privileges upon the owners were noted.

Also observed were cars without state licenses, city licenses, or identification of any kind.

Trio Hold Up Policeman, Take Gun, Star and Auto

It appears that Detective James Alesia of the Des Plaines street police will have to use a borrowed gun and star for a time. On his way to work yesterday in his automobile he stopped for a red light at 1050 Washington boulevard and suddenly found three armed men in his car. They forced him to drive into an alley, where they relieved him of the gun, the star and his automobile. Detective Alesia walked to work.

BOY SCOUTS OF CHAMPAIGN WIN FIRST AID HONOR

Boy Scout troop 15 of Champaign, Ill., was awarded first place in the midwest Boy Scout first aid championship tournament at Bartlett gymnasium, University of Chicago, last night. Members of the team were Darwin Lierman, Robert Shoemaker, Robert Grubb, Gene Lierman, and Ralph Hampton. Oak Park troop 21 took second place.

At the same time Sea Scouts were winning prizes in competition at the naval reserve armory, with Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius as a guest of honor and interested spectator. Sea Scout ship Invader of the north shore won first prize as the best appearing unit. Ship Legionnaire was named as the Chicago council flagship for 1934.

LOOP CROWDS SEE BUS CATCH AFIRE; 2 PERSONS HURT

Two persons were injured when a motor coach, which had just arrived from New York, suddenly burst into flames in front of 34 West Randolph street yesterday in the view of crowds of loop shoppers and workers.

The fire, said to have started from a short circuit in the engine, burst from beneath the hood, and shot flames into the bus through a ventilator. Passengers rushed for the doors, and shattered windows to escape. The two hurt received their injuries in the crush to escape the flames.

Boy Finds $100,000 in U. S. Bonds; Believed Bank Loot

Philadelphia, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—A 12 year old boy playing on a dump in suburban Upper Darby has found between $50,000 and $100,000 in United States government bonds. Police believe the bonds may be part of the loot stolen March 14 from the safe of the Farmers bank of Mardela Springs, near Salisbury, Md. The boy, Joseph Kennedy, found the bonds Monday,

DUN BANK STOCK OWNERS FOR 50% TAX PENALTIES

12 Institutions Fail to File Schedules.

Several thousand bank stock owners have been sent 1932 personal property tax bills which include a 50 per cent penalty because the officers of twelve banks in the city and county failed to file returns on the stock as required by law, it was learned yesterday. A report on the situation has been made to County Assessor J. L. Jacobs by O. L. Altman, deputy assessor in charge of the bank assessment department.

Some of the stockholders received these bills for the first time in addition to the usual personal property tax bills for household effects, jewelry, automobile and similar items, a fact which mystified them.

Jacobs Explains Situation.

The situation was explained by Assessor Jacobs. In the past personal property assessments on bank stocks have been paid by the financial institutions out of money available for dividends as a convenience to the stockholders. But in 1930 the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank refused to pay the tax and was sued by the county. The Illinois Supreme court found for the bank but ruled that when a bank did not pay the tax stockholders were individually liable.

As a result the county collector now sends bills to the individual stockholders where the bank's officers or receivers do not file schedules or notify the assessor that they do not wish to pay the tax.

Schedules Should Be Filed.

The bank should still file a schedule on the stock even if it directs that separate tax bills be sent out to the shareholders, Mr. Jacobs said. The banks which failed to file 1932 schedules, thus causing the 50 per cent penalty to be assessed, according to Mr. Jacobs, were:

The I-C Bank and Trust company, Belmont-Sheffield Trust and Savings, Austin State, Madison-Kedzie Trust and Savings, Mid-City National Trust and Savings, Skala State, Berwyn Trust and Savings, Citizens National Bank of Chicago Heights, First Trust and Savings Bank of Riverdale, La Grange First National and the Summit State banks.

Under the law there is no alternative but to penalize the individual stockholders for negligence of the bank's officers, the assessor said. He explained it is difficult to sue for these taxes because many of the stockholders are not residents of Illinois. The statutes provide that bank stock is assessable in the county in which the bank does its business.

URGE LAW TO HOLD SUSPECTS MINUS WARANT

East St. Louis, Ill., March 23.—(AP)—Gov. Henry Horner has been asked by the St. Clair County Peace Officers' association to sponsor a law permitting police to hold suspects for 30 hours without a warant.

Members of the association, meeting here, complained that gangsters and others arrested for questioning could obtain almost immediate freedom through habeas corpus proceedings. A Missouri law permits the police action sought in Illinois.

The association also asked the governor to have radio sending equipment installed in five district offices of the state police in central and southern Illinois.

Scientists Predict Farmer Will Grow Fuel for the Auto

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Immediate start of a new type of farming, with fields growing the "hydrocarbons" of coal and oil for use as power, is urged by three Iowa scientists in a report issued by the Chemical Foundation tonight.

A congressional hearing where they are invited to give their findings is announced to begin April 15. The hearing is on the farm relief plan to mix 10 per cent of corn alcohol with gasoline for motor fuel.

The Iowa trio hopes to show that instead of being simply a temporary relief this use of "power alcohol" will inaugurate the great agricultural revolution predicted by scientists for the last 20 years. This is the growing of chemicals as well as food on farms.

Could Produce Enough for World.

The report is written by Drs. Leo M. Christensen, Ralph M. Hixon, and Ellis J. Fulmer of the Iowa State college, at Ames. Coal and oil, most of man's present power source, they explain, are hydrocarbons. All the farmer's harvest crops are carbohydrates.

Chemically the crops and the coal and oil are all made of the same prime elements, carbon and hydrogen. The atoms of carbon and hydrogen are differently fitted together, and chemists have discovered how to interchange them so as to change a plant into a hydrocarbon, a fuel which will burn and explode.

The report says that farms can produce all these fuel hydrocarbons the world can use—all that it now gets from coal and oil. They foresee this not as an abrupt change, but as a progressive conservation move, growing as the supplies of coal and oil dwindle.

See New Era For Farmer.

The farmer's historic hand-to-mouth existence will change, they forecast. For it is due greatly to all his crops being perishables, and as he changes part of the harvests into power hydrocarbons he will have imperishables which can be stored, when needed, against the "lean years."

Their tests of "power alcohol" from corn for immediate use they state, show the way. They point out that 20 foreign countries now mix alcohol with gasoline and that England begins it soon.

In road performance they find a 10 per cent alcohol mixture in gasoline giving 8 per cent more mileage in trafic, and 4 per cent less when cars travel 50 miles or more an hour nonstop.

They find superior anti-knock qualities and superior compression in alcohol. This they say will make for smaller cylinders, lighter power units and engines behind instead of under the hood. Also higher speed engines.

TAX OFFICE TO BE KEPT OPEN SUNDAY, 9 TO 4

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $690,857, making a total of $120,761,192 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1930.
March 23.....$	10,395 $	19,783
Uncollected	14,857,906	39,945,728
	1930.	1931.
March 23.....$	47,148 $	122,502
Uncollected	63,361,859	89,681,566

The day's collections of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $490,944, and of 1932 personal property taxes, $126,953.

County Treasurer McDonough announced yesterday the tax collector's office on the first floor of the county building would be kept open Sunday from 9 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon to accommodate taxpayers unable to reach the treasurer's office during the week days. The county treasurer urged the payment of 1932 taxes early in order to avoid the expected rush just before the penalty deadline of April 15. There remain more than 2,000,000 personal property and real estate bills for 1932 that have not been paid, he said.

MOUNTAIN MOVES ON ITALIAN TOWN; RESIDENTS FLEE

PESARO, Italy, March 23.—(AP)—A mile and a half bank of Mount Hercules, loosened from the mountain, is slowly engulfing the outskirts of Sant Agata Feltria, a town of 5,000 persons.

The mountainside, coming down at the rate of 30 feet an hour, has already crashed down two bridges and reduced several dozen houses to smithereens.

Inhabitants have deserted their homes. There have been no casualties. Engineers are trying to divert mountain streams in order to end the slide.

SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY.

Richard Freeding, 16 years old, 7449 North Rockwell street, a Senn High school student, was taken to the Edgewater hospital last night with a gunshot wound in the abdomen. He accidentally shot himself, he told police, while examining a rifle in his bedroom.

AMBASSADOR DODD PREDICTS PEACE FOR U. S. FOR A LONG TIME

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—This country is in no danger of becoming involved in war in the near future, according to William E. Dodd, United States ambassador to Germany, who arrived today on the United States liner Washington.

He said, however, that he had returned home "to relax from the tense European atmosphere." Following a series of conferences in Washington he will seek a quiet place in the country for a rest.

"Contrary to the prediction of many students of international problems," said Mr. Dodd, "I feel fairly certain that we shall not have war in the near future. No people is in a position to make profitable war and the masses everywhere are opposed to war."

Ambassador Dodd indicated that his Washington conferences might have to do with a new commercial treaty between Germany and the United States.

ITALY'S NEWEST BOMBING PLANE CRASHES; KILLS 3

CAPRINO, Italy, March 23.—(AP)—Italy's latest aeronautical development, a tri-motor bombing hydro-airplane, crashed on Mount Fasica several days ago, killing the pilots, Capt. Cinel and Sergt. Maj. Lomasco, and the designing engineer, Villa. The government is guarding the details and causes of the accident. The big flying boat was making a transfer flight at the royal experimental station, Vigna di Valle, where it passed a successful test, to the Caproni factory on Lake Iseo when it fell.

URGE PARENTAL SCHOOL CLOSING AS AN ECONOMY

Suggest New Program for Delinquents.

Closing of the Parental school, which is maintained for truants and incorrigible youths, and establishment in its stead of two less expensive child problem institutions was recommended yesterday to Supt. William J. Bogan of the Chicago schools by an advisory committee on child delinquency.

The report of the committee, composed of educators and child specialists, urged the prevention of delinquency and declared that the two suggested special schools, similar to the Montefiore and Moseley schools now working with boy problems, would prove to be a better influence for children and more economical than the Parental school, recently under criticism for its high per pupil cost.

McCahey Submits Change.

Whether the budget committee of the school board will act on the recommendation was not indicated last night, but James B. McCahey, president of the board, has previously approached state officials relative to the transfer of the Parental school to the state, and he expressed hope that such negotiations would bring results.

In addition to the correctional institutions recommendation the report praised the work of Supt. Bogan and Miss Isabella Dolton, assistant superintendent, in analyzing the truancy problems and in holding teacher conferences on the problems of the pupils. The report was presented by Prof. Harrison A. Dobbs of the University of Chicago, chairman of the committee.

Budget Figure Trimmed.

The Parental school in 1933 received an appropriation of $135,671. The tentative 1934 budget, drawn by school auditors, calls for an $118,000 appropriation but the budget committee showed disposition to reduce this amount or to eliminate it if the state would assume the work.

The school budget committee will continue individual studies of proposed appropriations today and will meet in formal session Monday. Mr. McCahey said yesterday that he hoped to have completed budget recommendations before the board for final action Wednesday.

Rail Adjuster Kills Self in South Shore Drive Plunge

William Hampson, 60 years old, a claim adjuster for the Rock Island railroad, yesterday leaped to his death from his sixth floor apartment at 7300 South Shore drive. His widow, Eve, told a coroner's jury, which returned a suicide verdict, that her husband tried to end his life with poison a year ago. Mrs. Hampson told Grand Crossing police that her husband had been in ill health for two years.

Evanston Pushes Bills to Get Vote on City Manager Plan

Citizens of Evanston wish the opportunity of voting upon a city manager form of government, leaders of the suburb said yesterday. They are hoping for passage of a bill now pending before the legislature which would allow any Illinois municipality, except Chicago, to hold a referendum on the matter.

The measure was introduced in both houses by Evanston legislators, Senator James J. Barbour and Representative Drennan J. Slater, Republicans. Each said that he sponsored it by request of the Evanston Chamber of Commerce and the city council.

Citizens Want Plan.

"But not only these organizations want the plan voted upon," said Wirt Wright, president of the Evanston State bank. "A number of other associations and influential citizens believe that while Evanston now has a good government, the city manager plan would have as good a chance to succeed here as anywhere.

"Evanston has a rather large percentage of persons interested in good city government. If the bill passes at Springfield it would be possible to hold the referendum in April, 1935, when the present mayor and board of aldermen complete their terms."

The Barbour-Slater bills are pending on third reading in each branch of the legislature. The sponsors intend calling them for passage next week unless the school legislation wrangle ties up the possibility of other legislation being considered. If both should pass, however, their course would not be completed, for the senate would have to pass the house bill or the house the senate bill.

Similar to Cleveland.

The city manager plan allowed under the bill is similar to that tried in Cleveland, Kansas City and Cincinnati, Mr. Slater said.

The bill would amend the Illinois cities and villages act to permit a referendum upon the plan if 25 per cent of the registered voters of a municipality sign a petition and present it to the city clerk 60 days before an election. If it passed, a board of aldermen would be elected who would in turn appoint a mayor from their own board and a city manager from either inside or outside their membership.

Given Complete Power.

The city manager would be given complete powers in the appointment of department heads and all other personnel. He would be answerable to the city council alone and would hold office until removed by the council.

The number of aldermen elected would be based on population. Those not larger than 25,000 would elect seven aldermen and an additional alderman would be elected for each additional 25,000 population. Thus, a city of 100,000, such as Peoria, would elect 10 aldermen.

The bill was drawn to apply to cities of not more than 200,000.

SINCLAIR AND 24 FREED OF THREE FRAUD CHARGES

Tulsa, Okla., March 23.—(AP)—Twenty-five former directors of the Exchange Trust company, including the oil magnate, Harry F. Sinclair, were freed of three charges of embezzlement in Common Pleas court today.

A similar ruling on fourteen additional charges, involving twenty-eight of the bankrupt trust company's officials, is expected Monday, when the state has indicated it will ask dismissal of the entire case.

In a decision concurred in by the three other Common Pleas judges Judge Bradford Williams held that if any of the funds intrusted to the $23,000,000 concern had been misapplied it was not in criminal fashion.

All twenty-eight of the directors have been made defendants in a civil suit of the state bank department for $325,000, most of which was represented in the criminal case.

$4,040,000 PAID TO TEACHERS IN CHECKS FOR MAY

More than 17,000 teachers and other public school employés yesterday received pay checks for May, 1933, totaling $4,040,000. The checks were given to school principals in the morning with instructions not to distribute them until word arrived that money had actually been paid by five loop banks to the school fund for the purchase of $3,000,000 worth of tax warrants. A few hours later City Treasurer James A. Kearns notified school officials that the money had been received. It was the first cash pay day for school employés since last December.

The 1,100 employés of the sanitary district yesterday received checks in payment of their salaries for the first two weeks of March. The pay roll totaled $124,000. The money for the workers was received from delinquent tax collections and a sale of tax anticipation warrants, according to Trustee Rosa A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee.

CHICAGO LIBRARY BOOK CAMPAIGN TO END TONIGHT

Directors of the Chicago Public library book donation campaign estimated that 30,000 volumes will have been added to the library shelves when the week's drive is closed tonight. Appeals for books will be continued after the close of the campaign, Carl B. Roden, librarian, said. The book donations yesterday were near the 15,000 mark and campaign officials predicted that a house-to-house canvass to be carried on today by school children would bring in an equal number of volumes.

CARDINAL RAPS NAZI RELIGION AS 'UNCHRISTIAN'

Urges German Catholics to Stand by Church.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 23. — Cardinal Joseph Schulte of Cologne today issued a flaming appeal to German Catholics. In it the cardinal warned them against the new Aryan religion based on mythology, which, he said, "deflects from Christianity." The appeal, which was sent to members of his diocese, was not published in the German press, but in the Saarbruecken Landeszeitung in the Saar district.

The cardinal, who recently had two hours' conference with Chancellor Hitler in an effort to bring about a peaceful settlement between the government and the Catholic church, added:

"The time seems to come concerning which the gospel says, 'People will not endure sound doctrine, but shall turn away their ears from truth and turn to fables.'"

Warning to Catholics.

The cardinal also referred to the oath of fidelity to the Nazi cause which Hitler and his followers took at Munich.

"Do not believe that the oath you took recently compels you to change your religious convictions," he warned. "Fourteen years ago I addressed you for the first time and reminded you the gospel's word is steadfastness for true Catholics. Once more I urge you to remain true Catholics despite pressure and temptation."

Meanwhile, reich authorities are attempting to cover up the rift. The Hitler Youth custodian has ruled that kindergarten church services shall be held early in the morning before the main service in order to enable children to go to church before starting their Hitler Youth activities. Parents are objecting to the rule. They point out that this means children will not get the Sunday morning rest needed to keep their health.

The Nazi advertising council today warned liquor firms not to use crucifixes and hymnals to advertise their products. Wine dealers were instructed not to offer "wines of great potency for confirmation."

Religious Symbols on Bottles.

Many liquor dealers have been displaying in their shop windows bottles of spirits with religious symbols since this year's confirmation season centers about Palm Sunday.

German singing societies today bowed to Hitler rule. They have ousted their leaders, who contended the societies sang for pleasure and did not belong to the government controled professional body. Henceforth amateur glee clubs will be compelled to pay a minimum fee of 6 cents a year to the government for private singing as evidence that they consider themselves a part of the Nazi organization.

To Curb Overzealous Nazis.

WEIMAR, Germany, March 23.—(AP)—Overzealous anti-Semites will be relentlessly curbed, Hans Frank, Nazi commissioner of justice, said at a police meeting today. Frank also denounced certain Catholic circles as "relentless reactionaries."

"Let me tell those 150 per cent National Socialists [Nazis] who are wondering why Jews are still living in Germany that in the near future I intend to undertake a thorough cleanout of the party organization," he asserted.

NAZIS WILL EXPEL FOREIGNERS WHO VIOLATE LAWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 23.—According to a decree issued today, foreigners may be expelled from Germany for violating German laws "or committing actions in foreign countries which are punishable by German law if a legal decision is passed on the matter" by foreign or German authorities. This also refers to "actions which are considered detrimental to the German state."

A foreigner may also be emasculated under the sterilization law if German authorities so rule.

Other details of the decree correspond to international usage. The government prescribes that expulsions must be handled by the federal government. These privileges formerly were handled by the German states before their rights were curtailed.

Two Couples Sentenced on Dope Peddling Charge

Two couples, charged with possession of narcotics, were ordered imprisoned yesterday by Judge Harold F. O'Connell. Frank Summers, 4540 Magnolia avenue, was sentenced to six months in the county jail, and his wife, Dora, to the same term in the women's prison at Dwight. James Backey, 1147 Victoria street, was sentenced to 90 days in jail, and his wife, Lois, to 90 days at Dwight. Lieut. William Cusack, who testified against the four, announced he had broken up a dope ring in the Wilson avenue district.

German Firms Must Invest Earnings in State Loans

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 23.—Chancellor Hitler's cabinet today approved a new law providing that stock companies paying more than 6 per cent dividends must invest all earnings exceeding 6 per cent in German government, state, and municipal loans. Other new laws increase the punishment for high treason and betrayal of military secrets and reduce taxes on automobiles from abroad "to increase tourist trafic."

Hold Up 2 in Auto and Grab $10,000 Bank Deposit

Two armed and masked men held up the manager and the cashier of the Western News company, 21 East Austin avenue, just outside the place yesterday, and escaped with $2,000 cash and $8,000 in checks. T. F. Hannon, the manager, and R. A. Grant, the cashier, had just entered a taxicab to take the money to the bank when the bandits thrust their guns through a door of the machine.

INTRODUCES NEW BILL TO LET AIR MAIL CONTRACTS

Black's Measure Follows White House Parleys.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—[Special.]—In furtherance of the administration's strong desire to remove the air mail from the army and place it once again on a commercial basis, Senator Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], today introduced in the senate a revised bill to establish the air mail on a permanent basis.

The legislation represents a departure in several respects from the bill which brought strident criticism during recent hearings from such noted figures in the aviation world as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, Col. Eddie Rickenbacker and Clarence Chamberlin.

Introduction of the revised measure followed two lengthy White House conferences yesterday between President Roosevelt and members of the house and senate postal committees. At these meetings, it was understood, the provisions of the legislation introduced today were given final approval by Mr. Roosevelt, who is reported to be extremely anxious to restore the air mail service to its former commercial status.

Status of Old Contracts.

Under the terms of the new bill brought in by Senator Black, air line companies whose contracts were canceled by executive order of President Roosevelt will be eligible to bid for new contracts even though they prosecute claims against the government in connection with the summary abrogation of their old contracts.

Extensive reorganizations of existing air line companies, however, will be required under the terms of the new measure.

"It shall be unlawful for any company holding an air mail contract to buy, control or own directly or indirectly," the bill reads, "any stock or interest in any other company which other company is engaged directly or indirectly in any phase of the aviation industry, whether the other company be a holding company or a company transporting mail or holding a mail contract or a company engaged in the manufacture or sale of airplanes, airplane parts or other materials or accessories generally used in air transportation."

Governs Stock Ownership.

"It shall be unlawful for any company or corporation, engaged directly or indirectly in any phase of the aviation industry, whether such company be a holding company, a company transporting mail or holding a mail contract, or a company engaged in the manufacture or sale of airplanes, airplane parts or other materials or accessories generally used in air transportation, to buy, acquire, hold or own directly or indirectly any stock ownership or interest in a corporation or company holding a mail contract whether such company buying, acquiring, holding or owning such stock or interest, does so directly or does so indirectly through subsidiaries, associates, affiliates, or interlocking stock ownership."

The bill likewise penalizes some of the companies which formerly held air mail contracts by providing that they must drop any officer who participated in "any meeting held for the purpose of rearranging the air mail map of the United States in the office of the postmaster general in Washington in May or June, 1930."

Enforce Competitive Bidding.

It would also limit salaries of officers to $17,500 a year.

New contracts must be let by competitive bidding, the measure stipulates. And while the postmaster general has power to rule that the low bidder is not a responsible concern, his ruling may be appealed to the interstate commerce commission, which is directed to "speedily determine the issue."

Rates of compensation for carrying the mails are fixed in the bill at 30 cents per airplane mile for the first three hundred pounds of mail, and not exceeding 6 cents per airplane mile for each additional two hundred pounds. In no case, however, may the rate exceed 40 cents per airplane mile. Under the terms of the new measure, air mail postage will be reduced from the present rate of 8 cents per ounce, to 6 cents per ounce.

AIR MAIL LOADS OF ARMY FLYERS SHOW INCREASE

Air mail loads carried from Chicago by the army have greatly increased since last Monday morning when the flying of the mails, halted by President Roosevelt's demand for safety, was resumed in all zones. From a low of 480 pounds carried on Monday the mail increased to 2,719 pounds on Wednesday. Thursday's air mail weighed 1,804 pounds, postoffice officials disclosed here yesterday.

At the Chicago airport, where the army mail service has headquarters in the Illinois National Guard hangar, Col. Horace M. Hickam, commandant of the central zone, asserted that his men were flying on exact schedule and "everything is running smoothly." If the mail volume continues to increase, army officials said, several of the routes may be flown by two or three planes, although one ship has been sufficient on each route thus far.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Nazi Germany Is Under Fire in Five New Books

Feuchtwanger Sacrifices Art to Plead Cause.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Oppenmanns," by Lion Feuchtwanger [Viking].
"German Family," by L. C. N. Stone [Bobbs-Merrill].
"Murder-Made in Germany," by Heinz Liepmann [Harpers].
"Nazi Means War," by Leland Stowe [McGraw-Hill].
"Germany Prepares for War," by Ewald Banse [Harcourt-Brace].

THREE novels and three books of fact about Nazi Germany have recently come off the presses, no one of which can be disregarded by intelligent readers whose eyes are telescopic enough to be turned on the international horizon. In every one of these six books there are flashes of the swift, passionate drama of social upheaval, turned in the fiction toward an emotional, in the nonfiction toward an intellectual interpretation of that upheaval.

It is the duty of this department to concern itself with fiction as an art and not as social propaganda. With that duty in mind I must say what their authors would unquestionably themselves admit that "The Oppermanns" and "Murder-Made in Germany" are not great fiction but great propaganda. They were written to stir the emotions of mankind. They are the whole souled and passionate outpouring of the pens of two men whose pens are the mightiest of their available weapons.

"Sacrifices Art to Zeal."

Lion Feuchtwanger unquestionably is one of Germany's great modern novelists. "Power" was a work of art acknowledged by all. In "The Oppermanns" Lion Feuchtwanger is a Jew grandly pleading the cause of his persecuted people, but not writing another literary masterpiece of his race.

He is a brilliant enough writer to know how to plead that cause popularly and incomparably and he is a brilliant enough writer to admit that he has sacrificed his art to his zeal in his story of the swift social and spiritual disintegration of a whole prosperous Jewish family in Berlin under the Nazis.

A Fierce Social Indictment.

Even more passionately and frankly a document of human injustice is Heinz Liepmann's "Murder—Made in Germany." Unlike Herr Feuchtwanger, who has not lived in Germany since the Nazi régime, Hanz Liepmann himself went through much that is recorded in this passionate record, and he declares, "I will answer with my life for the fact that all the incidents in this book have actually happened."

He starts out with a plot—the return to Bremen from months at sea of a small freighter. The Nazi persecution of the Jews and the communists of that group soon becomes a cumulative record of tragedy which ceases even to have the form of a novel and becomes a fierce social indictment.

"German Family," on the other hand, while no less severe an indictment of a situation, is primarily a novel, a record rather than a comment. The author of "German Family," has made all of his characters warm, living human beings.

These Characters Are People.

He has pictured life in a German family in its many sided charm and gentleness and touching innocence of political cataclysms (as life is for every one these days) until the lightning pierces man's natural sense of human security.

The characters in "German Family" are people, not, as they are in the other two books, ideas. The social indictment in each one of the three books is in its essence the same.

Of the three books of nonfiction two were written by Americans and the third by a professor in a German university.

"Nazism," subtitled "An Assault on Civilization," is a symposium to which twenty-one well known American writers, politicians, ministers of the gospel, labor leaders, physicians, and the like have contributed, of whom no more than a quarter are Jews.

Other Classes Persecuted.

They write about the growth of Nazism in Germany from a social and economic and political point of view . . . view it widely and only in a few cases concentrate upon the Nazi crusade against the Jew. Of the article by Dorothy Thompson (Mrs. Sinclair Lewis), which to me is the most understanding and interpretive one in the book, the title is "The Record of Persecution," and in that record the Jews are by no means the only individuals or groups who have suffered. The persecuted include communists, pacifists, every one who occupied a position of leadership in the former German republic. Dorothy Thompson has given in that article an impressive, concise but illuminating statement of a situation.

Cites Preparations for War.

Leland Stowe, in a small book called "Nazi Means War," sets down the facts which he gathered as a correspondent of an American newspaper concerning the preparations of Nazi Germany for a future war. He found one out of every twenty-five men in uniform, a highly militarized social system, an air force organized—and in uniform—every motorist forcibly registered and at his country's call; direct, wide motor roads between centers and the frontier in the process of construction, the ammunition plants in perfect operation (although no big arms are ostensibly manufactured), a systematic education of the youth of the land for war, including the training of young boys in throwing hand grenades (made of wood) at targets simulating men, and compulsory courses in the universities of physical training and the study of military tactics.

New Methods of Warfare.

And in connection with that university training he discusses the last of the books mentioned today, Prof. Banse's "Germany Prepares for War," which is one of the most astounding documents of modern times. Prof. Banse advocates the use of methods and means in the next war which so shocked the civilized world when the contents of his book were made known outside Germany that the book was prohibited by the Nazi government, but Mr. Stowe calls the attention of the public to the fact that Prof. Banse was appointed to his professorship by the Nazi government; that he received nothing but unqualified praise in the government controled press, and that, even though his book is officially interdicted, he still continues to hold his chair of military science at Brunswick Technical college.

Mr. Stowe also calls attention to the fact, as does one of the chapters in "Nazism," that the translation of Hitler's "My Battle," published in England and America, is a mere skeleton of the original which rings on every page with its author's martial ideals.

I might add that I have been for a week literally submerged by these six books not as a critic of literature but as a human being. First I couldn't sleep for reading them and then I couldn't sleep for thinking. So don't put them on your bedside table.

John Carter Has a Name for Each Type of Work

John Carter has a pretty collection of names to use like an actor's make-up. For one kind of book he uses his own name, for less erudite books on international affairs, the pseudonym of Jay Franklin, and for the detective tales he does as "knitting work," the disguise of "Diplomat." That isn't such a complete disguise, however, for Mr. Carter was for a number of years connected with the United States embassies in Rome and Constantinople and the state department in Washington.

Meetings and Lectures

The Illinois chapter of the Special Libraries association will meet at dinner at 6:30 Tuesday at the Chicago Traffic club, Palmer house.

On Wednesday at 2:30 at the Delta Zeta house, Northwestern university, Irma Frances DuPre will discuss "Women and War."

The Friends of American Writers will have a luncheon on Wednesday at the Chicago Athletic club at which time Quin O'Brien will speak on "Humor in American Literature." Among the special guests will be Arthur Meeker Jr., Dorothy Aldis, Kenneth Horan, Mignon Eberhart, Mrs. Frank Logan, and Melanie Kool.

Horsnell Tells Story of Life in Verse Form

Another Englishman Tells of Author Hunting.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—The profession of poet is a very dangerous one to follow in London. Horace Horsnell, who is writing his autobiography in the form of an eighteenth century versified satire, under the title of "The Horoscope" [Hamish Hamilton], has had a narrow escape from death.

One night, returning home from a party, he was composing verses in his head and walked down Constitution hill, that perfectly flat stretch of roadway which connects Hyde Park and Knightsbridge with Buckingham palace, in excellent spirits.

He next found himself in St. George's hospital, having forgotten his poem entirely. While he walked a wildly driven small car had veered, taking him in the rear, and left him flat upon his face. His friends, naturally, were very much alarmed; but fortunately the poet's head was only slightly injured and he was able within three weeks to resume work upon "The Horoscope," which will shortly be published.

Mr. Horsnell, who in the evenings is a dramatic critic [and possibly the most polished of all our dramatic critics, as he is among the best of them], could ill have been spared; for he has the sweetest nature and one of the quickest wits of any man I know.

His poem, which describes a childhood, his early life [when he wrote several novels and enjoyed the happy days before the war], and his experiences in the war concludes with a brief comment upon the post-war world. It should be mellow, witty, and full of irony; but perhaps too wise to please the most sophisticated readers of all.

Hamish Hamilton has another interesting book in his list for publication. This is the second volume of Grant Richards' reminiscences which is called "Author Hunting." Mr. Richards is, and has always been, an adventurous publisher—the first publisher, as he reminds us, of such men as G. K. Chesterton, James Joyce, John Masefield, Warwick Deeping, Alec Waugh, Thomas Burke, and Alfred Noyes. His own first novel, "Caviare," was a best seller shortly before the war.

He knows London publishing of the last forty years as few men could know it, and he knows also the fashionable life of the French Riviera at first hand. He is one of the few Englishmen who really wears a monocle. He once, although at that time he did not know me, lent me his cottage in Cornwall, and it was in that cottage that I wrote a novel called "Coquette."

The cottage had been lived in by a number of writers, to all of whom Mr. Richards had shown himself a good friend, and the books in it, with their scribbled names and inscriptions, were more varied and interesting than the books in any other small house I ever saw. So I think it can be taken for granted that what Mr. Richards tells in "Author Hunting" will be lively and first hand—the book should be worth reading.

Reporter Tells Swift Tale of Travel in 'Cannibal Quest'

Gordon Sinclair, whose "Footloose in India" was one of the fastest moving travel tales of last season, has rattled off another high speed search for the unusual in his "Cannibal Quest" [Farrar-Rinehart]. Sinclair, who is a Canadian newspaper man, describes his press peregrinations for the Toronto Star from a different viewpoint than the average traveler. He combines a lively sense of the ridiculous—whether it happens to him or some one else—with all of the enthusiasm and ability of a crackerjack reporter who knows how to dig up a good story—and then can write it. The result is a colorful, informative, slangy, and at times hilariously funny tour of the orient.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

No stranger or more passionless murderer ever brought death to sinful man than the instrument of vengeance devised by Dorothy L. Sayers in "The Nine Tailors" [Harcourt-Brace]. The story moves across a setting so unusual that with no mystery or murder at all it would fascinate and charm. Have you ever thought from what set of circumstances the ideom "to ring the changes" comes? No more had I, and I think this book will introduce you to an art so little known and so absorbing to its practitioners that you will wonder why we have remained ignorant of its phrases and phases.

For the "changes are rung" upon church bells not operated from a keyboard but in the ancient manner with rope and wheel, scorning a tune, but each man playing his bell in turn in an infinite series of changes and mathematical progressions. Indeed the story opens with nine hours of endless ringing of "Kent Double Bob Majors," no less!

The quaintness of the phraseology of this time-honored art gives Mrs. Sayers' book a special flavor and the dour, windy fen country of England adds infinite picturesque detail. Lord Peter Wimsey, who is almost my favorite detective, comes pretty close to being baffled by the general queerness, though he turns out, surprisingly enough, to be something of a bell-ringer himself.

The mystery begins with the theft of an emerald necklace long years before. The thief has been caught and jailed but no sparkle of the emeralds has ever since been seen. Suddenly, just as Lord Peter is ditched in the neighborhood, things begin to happen. The action is spread over a good many months and the bells, the fens, the floods are as vital to the story as the crabbed and charming people that stalk through the book. Each of the eight bells in the "ring" at Fenchurch St. Paul is named and the biggest of all is "Tailor Paul" who is tolled nine times when a man of the parish dies. From this comes the title of a book I annot too highly praise. Read it for the detective, the murder, the plot, the characters, the setting but most of all for the bells that go clanging and singing through it and the beauty and romance of its telling.

Four Years at Sea in a Small Boat Makes Lively Story

Out of a long and interesting list of books written during the last few years by amateur sailors who've crossed the south seas in small craft, none surpasses in human interest the naive, lively, and amusing account of Erling Tambs' venturesome voyage across two oceans.

His "Cruise of the Teddy" [Harcourt-Brace] is a stirring story of a four years' honeymoon journey which started in Europe with a crew of two—the author and his bride—and which ended in a shipwreck in New Zealand, with five aboard — Mr. and Mrs. Author, their two children [born en route] and Spare Provisions, a dog.

The voyage was financed with the profits of one of the Norwegian writer's novels. He wrote "The Cruise of the Teddy" to raise funds to get home from New Zealand to Norway. It has end paper maps and is well illustrated. It's one of the best books of its kind in many a season.

JUDGE REFUSES TO ACQUIT 18 IN RACKET TRIAL

New Defense Pleas Taken Under Advisement.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The racket conspiracy trial is expected to continue in session at least two more weeks as a result of the decision yesterday of Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court overruling defense motions for directed verdicts of not guilty for the eighteen defendants.

As soon as the judge had announced his decision he was deluged with a flood of new defense motions to quash certain counts of the indictment and strike from the record testimony of some of the 170 prosecution witnesses. Judge Finnegan took the new motions under advisement and announced that he would give his decision Monday, when the defense is to begin presentation of its case.

Divide Defense Into 4 Parts.

Attorney Benedict J. Short, one of the defense staf, said that the present plan is to present the cleaning and dyeing phase of the defense first, followed by the beverage group, linen supply, and last the laundry group. It was indicated that the defense would complete its case within two weeks.

When Judge Finnegan opened court yesterday morning he made short work of the defense pleas for a directed verdict by denying the motions without comment of any kind on the arguments of the lawyers which had occupied two days. Attorney Floyd Thompson, former chief justice of the state Supreme court, had conducted the defense argument on this question.

The new motions presented yesterday included one by Attorney Thompson asking that the evidence against Ald. Oscar Nelson, one of the defendants, be stricken from the record. He particularly stressed the testimony showing that Ald. Nelson was one of a dozen or more persons in the office of the late Attorney Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, at a time when Al Capone, the gangster, was there. The state did not show that the men spoke to each other on that occasion or that they knew each other, Thompson argued.

Purpose of Testimony.

"The obvious purpose of the state in introducing that testimony was to besmirch the name of Ald. Nelson," he added.

The defense then moved that all the evidence be stricken because the conspiracy, if any existed, was outlawed by the statute of limitations. These motions were argued by nearly every defense lawyer.

"I would like the prosecution to point out if it can the connections between acts which occurred as far back as 1921 and the present case," said Judge Finnegan. "Whether a conspiracy existed is up to the jury. This court is not ruling that a conspiracy has or has not been proved. However, if some of this evidence should be eliminated it ought to be done now so that the defendants will know exactly what they have to meet."

The judge limited some minor evidence applying to several of the defendants, and will rule on the more important points Monday.

It was indicated yesterday that the last defense witness would probably be Attorney Aaron Sapiro, trade association organizer.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Mrs. Pig's Big Day!

THE "nursery department" here on the experimental farm in the Fox River valley country took on new life yesterday with the arrival of five more little pigs. These are "whiteys" from a Chester White sow. If newly born pigs are anywhere near eligible for honorable mention in the farm pig beauty classes these white ones which look so clean [for a while] certainly are worthy of consideration. More additions to the pig population are expected before the end of the month—both Hampshires and Chester Whites.

A covey of quail played in the orchard near Thurow's house for a long time this morning. There were eight birds in all. They walked around near a row of cedars standing close to the line fence, picking up small grain. Then they came closer to the house and stayed for a while. These birds are using a field to the east where they have plenty of cover and food. During the planting season here at the farm a number of special food and cover patches will be put in for the benefit of the quail so that their numbers should increase.

The lambs seem to have found a new sport these spring days. It's a sort of tag game and the guinea hens are always "it." When I walked through the sheepfold today to observe the lambs I noticed that the 21 guinea hens seemed to like to fool around the feeding racks, go into the big brown lambing tent and generally poke their noses into everything. These birds are quite tame and think nothing of lighting on a feeding rack when the ewes are busy stowing away the hay for their morning or evening meal. But now that there are so many frisky, cavorting lambs taking a keen interest in everything that goes on, life has changed for the guinea hens. Yesterday one of the birds dropped into the yard where dozens of lambs were standing around waiting for something to happen. No sooner had the hen arrived than about 50 lambs made a bee line for her. The whole gang joined in a chase. After pursuing the surprised hen for a few yards she took to wing complaining bitterly in guinea hen language about the "new deal" as instituted by the lambs.

Clarence Thurow has decided to plant corn in one of the fields on the north bank of the Fox river, an area which slopes down to the river where a long row of tall willows stands. There is a lot of old straw scattered over a small part of this field which, of course, will be plowed under within a few weeks. In the meantime this straw is serving as the "farmer's friend" because it is on top of a patch of quack grass, a pest on any farm. The straw doubtless will act as executioner for the quack grass because it will smother the life right out of the unwanted vegetation.

Clarence plans to get at some of the small patches of thistles on the farm in another way. They will be plowed under and seeded to a combination of millets, sudan grass and possibly sorghums, which will throttle the thistles and at the same time provide much needed areas of food and cover for bird life.

There were skunk tracks around the barn yesterday morning, the first seen for several months. The "wood pussies" are beginning to travel now.

Around the pond there are many interesting indications of spring. For example, the domesticated mallards are quite excited over the arrival of several wild ducks which have dropped in for a few days. Rawlings has a live trap near this pond which caught another 'possum this morning.

WAR VETERANS OF FRANCE PLAN TO GO IN POLITICS

Move Brought to Head by Stavisky Scandal.

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—The gory Stavisky scandal riots of Feb. 6, when some of their own comrades fell dead in the Place de la Concorde, today brought to a head a movement for the National Council of the Veterans' federation boldly to enter politics.

Five hundred delegates of the 3,000,000 veterans began three days of debate on whether they should put their own ticket into the parliamentary field or otherwise take a more direct part in government life.

Drag in Three More Names.

Names of three more members of parliament were dragged into the case by the decision of a chamber of deputies committee to send their testimony to the minister of justice for action.

They are Senator Odin and Deputies Proust and Hulin, all of whom have been questioned by the committee on their alleged relations with the late Serge Stavisky.

Published reports that former Premier Edouard Herriot, now a member of the cabinet without portfolio, used his influence to protect friends within parliament, brought a denial.

An effort to broaden the confederations' political activities failed in 1919 and the movement has slumbered until this year, when the Stavisky affair revived it.

"The present state of things is intolerable," said one veterans' speaker, "public opinion is justly disturbed and unanimous in its criticism of the weakness of political parties."

A second favored a veterans' ticket with a unified nation-wide program.

Dr. Henri Queille, minister of agriculture in the Doumergue cabinet, said a midnight telephone call last night from an unidentified person warned he would be "killed within 48 hours because I am considered responsible for the suicide of Blanchard."

May Lift Immunity.

Emile Blanchard, official of the ministry of agriculture, cut his throat recently. He had been suspended when charges were brought that he was paid to serve on two boards of directors of companies organized by Stavisky, whose operations are blamed for the collapse of the Bayonne Municipal pawnshop.

A special session of parliament for one day might be called, it was indicated, to lift immunity of three deputies allegedly involved in the case.

Two members of parliament, a pugilist and nineteen other persons, including Stavisky's widow, are under indictment in the frauds.

Heavy losses to investors in Stavisky's fraudulent pawnship bonds threatened to hit the government's budget as a result of the claim filed by the insurance company La Cite for 2,000,000 francs [about $130,000]. The company asked reimbursement on the ground that the government, which restricts insurance investments, recommended bonds of the Bayonne institution.

Other investors are expected to demand that the government pay their losses, estimated at $60,000,000.

HELD AS EVANSTON BURGLAR.

After confessing to 13 burglaries in Evanston, Charles D. Wheat, Negro, 5038½ South Michigan avenue, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $25,000.

DR. WYNEKOOP BATTLES TODAY FOR NEW TRIAL

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, who was found guilty by a jury of murdering her daughter-in-law, Rheta, will appear before Judge Harry B. Miller in the Criminal court today when her attorneys argue a motion for a new trial. Her punishment was fixed at 25 years in prison by the jury. Defense Attorney W. W. Smith yesterday said he would present several matters to the court in support of his motion. Just returned from a vacation, Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said he was ready and is confident he can defeat any issue raised by the defense.

COSTNER, IN IRONS, IS TAKEN SOUTH TO STAND TRIAL

Isaac Costner, Touhy gangster, whose testimony helped send four of the gang to prison for the kidnaping of John Factor, last night was on his way to Asheville, N. C., to stand trial for a $105,000 mail robbery.

Shackled to Deputy United States Marshal Joseph O'Neill and accompanied by several other guards, Costner was placed on a train of the "Big Four" route at 1:30 p. m. yesterday.

Costner, Charles [Ice Wagon] Connors, who was slain two weeks ago, and Basil Banghart were identified in the mail robbery. Banghart, one of those in prison for the Factor kidnaping, will be taken to Asheville in the near future, according to Assistant United States Attorney Lloyd Moody.

U. S. Ship Damaged at Sea; Heads for Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, March 23.—(AP)—The United States shipping board steamship Liberty reported by wireless today that she was damaged 200 miles off the Newfoundland coast and was heading toward St. John's for repairs. How the vessel, bound for New York from Le Havre, was damaged was not disclosed. The Danish ship Sevund Pil was in touch with her. The Liberty is a 6,200 ton vessel, built in 1918 by the shipping board and registered in New York.

MR. BORAH TAKES THE NEW DEAL APART.

Mr. Borah's sharp criticism and penetrating analysis of the philosophy and operation of the New Deal are formidable for several reasons. He is an inimitable debater and will be approached cautiously by any supporter of the present government who seeks to take issue with him. He is of the independent, so-called liberal, Republican tradition, with a reputation for defense of what are called human rights by such as think that property has nothing to do with human welfare. He can't be regarded as a Tory politician doing the bidding of Wall street and great corporation interests. Mr. Borah's accepted standing is that of a defender of the average man.

His challenge of the New Deal is formidable also because he is logical, and the New Deal fails to pieces when it is examined for consistency and congruity. The average person who has been trusting blindly to what he has been told was magic about to accomplish wonders will find many of the doubts which he has suppressed in his own consciousness revived by Mr. Borah's high lighting of certain absurdities. The average man may have accepted the brain trust ideas on faith, but he will agree with Mr. Borah when he is brought to observe the facts that when people need clothing and are supposed to be close to starvation the destruction of food and the stopping of production, the raising of prices and the subsidizing of idleness are not remedies which sanity would adopt.

No one else could tell the country more vividly than Mr. Borah that when people are in need of bread and meat the destruction of pigs and the stopping of grain growing are not the way to feed them. Likewise, they will understand that if people are in need of clothing it is a strange procedure to plow up cotton. They will follow Mr. Borah when he tells them that in times when millions of people find it difficult to pay their bills it is a policy of bedlam to raise prices artificially before the ability to purchase has been restored.

People cannot avoid taking a second thought of their enthusiasms when Mr. Borah calls their attention to the fact that monopolies have received a new impetus under government encouragement and that business men who have been having difficulty in keeping their heads above water find government encouraged monopolies giving them the final push downward. Mr. Borah is bound to revive a popular consideration of many of the old tested doctrines upon which American economy has been based, doctrines of fair play, fair prices and fair opportunities to work and make a living. The denial to the individual of the right to take his money to the best market he can find and buy in accordance with his own planned economy has been a serious blow to the finances of many a hard working and modest family, whatever may be the altruistic hopes back of the recovery program.

Mr. Borah asserts, and many people are now willing to concede he proves his case, that the New Deal has been headed backwards. It reverses everything that makes prosperity and civilization. It reduces production, discourages ingenuity, subsidizes idleness, increases costs and merely hopes that by some miracle all these errors and fallacies will produce the exact opposite of the effects of which they are the natural causes. Mr. Borah has a fine scorn for the theory that by producing less the people will have more, that by destroying goods they will enjoy the use of them, and that by making it more expensive to live, with increased idleness and decreased production, everybody will have more and get it more easily.

If an old line Republican had directed his scorn at such nonsense the people might have said that partisanship or vested interest was talking. Mr. Borah cannot be dismissed with such comment. He is presumably and by repute as much interested in the welfare of his fellow man and as little addicted to monopoly and privilege as the most radical New Dealer. In him the opposition to counsels of despair, panic, socialism and infantilism finds a spokesman who cannot be run up the alley.

DOES THE SENATOR FROM NEBRASKA YIELD?

Senator Norris of Nebraska had the galleries snickering when he reminded the Republican regulars in the senate that their Mr. Hoover had negotiated the St. Lawrence treaty which they had just voted down.

The joke is even better than that. Their Mr. Hoover negotiated the treaty in order to win the agrarian west and northwest. A half million dollar fund had been spent in convincing the wide open spaces that the seaway was what they wanted. One of the states which the treaty was supposed to hold in the Republican column was Nebraska, and one of the senators whose support Mr. Hoover hoped to win was Mr. Norris. The offer was handsome, but it didn't fetch either Nebraska or Mr. Norris.

Nebraska has been seduced a good bit from time to time. On the record, Nebraska must be regarded as about the easiest seducing in the Union. When it comes to yielding, Nebraska yields to any one or no one, as the case may be. Mr. Hoover's St. Lawrence treaty was just the kind of store candy which ordinarily arouses all of Nebraska's maternal instinct. Unfortunately for Mr. Hoover, he had everything but it. This proves that Nebraska, which has taken up with all sorts of Snake Oil doctors, does draw the line somewhere.

Mr. Hoover got the cool Nebraska air, but his successor has fared better. He got Nebraska and he has Mr. Norris. Where Mr. Hoover proferred only a seaway, Mr. Hoover's successor has named a dam in the Tennessee valley after the distinguished senator and, as a further stimulant to the affections, has not only offered but actually given to Nebraska not one but two expensive if somewhat superfluous water power plants all for herself.

Why Mr. Norris should want to have a pile of useless masonry in the Tennessee valley named for him is one of those things that only a girl's heart can understand. The dam will be a lasting monument, not to say advertisment, of the beautiful if somewhat unconventional attachment of a nominally Republican senator to a Democratic administration. It is a pity that the government is spending the taxpayers' money on a dam which will be as useless as the Great Pyramid and far uglier, when the money might have built something handsome along the lines of the Taj Mahal. Nebraska hasn't much to learn about gold-digging, but her taste in jewelry could be improved.

THE NEW CRIMINAL COURT RULE.

The judges of the Criminal court have taken a commendable step toward the suppression of the lawyer criminal and unethical practitioner. The goal is distant and difficult. No rule is automatic. When the judges declare a rule for the suspension of practitioners guilty of misconduct in their courts the value of the rule depends upon its application, its persistent and impartial application. The power already exists in the courts and ought long ago to have been asserted, but we may take its explicit declaration as evidence that the judges, at least some of them, now propose to make it active and effective. Even the declaration, we may hope, will produce some benefit in preventing misconduct, at any rate until it is revealed in experience that it is not to be taken seriously.

We trust experience will prove the contrary. Some of the judges may be too lenient and complacent. It is irksome for a judge to discipline a member of the bar and in some cases may even be politically hazardous. But if the reputable majority of the bar insure judges their support in attempting to give the rule force there will be, in short order we may reasonably expect, an appreciable improvement in the practice in the Criminal court. The bar's responsibility in this regard is unquestionable, not only in its own behalf but in that of the public and even the press, both of which must largely rely upon the bar for information as to the course of practice in the courts.

THE GOLDEN GLOVES IN NEW YORK.

THE TRIBUNE'S western boxing champions are in New York for their topping off training to meet the New York champions. The best men will win, not meaning the referee. The home lot may have a imponderable advantage, but it is a characteristic of the tournament crowds, here and in New York, that they do not like a questionable decision. In close matches some decisions must be on a hair line, but fair play has been a feature of these amateur contests.

Although professional boxing has been falling off in recent years when many customers had other uses for their money, amateur boxing has been going up. Its transparent honesty in the management and in the ring has been one reason for its success. Not only the earnestness but the skill of the amateurs win favor for it. The crowds which want to see the shows are limited only by seating capacity. The sport is one which any sturdy, qualified boy can enjoy. It is inexpensive and many boys have a natural aptitude for it. If they are good enough to make the Golden Gloves team some exhilarating and interesting experiences are open to them.

This year New York thought Cleveland, although a part of the Northwest Territory, was a bit too far east or a bit too good to permit its boxers to qualify on the team opposing New York. It happened that four of the eight western champions were from Cleveland, a notable boxing record for that city. These boys will not fight in New York, but they will be in the big time when the team of this region meets the Polish champions in May.

All Chicago asks of New York is to keep the striking taxicab drivers out of the ring.

COMING HOME TO ROOST.

Mayor La Guardia is getting back some of the bread he cast upon the waters and it is bitter. The violence in the taxi driver strike is a logical result of Mr. La Guardia's utterances before he became responsible for the administration of New York's government and for the peace and order of that great community. As a legislator at Washington representing only one district of New York it seemed safe enough and politically profitable to indulge in the false heroics of inflammatory oratory. His present problems are different and his accountability for public safety is before a broader tribunal than one district or class. His own words have caught up to him.

Editorial of the Day

[Des Moines Register.]

The important thing in Secretary Wallace's testimony before the house ways and means committee last week was not that he favors trying to alter our tariff policy so as to increase the inflow and outflow of trade.

Everybody with sense and vision favors that.

President McKinley in the last speech of his life said it to all the country, including his Republican colleagues.

Ogden Mills, supposedly an arch-standpatter among present day Republicans, said it again a few weeks ago in Topeka.

The important thing in Secretary Wallace's testimony was his terse reminder that "high tariffs cause unemployment just as surely as low tariffs"—that "it is just a question of where the unemployment will be."

Of course a lot of congressmen have known that all the while, though it hasn't been "cricket" to blurt it out.

The secretary has blurted it out. The country is coming to realize that it is so. And down goes illusion No. 2 about sky high tariffs—the carefully cultivated illusion that they are essential in the interest of the workingman.

Illusion No. 1, also carefully cultivated, was that they were created and maintained primarily for the benefit of farmers. That one fell down and went "boom!" some time back.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

SCORING.

"Senator Borah Gives Scoring to New Deal."—Headline.

I love to see Niagara when it falls,
Or a wind squall at the very time it squalls;
I love to see a bluff, in the woodland wild and rough,
Or to watch a screaming blizzard do its stuff.
I'm thrilled when an earthquake shakes the land,
And a tidal wave to me is simply grand;
But in all of Nature's work there is nothing so adoring
As Senator Bill Borah when he starts to do some scoring.

I love to hear the roaring of the thunder;
I love lightning when it splits the hills asunder;
And I stand smiling and I boo at a fierce maddened gnu
I am one who thinks a cyclone's simply grand,
Or a simoom in the desert full of sand,
But these things make me yawn and finally start to snoring,

I love to see a prowling, hungry tiger
As it stalks me when I walk along the Niger;
I just jump on its silly back and ride.
I love to meet a shaggy grizzly bear;
I love to beard a lion in his lair;
But I quiver with delight, simply carried from my mooring,
Every time Bill Borah does some plain and fancy scoring.

I NOTICE that Betty Compton, Jimmy Walker's wife, gets a couple of hundred words in all the newspapers because her car bumped into a tree on a country road in England and she "suffered a slight shock and a run in her stocking." Now that's what I call fame, having newspapers pay cable charges on two hundred words for a slight shock and a run in a stocking. Most of us could have our wishbones busted and lose both socks and one shoe in an accident right in our own street here at home and we wouldn't get six words on the twenty-third page. Funny thing, fame!

PARTING BEFORE FULFILMENT

The words that filled our hearts shall ever be.
The chilling wind is blowing, dear. Unspoken
Yet—it is better so—a vow unbroken
Will crown our silence for eternity.

The parting toast to Love may taste less bitter,
When lips have been denied the gall of lies.
The black curtain of silence seems far fitter
Than the blue sky of Hope, to hold your eyes!

ANYHOW, WE FOLKS that own old cars won't have our feelings hurt so much by sassy new cars swanking past us if there comes an auto strike. If they stopped turning out new cars for a while then we boys in the old cars wouldn't have to gaze sadly at the brand new streamlined, freshly painted, chromium trimmed, low crowned band wagon cars that cut rings around us and honk wild, raucous shrieks from their newfangled horns if we don't get out of their way quick enough. We know our old buses are out of style, but we hate to have it rubbed in. And, besides, we have to think of the good old car. Cars have their feelings as much as anybody, and when a stylish, dazzling new car, all dolled up like a parade horse on the Fourth of July, goes honking past sneering at everything it passes, how do you suppose an old car feels? But if they stop turning out these bedizened, coruscating, eighteen carat, plush lined new cars for a while, then the old cars will be able to lose their inferiority complex and recover their old time self-respect, and when the new cars commence stepping out again the old cars will tell 'em where they can go to. And stay there for all the old cars care.

MR. DILLINGER is reported having been seen in Michigan, Florida, and Oregon on the same day. About the only locality where Mr. Dillinger has not been reported is in the vicinity of Admiral Byrd's ship at the south pole, but he may be there disguised as a polar bear or a penguin. He's quite smart, is Mr. Dillinger. (Crown Point, Ind., papers please copy.)

FAREWELL TO ARMS.

Venus of a newer day—
Ave Beauty! Shining so!
Changeless is the role you play.
Moriturus saluto!

Maid elect of that Diane—
Vale! It is written so.
Thou, the perfect dream of man,

Like the Wandering Poet's dream
("Very life, I love you so"),
As our last sweet morning beams,
Moriturus saluto!

I shall not survive the spell—
Yet I linger, longing so.
Dawn is signaling my knell—
Moriturus saluto!

Venus of a newer dawn!
Let me gaze once more—and go.
Gladly die—who shared thy throne;
Vale! Vale! Saluto!

A FACTORY-MADE SPRING TONIC.

THE vitamins appear to be getting on a standardized mass production basis, in full accord with the principles of the machine age. At first vitamin D was obtained practically only from cod liver. Then laboratory tests of various kinds were devised. Next scientists worked out a method of making vitamin D in the factory. The product is called viosterol.

Originally we depended on nature for our vitamin A. After the fact was established that there was a vitamin A the scientists developed various methods of testing for it. Then carotin, caritol, and other factory vitamin A products became available.

A long time ago a practical rule of thumb remedy for and preventive of scurvy was discovered. So universal is the knowledge that fresh foods and especially fruits will cure and prevent the disease and such general use was made of the information that old fashioned scurvy is almost never encountered in modern times. When fresh fruits and vegetables have not been available alert minded men have saved the situation by brewing teas from pine needles and reindeer moss or by a diet of raw penguin meat or similar adaptations.

Then it was found that scurvy is a vitamin C deficiency disease. Next followed the discovery of various laboratory tests for this vitamin. It is now possible to make tests of foods for this vitamin in laboratories without making use of animals. After that it was discovered that vitamin C was the same as ascorbutic acid, a chemical substance the peculiarities of which are pretty well known.

The next step will be to discover a means of making ascorbutic acid in a factory. Up to date the factory methods of making these protective substances have not put the natural sources out of business. When the manufacture of viosterol was commenced many thought they could see an end to the need of cod livers. Instead of that we are using cod livers and have called on halibut, salmon, and other sea foods to help out. The demand grows as fast as the supply, even when the viosterol factories are working. We are eating more carrots than ever in spite of the supply of carotin and its kin. When synthetic ascorbutic acid goes on the market no one need fear for the fruit groves and the tomato fields.

There is no old fashioned scurvy, but there is more mild scurvy than any one ever dreamed of and the fields will need to increase their production of fruits and vegetables. There has been the same experience in the case of certain hormones. Synthetically made thyroxin has been available for a decade. It is widely used. But there has been no decrease in the demand for sea foods and iodized salt. Adrenalin has been in use for two decades, but the demand for suprarenal glands remains too great for the supply.

SLEEPING SICKNESS.

A. K. writes: A neighbor of mine is reputed to be recovering from sleeping sickness. As she lives in the same apartment building we do, I am anxious to know whether the rest of us in the building are in any danger. I am particularly concerned about my children.

REPLY.

I don't think you and your family are in any danger. There is no proof that sleeping sickness is contracted by such exposure as you indicate.

ON COUGH DROPS.

J. T. H. writes: While forced to breathe through my mouth when my nose was plugged with a styptic pencil during a nosebleed, I used a prune seed in lieu of a cough drop. It produced a flow of saliva that served my need perfectly. The experience gives me the idea that the effect of a cough drop is due to a stimulation of a flow of saliva produced by the presence of a lump in the mouth. I might even guess that the supposed medication might often be omitted with great profit.

REPLY.

I agree with you that the principal effect of cough drops is mental.

LIEUTENANT OF POLICE.

Chicago, March 21. — [Friend of the People.]—My uncle took the lieutenant of police examination last July or August and this list has not been posted as yet. Twenty-four sergeants were made lieutenants by a court order recently. Will that have anything to do with the posting of this list? T. F.

I wish to inform you that the case pertaining to the certification of the 24 lieutenants of police is still pending in court and until disposed of I am not certain as to whether or not the results of the recent examination will be posted. At any rate, not until this case is decided.

LOAN.

Chicago, March 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What can a loan company do to a widow with five children whose husband died after paying a good portion of the loan back? The wife did not sign anything. It was a salary loan. Since the husband's death the wife also paid some on balance but finds herself unable to continue. She is working but only making [2] thirteen dollars a week. Can they take her salary or [3] notify her company? M. S.

1. It seems probable that the loan was for a family expense so that the wife will be liable, but that her assets and income are such as to be exempt.
2. This would be exempt.
3. Of course, they would have the power to notify, but in our opinion the employer should ignore the notice, and if the debtor suffers damages by reason of an unauthorized notice, she should employ an attorney to hold the creditor liable.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CONDITIONAL SALE CONTRACT.

Freeport, Ill., March 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a finance company holds a conditional sale contract on an automobile and they repossess it on account of a default in payment [1] are they compelled by Illinois law to sell the car at public auction? 2. If they do sell it, are they supposed to give a report of sale to the person from whom the car was taken? 3. If the car does not bring the amount due them have they a right to collect the balance from the signer of the contract? That is, is he liable for the deficiency on the note and contract? E. S.

1. No.
2. Not unless the contract so provides.
3. Depends on the wording of the contract. Unless there is express wording authorizing this course, we would expect the courts to take the position that there is an inconsistency between the seller's repudiating the contract by taking back the goods and seeking to enforce the contract by collecting the balance of the price.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN.—"We believe in the leader [Chancellor Hitler] whom God has sent us. We believe in the powers of a race which conquered the world and did not lose itself, even though it was transplanted to another climate."

This is part of a prayer published for the benefit of German women in the official magazine, Woman's Work.

"We believe in the irresistible power which directs the fate of our reich," the prayer continues. "We believe in the dawn of a new era and we feel the approach of the blazing signs of German redemption."

Child bearing, labeled "race," is written in large letters over the life of the German woman of today—from early childhood on. Her whole education is built on the idea that she is "to maintain the Germanic race—while it is the task of man to defend the race in the fight of nation against nation," as Minister of Agriculture Walter Darré said recently.

To be housewife and mother is to be the one and only aim of the German girl. Lessons on biology and racial knowledge have been introduced in schools to the detriment of mathematics and languages. Should the youngsters fail to imbibe the yerning for motherhood in school, a "household service year" for girls ranging in age from 14 to 17 years is expected to complete the task.

After they have served a "household service year" they enter the girls' labor camps. Here they are to be further prepared for their task as "housewife and mother."

Girls may choose one of three types of labor camps:

1. Labor camps for household work and social work, to be founded near towns. Girls who have given up their professions in town are taught how to cook, mend, and do housecleaning. They must also take over some welfare work.

2. Labor camps in the country to prepare the girl for her future life as a farmer's wife.

3. Labor camps for assisting settlers in their work at home, in the stable, garden, and field.

Girls are recruited for periods ranging from 26 to 39 and 52 weeks. They are to work six hours daily. Their "free time" is to be devoted to political and physical training.

Girl graduates this Easter must serve in the women's labor camp for six months—that is, from the beginning of May to the end of October—before they can start their studies at German universities, provided they receive the state's permisison to study.

"When a girl reaches a marriageable age she must remember," says Farm Dictator Darré, "her marriage is not a private matter but must be considered as a service for the future of the nation. Marriage [on hereditary farms] is contracted for the purpose of producing children and the farmer must choose his wife, keeping in mind the necessity of begetting the most valuable children from a racial viewpoint.

When it comes to the defense of the nation, however, woman may show greater activity. She must not only care for the injured during air raids, but she "may" also become a member of the groups who have to clear the streets of poison gas—a dangerous task. Women are, therefore requested to participate in air protection courses to learn how to equip airproof cellars, treat poisoned persons, and how to deal with air bombs.

BEAVERS FOR CONSERVATION.

Chicago, March 16.—Secretary Ickes in his recent address in Chicago on conservation and the destruction by the early pioneers of the natural resources of the country failed to mention the practical extermination of one of the greatest natural conservationists of the western country, the beaver, which could do more than all the swivel chair conservationists in Washington, and at no expense to the taxpayer. There is just one way the beaver can be protected and conserved and that is to make it a criminal offense for any one to own or wear beaver fur in any way or manner. Those who already have beaver fur or coats could be given a license to wear them.

All the mountain states, and particularly the Rocky mountain region, would, in time, have more grass, less erosion, waters would be held back in flood time, more bird life, and a cooler and moister climate in summer time than it has at present.

Secretary Ickes may have had in mind, besides wild game, the wonderful beaver that works when half of the rest of the world sleeps when he spoke of the vanishing animal resources. For every dam built by the reclamation bureau beavers would be building their thousands of dams if they were properly protected.

On my own land in Wyoming there are a good many beavers that I have been protecting for the last thirty-five years, but the moment the old ones move the younger ones out to new locations and they get on my neighbors' land and streams they are trapped and the pelts bootlegged out of the state. We have a law protecting beaver, but it is badly enforced. I had a state game warden tell me that I was a fool not to trap the beaver myself. DAVID DICKIE,
Michael Reese Hospital.

AN IDEA FOR THE FINANCIAL PAGE.

Lincoln, Ill., March 20.—Recently you printed a little story stating that the price of hogs in Canadian markets was ten cents—more than double the Chicago price. This information is highly instructive to farmers of the corn-hog belt, and I think for their edification in connection with the various other manifestations of the New Deal, and in view of the approaching congressional elections, you could do nothing better than to have your daily market column show the hog price in Windsor, or Toronto, or Winnipeg side by side with the price in Chicago. Down in the country this kind of information is news, and if you keep it up, it will sink in.

D. H. HARTS.

INDEED FUNNY.

Chicago, March 16.—Mr. Orr's cartoon of the 15th indicating anxiety for the welfare of the Republican party is indeed funny to those who stood loyally for Republican principles during the last presidential campaign. You evidently take it for granted your readers have forgotten THE TRIBUNE'S policy of relentless and destructive criticism during 1930, 1931, and 1932, at which time your staf correspondents, cartoonists, and editorial writers were all of the same mind and carried out a carefully planned campaign by THE TRIBUNE to repeal the 18th amendment at the cost of wrecking the former administration and shelving G. O. P. principles for four years, because you favored the 100 per cent wet candidate. You sold your birthright for a mess of repeal pottage and have been crying ever since. No doubt you consider you made a bad blunder and repeal was not worth it. Why not take it on the chin like he-men? You got what you wanted and are yet not satisfied.

MISS M. W.

TORY MISRULE.

Davenport, Ia., March 16.—The owners of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and their time servers should remember, in their frantic efforts to discredit the greatest administration in our history, that all of our present difficulties are the result of twelve years of Tory misrule. The present inefficiency of the army aircraft is a glaring example, for no administration could undo in one year the damage done by the three preceding.

Communism will never get far in our country. Neither will Toryism. THE TRIBUNE is performing a great service to the country, inasmuch as it demonstrates fully how far the Tory party will go to gain its ends.

The reaction to THE TRIBUNE cartoons and editorials, also the articles by its political hacks, in which both truth and decency are ignored, has, as far as I can see, been very healthy and augure well for seven years more of success for our great leader and his policies.

ARTHUR T. SCHWENKE.

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM.

Racine, Wis., March 16.—The letter of Radical in your March 16 issue is typical of the poor sportsmanship of all such. The malcontents, radicals, and wobblies scream for free speech when they want to criticize, but let them get into power, and "it is too bad THE TRIBUNE is allowed to get away with it." I might add that constructive criticism is at best a jellyfish phrase. There is no such thing as constructive criticism; the radicals told me that four years ago when they were on the other side of things.

LONG WINS POINT IN BITTER FIGHT WITH SENATORS

Gets Revenue Collector's Nomination Held Up.

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—Battling almost single handed, Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana projected upon the senate today a bitter nomination fight and won his point to return to committee the nomination of D. D. Moore as collector of internal revenue for Louisiana.

The nomination went back to committee as a result of Long's charges that Moore's nomination had been recommended by John P. Sullivan, whom Long termed a "gambling king of the lowest dive," and who, he added, had "placed relatives in the revenue bureau" at New Orleans since Moore's appointment.

Questioned by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss], chairman of the finance committee which unanimously reported favorably Moore's nomination, Long said he would be ready to present witnesses before the committee in ten days."

Forget Senatorial Courtesy.

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], chairman of the finance subcommittee which previously held hearings on the nomination, and who fought against recommittal, then asked and received unanimous consent to return the nomination to committee.

So bitterly was the debate that frequently members forgot the customary courtesy and addressed each other in the second person.

Recommittal first was suggested by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich], who said "Even if we don't like the Senator from Louisiana, I believe these charges he has made should be investigated."

Harrison Reads from Record.

Both Senators Harrison and Barkley heatedly objected to having the nomination returned to committee, declar- Long should have had the "courtesy" of submitting his charges to the committee instead of on the floor and after the committee had reported the nomination favorably. Long said that certain of the information had come to him after the hearings.

Barkley and Harrison took issue with him, declaring Sullivan was present at the hearings and that Long should have made the "charges to his face."

Harrison read from the record of the hearings that Moore had denied any political affiliation with Sullivan who Long said was federal patronage adviser in Louisiana.

Chain of Gambling Dives.

In debate with the Kentucky Senator, Long said that Col. E. R. Bradley of Kentucky was a "partner" of Sullivan and that they "operated a chain of gambling dives from Florida to Louisiana."

Long asked Harrison if he knew Sullivan and Harrison said he did.

"You know he is a gambling dive operator, don't you?" Long asked.

"No, I do not," Harrison said.

"Then you are the most ignorant man within 20 miles from New Orleans," Long shouted.

EXPLORER TELLS OF FINDING LOST CITY OF SHEBA

Exhibits Aerial Photos of Queen's Capital.

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—The capital of Sheba's fabulous queen cast off its centuries old covering of sand and was endowed with life again today by the words of Andre Malraux, French explorer, author, and archeologist.

With his pilot, Corniglion Molinier, Malraux flew over the wastes of the Arabian desert and identified as the city of Naith a cluster of ruined towers and temples.

He exhibited aerial photographs as evidence that he had discovered the queen of Sheba's long lost city, now half buried in sand and apparently guarded by fierce Arab nomads.

Lost Capital Called Naith.

The lost metropolis, called Naith by roaming Arab story tellers, is situated, roughly, about 100 miles northeast of Mareb, which long was regarded as the seat of the Sheban kingdom.

Malraux believes, in view of the much greater size of Naith's mile square citadel, that it was the real capital of the romantic queen's domain, while Mareb and Mein—the latter is about forty miles west of Naith—were only provincial administrative centers.

"The Arab nomads who fired upon our plane when we flew over the city must be driven off before exploration will be possible," Malraux said. "Further research must await British pacification of the region."

"It was a fantastic vision," said the captain in recounting his impressions of the ruins they saw on March 8. "Think how many dreamed of seeing the fairy city which seemed so impossible to discover that it had become a legend rather than a reality.

Encountered Sandstorm.

"We left Djibouti—in French Somaliland—crossed the Red sea, and flew over Yemen. We encountered a sandstorm that raged five and a half hours, but nevertheless continued.

"Soon we saw thousands of tombs that dot the Valley of Kings. Finally, at the edge of the great Ruba-el-Khali desert, an extraordinary white city loomed up on the dark heights streaked with ancient streams of lava.

"We were above the city of the queen of Sheba—a storied capital abandoned centuries ago and probably visited only from time to time by wandering Bedouins, some of whom we saw.

Greeted with Rifle Shots.

"These Bedouins gave us a bad reception. We were greeted with rifle shots. There could be no thought of landing. Besides, the ground was rough and it would have been impossible for an airplane to alight.

"Our flight lasted nine hours, so we returned to Ojibouti the same day."

Malraux said the until the desert is explored the exact location cannot be fixed, but that explorers could mark the site by measuring the number of miles from a given starting point. Earlier he said the place was about 1,000 miles southeast of Jerusalem.

The citadels of Mareb and Mein, Malraux said, are less than half as large as Naith's, and the ancients wrote of Sheba's capital as strongly fortified. He sought to explain away previous identifications of Mareb as the seat of the kingdom by saying the queen may have had palaces there and at Mein.

At one time the city of Naith was on ancient route of camel caravans bearing spices, perfumes, and silks from India to Jerusalem. Now it is drab, vast, dead.

GIRL PUPIL, 14, COUNTY'S BEST IN DECLAMATION

Gertrude Krueger, 14 years old, of Clearing Station school district 109, triumphed over two boys yesterday in the annual declamation contest among rural school children of Cook county, sponsored by Otto F. Aken, county superintendent of schools. Jimmie Blizek, 10 years old, of Elgin, placed second, and Raymond Schultz, 13 years old, of Morton Grove, third. They were the winners among 10,000 children in the six county divisions competing in the contest. The declamation, written by David Heffernan, son-in-law of Edward J. Tobin, late county superintendent of schools, was entitled "What Makes a Leader." The contest was held in the Field museum and was attended by 1,400 persons. The winners were awarded medals and banners for their schools.

SHOT BY WOMAN, DIES.

WOMAN BREAKS UP FOX HUNT BY LASHING HOUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 23.—Two sly old foxes got a break against the hounds today in a most unexpected manner.

At Peacehaven, near Brighton, this afternoon the Southdown hunt suddenly streamed through the village in full cry after two foxes. The foxes doubled around the bungalow occupied by Miss Leith. The hounds were close at the heels of the foxes.

The young woman, who happened to be a lover of animals, seized a whip. She dashed among the hounds, lashing right and left, scattering the surprised animals in all directions. The foxes, taking advantage of the confusion, dashed off in another direction and were eventually lost. The master of the hunt expressed the hope that the foxes repay Miss Leith's kindness in their usual manner—by pinching a couple of Miss Leith's chickens during the night.

HE AND SISTER CLOSEST CHUMS, JOHN D. JR. SAYS

Mrs. Edith R. M'Cormick Trust Fund Discussed.

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—John D. Rockefeller Jr. told Supreme Court Referee Robert M. Marsh today that he and his sister, the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick of Chicago, were the closest of chums and that there was never anything that he would not have done for her.

This brotherly revelation was made in a hearing to determine how the trust fund of his sister is to be distributed. The value of the fund was placed at 14 million dollars at the time of Mrs. McCormick's death on Aug. 25, 1932, in Chicago.

Most of Mr. Rockefeller's testimony was of a technical nature, but for a moment it touched upon the more personal elements. It was in this moment that Mr. Rockefeller, in a quiet voice, told how he and Mrs. McCormick were close chums.

Affection Carried On.

That close relationship, he said, existed from their early youth until her death.

"That affection," he added, "has been carried over to her children."

His reference was to the former Muriel McCormick, now Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard; Fowler McCormick, and Mrs. Mathilde Oser. The present litigation was initiated last October by Mrs. Hubbard.

In it she is claiming a four-sevenths share of the trust fund, and is automatically attacking any possible claims to shares in it by Edwin Krenn, for years Mrs. McCormick's partner, who was bequeathed a five-twelfths share of her estate in her will.

The hearing raises the basic question of whether the heirs are to receive the principal of the fund or merely the income from the principal. Into this picture is injected John D. Rockefeller Sr.

Dispute Over Alteration.

When he established his trust fund for his daughter, Mrs. McCormick, he gave her the right to dispose of the principal and income at her death. Some years later, however, he obtained her consent to an alteration of this arrangement which provided that she could dispose of the income only and not the principal.

Mrs. Hubbard is claiming that this alteration is not valid and that the distribution of the fund should be based on the original agreement.

Another hearing in the matter will be held by Referee Marsh next Friday afternoon.

DAICHES' WIDOW TO GET $9,000 OF $325,000 POLICY

Although Eli Daiches, advertising executive who was shot to death on March 3, left $325,000 of insurance, only $9,000 of the amount is to go to his wife, Mrs. Belle Turner Daiches. The remainder will go to his firm, the Thomas M. Bowers agency, as beneficiary.

Mrs. Daiches arrived in Chicago yesterday from Palestine, where she had gone on a tour prior to her husband's death. She had been met in New York by Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan and Police Sergeant Otto Erlanson, who accompanied her here. She said she could give the investigators no clews to explain the murder of her husband.

"Our marriage was a happy one," she declared.

MAYOR AND ALL OFFICERS KEEP SO. PARK POSTS

Mayor Kelly, president of the south park board, and all other officers of the board were reelected at a meeting yesterday. William H. McDonnell again was named vice president; George P. Donoghue, general superintendent; Milton E. Connelly, secretary, and Philip S. Graver, auditor.

The board instructed Supt. Donoghue to confer with A Century of Progress officials relative to a plan to move the south entrance of the Fair from 39th to 35th street. The action was taken after a delegation of Oakland district business men appeared before the board opposing such a change. The delegates declared that a move to change the Fair gate and convert the southern end of A Century of Progress grounds into a public parking space would prove harmful to their business interests.

Supt. Donoghue also was instructed to investigate a proposal for the construction of an under pass beneath the Illinois Central tracks at 47th street. Approximately 75 men will be given work on the project if it is approved.

There he was to meet a Mrs. Le Master, grandmother of the child. He failed to find any Mrs. Le Master there. The boy, who said his name was Ronald, was taken to the juvenile

EXPECT TO END GAS TAX EVASION TRIAL MONDAY

The trial of the conspiracy case against three officials of the Consumers Gas and Oil company, who are alleged to have defrauded the state of gasoline taxes, will be concluded Monday evening. Judge Donald S. McKinlay tried to end the case last evening, but the attorneys said it would take an entire day for final arguments.

Al Johnson, one of the defendants, took the witness stand in his own behalf yesterday and told a story of how a man, who was not named, offered to fix the case for $5,000. The fixer posed as a policeman from the state's attorney's office, Johnson said. He admitted that he investigated and learned the man had no official connections. The other defendants in the case are Max Johnson, a brother of Al, and Sam Levin.

WOMEN FIGHT TO ATTEND RITES FOR MOVIE STAR

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—Hundreds of women screamed and fought today outside the Universal chapel, trying to attend the funeral rites for Lilyan Tashman. She died Wednesday at Doctors' hospital.

Police reserves were called out to hold the crowd back and open narrow lanes for relatives and friends of the movie star. Eddie Cantor, there to deliver a eulogy on Miss Tashman, reached the chapel breathless, his overcoat and hat awry.

In a bronze coffin the body of Miss Tashman lay in a pale blue evening dress. Floral tributes were piled to the ceiling.

Edmund Lowe, actor and husband of Miss Tashman, and her sisters, Mrs. Robert Robinson and Mrs. Samuel Blumenson, knelt by the coffin for half an hour before Rabbi Samuel Goldensohn began the services.

Among the mourners were Mary Pickford, Sophie Tucker, Sidney Howard, William Powell, Irene Fenwick [Mrs. Lionel Barrymore], Francine Larrimore, Major Edward Bowes, Mae Murray and Fanny Brice.

Echoes of the tumult outside were heard as Mr. Cantor delivered his brief eulogy, recalling that two weeks ago Miss Tashman appeared in the Israel Orphan asylum benefit at the Metropolitan opera while in great pain, which had been relieved at the last minutes by a dose of morphine.

Two women fainted as police cleared a path for the funeral cortége to leave the chapel. They were revived as the procession moved away.

FISHERMEN FILE SUIT FOR $3,000,000 AGAINST 15 FIRMS

A suit for $3,000,000 damages was filed in the federal court yesterday by the 500 members of the Fishermen's Coöperative association against the Lakeside Fish and Oyster company and 14 other concerns, which are alleged to have violated the anti-trust laws in the marketing of fish in Chicago.

The petition of the fishermen, filed by Attorney Harry A. Collinger, charged that all the defendant companies are controled by Benjamin Sacks and that he has caused wholly artificial prices to be paid the fish catchers.

It is the practice in the industry for the fishermen to ship their catch to wholesalers in the city, who sell the fish, deduct a 10 per cent commission and other charges and remit the remainder. The plaintifs asserted that, through Sacks' influence, the prices paid them are not what they would be without artificial control of the market. It was also alleged that methods of grading have been unfair.

The amount of fish sold annually in Chicago, it was stated, is 100,000,000 pounds, with a value of $10,000,000.

Edna Doering Will Be Bride on April 19

Ceremony to Be Performed in New York City.

BY JUDITH CASS.

At 1:15 o'clock the afternoon of April 19 in St. Thomas' church in New York City, just a short time after she disembarks from Europe, Miss Edna Mary Doering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering Jr. will become the bride of George Peck Earling, son of Mrs. George Peck Earling of Milwaukee.

Following the ceremony the few guests will attend a wedding breakfast at the Barclay hotel where the Doerings are to stop. And after this Mr. Earling and his bride will leave by motor for New Orleans, where they are to spend a month before returning to Milwaukee to make their home.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Doering did not care to make a formal announcement of the engagement since the wedding is to be so small and quiet and away from home, also because there is mourning in their family, they confirmed the rumor and cabled the news yesterday from Taormina, Sicily, where they are spending several weeks. Last fall the Doerings departed "en famille" for Europe.

If Miss Doering has an attendant, her sister, Virginia [Mrs. Stevenson], will serve. Albert Earling will serve his brother as best man.

Presented to Society at Tea in 1932.

Miss Doering, the second of the Doerings' three daughters, is one of the most popular young women in town. She attended the University School for Girls and the Mary C. Wheeler school in Providence. Her grandmother, the late Mrs. Edward T. Jeffery, and her parents presented her to society in the fall of 1932 at a tea in the Doerings' handsome Astor street home.

A few weeks later, after she had starred in the Service club production for that year, Mr. and Mrs. Doering "introduced" the debutantes' dancing season by giving a dinner-dance for Miss Doering at the Blackstone hotel that is still recalled as one of the best parties of the winter. Miss Doering is also a member of the Junior league.

Mr. Earling was graduated from Hotchkiss school and attended Harvard university. He is a grandson of the late Albert J. Earling and a cousin of Earling Fitch, whose wife is the former Jane Wright Anderton, daughter of the William Van Doren Wrights.

Engagement in East of Interest to Chicago.

Several Chicago families will be interested in an engagement that is being announced today in Atlanta, Ga. It is that of Miss Henrietta Lucy Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Warren Owens of Atlanta, formerly of St. Paul, Minn., to James Gamble Rogers Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gamble Rogers of New York City.

Miss Owens is descended on the maternal side from Rufus King, signer of the constitution and minister to England under George Washington, and from William Paterson, also a signer of the constitution, first governor of New Jersey and a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John William Owens of St. Paul and a niece of Mrs. William Winfield Brown and Dr. Frederick M. Owens, also of St. Paul.

Miss Owens was graduated from Connecticut college and has made her home in New York City for the last several years. Mr. Rogers is a grandson of late Albert M. Day of Lake Forest and a nephew of Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, Bernard F. Rogers, and the Hopewell L. Rogerses. He was graduated from St.

Anemone.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The delicate wood anemone is one of America's rarest and prettiest wild flowers. The quilt block of this name is one of the oldest known to quilt historians, and one that is thoroughly American, since it is only recently that the anemone was cultivated in Europe. Early Virginia quilters seized upon the simplest flowers and reproduced them most successfully in their most famous quilts. Finished, "Anemone" measures 10 inch squares and requires 28 applique and 20 plain blocks.

Easter Victory Held Lesson to Troubled World

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Passion week, which closes tonight, and Holy week, which opens tomorrow with Palm Sunday dramatize for many Christians the way of meeting and conquering trouble.

The period is used by many devout persons as a time to cast off what some have called "the shallow appeals of success cults" and to face the certainty that each person has more pain of one sort or another than he generally wishes to speak about. How people meet their troubles, and what their troubles or suffering do to them, make front page stories in every newspaper every day.

This obvious fact is at least one of the reasons why the leading news story of all time—Christ's life—continues to attract increasing numbers of readers day by day after 1,900 years.

According to thoughtful persons, mankind has adopted either of two general ways in facing suffering and trouble. One way was Christ's and the other the Buddha's. For the latter, everything existing was wrong. This fact was proved to him by his observation that a main fact of life is trouble. The Buddha "consented to live" in order to show his followers the way to Nirvana, where all existence and its troubles are extinct. Therefore he showed no interest in alleging pain or suffering.

As pain was life's chief fact, the Buddha held that no good would come from attention to pain but in making sure that a man's life would become so completely extinguished that it could not return to inhabit another body after death.

On the other hand, Christ accepted the fact that much is wrong with the world but that all could be made right. His followers were taught that because God rules and because He is good, a victorious way out would be given to each who seeks it. In suffering and trouble, mankind's chief subject of interest and attention, Christ's followers are to find life and victory portrayed in the Easter story.

Because pain and trouble had great meaning for Christ, and because He held that they may be overcome, as contrasted with the Buddha's views, Christ was constantly engaged in allaying pain and by showing interest in people's welfare by pointing out ways to wipe out trouble. His consciousness of God as ruler made the world a place of beauty to Him, worthy of man's engrossing study.

Thus from Christ's work of healing the sick, helping the troubled, and interesting men in the facts of the world, the whole field of modern social institutions arose—hospitals, welfare work, schools and colleges with all their related institutions, as well as churches.

This field of social institutions represents invested capital of more than 15 billion dollars, the fourth largest of all "industries." Commercial industries are founded upon success and ease, Christ's "industry," as represented by institutions arising from Christian leadership, are founded upon pain and defeat.

Lutheran Churches Confirm 4,000 at Rites Tomorrow

The Rev. Herbert Kohn, pastor of Nazareth Lutheran church, 5945 South Spaulding avenue, announced yesterday that 106 churches of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod in Chicago will receive more than 4,000 members through confirmations tomorrow at Palm Sunday services. Preparation of children for this rite began last October.

The Absentee Parent Has a Grave Problem

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Repeatedly we receive letters from parents saying that it helps them so much to read of the difficulties of other parents which are often like their own. Here is a situation described which may be like yours:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: I read with great interest your daily articles dealing with child control and recognize many of our troubles in the quotations from your correspondence.

"We have four children ranging in age from two to five years. My wife and I are working away from home much of the time and our four constitute a real trial of the patience and ability of my wife and of myself during our weekends at home.

"We will greatly appreciate receiving any of your booklets and any suggestions which may furnish assistance in the solution of our problem."

In these times there are many families in which it has been necessary for both the mother and father to go to work. Taking for granted then that this is an absolute necessity let us look over this letter, which is typical of many I receive.

One's first thought is that there is some fault in the care the children receive in the daytime. Naturally this would show when weekends come.

One's second surmise is that the parents themselves need guidance in managing their children. And also that these four children are so thirsty for the companionship of their parents that they become demanding when their parents are with them and act up in order to have their complete attention.

My first recommendation is—procure a fine capable woman who is fond of children and experienced with them for their daytime care.

Second—study ways of managing the children so that weekends will become something for all of you to look forward to. Brief reading will help. There are excellent books on child training for which we have reference leaflets.

We have also written-in-full booklets on various aspects of child guidance for different ages which can be obtained on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Stripes Are Smart for Suits

Here's Solution of Streamline Style Problem

All-in-One Underlayer Pleases Expert.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Here's a find!

Just when you decide that new clothes are a problem because of their smooth streamlines, some bright soul presents a new all-in-one underlayer that almost defies description. It's a costume slip-corset-foundation affair that will snuggle smoothly under the newest sheath of a dress without a single shadow of a wrinkle.

It's a miracle of assembling . . . the sides of satin lastex, cut exactly in the manner of super-slim one-piece foundation garment; it has the newest uplift brasserie of Alençon lace lined with net; it has bias panels of flesh colored silk crêpe at the sides and straight panels front and back to prevent twisting.

Under this slip are well designed panties attached to the brasserie and satin lastex, a complete under-undergarment cleverly fashioned in with the crêpe of the slip. Sounds impossibly complicated, but see it and be won immediately!

In the same shop are some new nightgowns worthy of an envious sigh . . . some luscious new silks with ruffled bertha collars made with demure pinked edges, something you haven't seen for years. Then there are some long sleeved ensembles that are knockouts . . . sheer crêpe material made in Grecian effect, with contrasting grosgrain ribbon for straps and outlining the V neckline, and over this nightgown is worn the new long sleeved jacket.

This jacket reaches a new low with the rippling lower edge fluttering below the hip . . . the sleeves are loose and very long, the neckline high and round with contrasting ribbon going around all edges . . . the colors, flesh with old blue and other equally delectable combines.

Dennis King Play to Open Here April 16

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Richard of Bordeaux," a lavishly staged historical drama with Dennis King as its star, was entered yesterday on the schedule of post-Easter playgoing for Chicago. The American Theater Society announces this production for the fourth offering of its subscription season at the Erlanger theater. The première will take place Monday night, April 16; the engagement will be of two weeks' duration.

This work, which is described as a pageant-drama because of its rich display of settings and costumes, has had a long run in London. The American production was staged in the Empire theater, New York, on Feb. 14, and was well received. Its story deals with the last of the Plantagenet dynasty of kings of England from his youth until the time of his abdication—material that served Shakespeare for his tragedy, "Richard II." Gordon Daviot, Englishman of letters, is the author.

"Richard of Bordeaux" will mark Dennis King's return to Chicago for the first time since his notable success as a singing actor in the operetta, "The Vagabond King," in 1926. His large company includes Henry Mollison, Hugh Buckler, Charles Bryant, Montague Love, A. G. Andrews, Alexander Frank, Andrew Cruickshank, Lionel Hogarth, Olive Reeves-Smith, Elizabeth Carr and fifty others.

The box-office sale for non-subscribers to the American Theater Society's program will open April 9.

The fifth annual tournament of dramas of religious and social significance, conducted under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation, entered its final phase last night with the staging of the regional prize winning piece in the Chicago Woman's Club theater. This "festival" program included:

"A Child of the Frontier," by Edna Levinger, dealing with the birth of Abraham Lincoln; acted by the South Shore Community church players.

"Dust of the Road," by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, in which an apparition of Judas Iscariot reforms a pair of miserly, embezzling middle west farm folk on Christmas eve; acted by the Gross Park Methodist church players.

"The Undercurrent," by Fay Ehlert, which tells a story of tenement life with a brutal father, a delinquent daughter and a morals court worker as the important characters; acted by the high school group of the Wilmette Parish Methodist church.

"Blessed Vagrants," by Ray H. Bosworth, a drama placed in a police court on Christmas eve; acted by the Evanston First Congregational church players.

The program will be repeated tonight.

Concert Band Starts Drive of Sousa Fund

Grabel Directs Group in Splendid Program.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Chicago Concert band, directed by Victor Grabel, appeared at Orchestra hall last night in the first of a series of concerts for the benefit of the Sousa Memorial association. In order to carry on the work of the late John Philip Sousa, America's most famous bandmaster, the association has been formed with the idea of creating a great school of band music and training for band musicians.

It is a great ideal, and the Chicago band is an organization of high merit, fully able to carry the banner for its attainment. Also, as those who have attended the Chicagoland Music Festivals know, Victor Grabel is a notable bandmaster, fully alive to the possibilities of tone, accent, and spirit that mark the leader of a good band.

Wherefore the Sousa Memorial association begins the task that it has set for itself under the most favorable of artistic auspices. In last night's concert, whose first notes were those of "The Stars and Stripes Forever," serious music alternated with gay tunes, following each other in rapid succession, Mr. Grabel dispensed extra numbers with great generosity, all with excellent tone and the perfection of exact attack. Irma Burns, soprano, was the soloist.

The band will play another concert with a different program at Orchestra hall this afternoon. Then it departs on a tour of several weeks to Detroit and various communities in the vicinity.

A brief but exceedingly pleasant concert program for the benefit of Beulah Home and Maternity hospital was given in the Gold room of the Congress hotel last night by Margery Maxwell, soprano; Janet Fairbank, soprano; Will Blailock, baritone, and Rhea Shelters, pianist. Miss Maxwell and Mr. Blailock each sang an aria as well as a group of songs, and another group of songs by Miss Fairbank and a solo by Miss Shelters made up a recital all parts of which were warmly received by the audience.

Beautiful Dogs and Ships Form 2 Art Exhibits

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two more popular subjects than dogs and ships it would be hard to find. Two exhibitions, one featuring boats and the other dogs, have just opened.

In the Ackermann galleries, Fine Arts building, the famous English painter of marines, Montague Dawson, offers a brilliant show of clipper ships and modern yachts.

In the Florentine room, Congress hotel, under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts, Ted Vognild is represented with an array of dog portraits. Hers is a silent dog show, but except for the bark she has put upon canvas all that there is of her canine models.

Firm bodies, glossy coats, speaking eyes, petulant tongue (in a Peke), wet black noses, pride of carriage, each characteristic of Russian wolfhound, German police dog, chow, wire haired terrier or sober pointer, Miss Vognild has faithfully transcribed in paint. These are living portraits, winning your enthusiastic approval in painting after painting.

In more whimsical mood is the painting of the wire haired terrier pup chewing a paint brush and standing with all four feet planted on the palette which he has knocked from a table. Less of humor, more of beauty is seen in the portrait of "Tingaling," a fine red chow owned by Mr. Wetterhahn. The cream colored chow, owned by Mrs. Charles Wrigley, is another pleasing picture. The pointer, "Pat," looks in dignified manner from a guard of autumn leaves.

Good as the dogs are, the boats have their day, too. The Ackermann galleries are but a step from the Congress and it is worth making the effort to see the paintings by Montague Dawson.

The clipper ships are like most of their class, romantic and pictorial. They are finely painted and they ride great seas, some calm and others rough. Yet it is to the modern yachts that one returns again and again.

"Summer Sails" is a boat sailing blue water; "Silvery Seas" is as the title indicates. Either is of that fine spun quality which clothes its bearer with a lasting beauty. Of neither of these canvases could one tire. They are magnificent examples of marine art at its best.

The Dawson paintings will be on view to April 8; the Vognild exhibit will continue to April 30.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Not a woman in the cast—and none needed!

"The Lost Patrol" is a starkly suspenseful desert drama. It depicts an episode occurring during the world war when a British patrol became lost on the Mesopotamian desert.

Marooned on an oasis, the men are picked off one by one by an enemy—or enemies—they can neither hear nor see. Their horses are spirited away while they are sleeping.

Finally only one o. the squad is left. The stalwart, intrepid sergeant. And, suddenly, before his weary, horror-dazed eyes, the foe appears . . . !

An unusual amount of tense excitement is maintained throughout the eight reels, and direction and acting are ace.

Victor McLaglen hands you a genuine surprise by his handling of a rôle so different from the bawdy parts usually assigned to him. As the sergeant, compelled to take command after the leader is shot, he is a real down to earth he man, with strength of spirit and humanity of soul. And he never slops over.

Boris Karloff is ominous as a religious fanatic. Wallace Ford, as the last man to be killed, is dauntless and lovable.

Douglas Walton does a good bit as the first to go—an English boy, 19 years old, who wistfully gazes at the desert moon and whispers:

"In twelve hours more it will be shining on the gardens in England. . . ."

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dodo, who was untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dodo's deceased mother, was staying with Dodo. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and Dodo's guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse her friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist. Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dodo. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police. A doctor set the time of Dodo's death around midnight. Helen sends Tommy to break the news to Dodo's step-father, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge.

INSTALMENT XII.

BEARING TRAGIC NEWS.

No good trying to soften the blow. In a few bald sentences Tommy got it over, and with a feeling of sympathy saw the remnants of sleep stripped away to reveal stark horror.

"My step-daughter . . . but . . . but . . . you must allow me a moment to take this in."

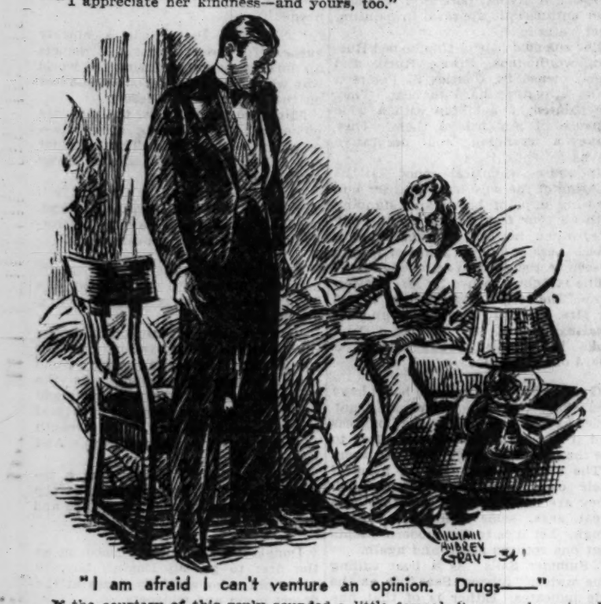
He had sat up in bed, his parchment skin bedewed with sweat. Presently he drew a handkerchief from beneath the pillows and with mechanical care wiped his forehead. His hand trembled slightly.

"Please give me all the details," he said, showing an admirable self-command, and as Tommy complied one could almost see the cool brain laboring, with method and precision, to grasp every aspect of the situation thus violently thrust upon it. Here, thought Tommy, was a man at all times dominated by reason. He was shocked, he was physically bowled over, but his mental processes were not dislocated.

The Mongoloid eyes, more than ever resembling stones under water, never wavered from the narrator's face. One could see that many things were passing behind them, not excluding the effect this decidedly lurid scandal was going to have on their owner's life. Indeed Tommy was aware of two distinct lines of thought—one following the actual facts of the crime, the other keenly speculative, possibly for personal consideration.

"There's nothing more to be done at the moment," concluded the bearer of news. "The police have taken our statements and are in possession of the apartment. Miss Roderick was anxious not to disturb you till it became absolutely necessary, which is why you weren't informed sooner."

"I appreciate her kindness—and yours, too."



"I am afraid I can't venture an opinion. Drugs——"

If the courtesy of this reply sounded a little formal, it was only natural in the circumstances. The man, for all his forced composure, must be badly shaken. Tommy wondered if he had better go at once, but while he hesitated he saw the eyes opposite narrow and fix on him a penetrating scrutiny.

"We have met before, I think?"

"In the hall, last night before dinner. I am a friend of Miss Roderick's, and my name is Rostetter."

"But you knew my step-daughter, of course?"

"I saw her once or twice when she was a small child. You see, I had some slight acquaintance with your late wife."

"Indeed!" There was a flicker of interest in the eyes. "That was previous to my marriage, I suppose. And your profession is——"

"Journalism. I was with Reuter for a long time, but now I'm a free lance. Incidentally, though my influence may not be great, please count on me to do my best towards suppressing any needless publicity this affair may lead to. No human power can prevent its making a stir, but——"

He was checked by a dignified gesture.

"Pray don't consider my private feelings in the matter, Mr. . . . Mr. Rostetter. I can only lament, very bitterly, my complete uselessness towards helping justice. Unfortunately, my step-daughter's life was a sealed book to me. I have no knowledge of the persons you mention, and have never so much as heard of this young woman who absented herself while the rest of you slept. Am I to understand that suspicion attaches to her?"

"For no reason whatever except that she was not there." Tommy spoke with combative energy, determined not to divulge one whit of what he had learned the previous evening. "To my mind, there are several reasons for thinking her entirely innocent. Why, for one thing, should a guilty individual commit the supreme imprudence of going away when safety lay in remaining in our midst? And why should the outer door show no signs of having been touched by her?"

Jethro eyed him again, attentively, then shook his head.

"I am afraid I can't venture an opinion. Drugs—" As before when this part of the affair was mentioned a look of repugnance crossed his features—"may be responsible for many vagaries of conduct. The subject's medical history might be of importance—but there, how is it possible to theorize at this stage? You yourself," he added slowly, "saw nothing, heard no sound?"

"I was dead to the world. We all were."

It seemed to Tommy that Jethro, without voicing an opinion, had been struck by the warmth of his defense. Up till now it had scarcely occurred to him to bother about his own position, but all at once he realized that to an unbiased view he might be regarded in the same light as the other suspects. The thought made him uncomfortable, so that he was not sorry when Jethro, with a movement of rising, gave the signal for his departure. Still, he felt a slight compunction about deserting a fellow being about to face a trying ordeal, and thinking the man really looked far from well, he made a tentative suggestion of accompanying him to the apartment. To his relief, however, the offer met with a decided refusal.

"No, no, I prefer to go alone. Don't let me detain you. But if you will be so kind, you might on your way out countermand my breakfast. The idea of food is rather distasteful."

During the past few seconds, Tommy had, in a purely mechanical manner and chiefly to avoid staring at his companion, let his gaze roam round the room. There was little to be seen beyond the meager furnishings. The wardrobe, wide open, showed two suits dangling from the rod. The chest of drawers held only a pair of military brushes and a clean collar and tie, the cabin trunk strapped in readiness for today's journey, stood on a stand, and on top of it was a handsome case of piecrust colored pigskin, the lid thrown back to display neatly packed personal belongings. A dressing gown and a pair of morocco slippers made up the total. Taking a final survey, Tommy felt dimly conscious that there ought to be something more. What was it he had all this while been looking for? His brain must still be clouded, or he would have known. Perhaps it was a freak of the imagination. At any rate, it could not possibly matter. He said good-by and retraced his steps along the passage.

It was while waiting for the lift that he suddenly remembered he had failed to speak of his donation to the police. Jethro might be interested to know that the police were in a position to estimate the effect of the drug employed, thinking which he went quickly back to supply the information. He tapped on the door, but there was no response. Did this mean that room eighteen possessed a private bath, and the occupant was in it? Certainly the public bath and lavatory just beside him were empty, for the doors of both stood ajar. He listened, but the only sounds came from the denizen of seventeen, whose clumsy footwear had been taken inside. Jethro's shoes, too, had disappeared. O, well, it was of no importance. He descended, delivered the message about breakfast, together with a word of explanation to the manager, and cutting short the latter's expressions of horrified concern, hastened to his own abode in the Place du Palais Bourbon.

A hot bath and more coffee cleared the lingering mists from his brain. By ten o'clock, clad in suitable tweeds, he had finished and posted his Times' article, and on fire to learn the result of Helen's telephoning dashed back to the Ile St. Louis—now driving his own rather battered two-seater.

Edna Doering Will Be Bride on April 19

Paul's school and Yale university in the class of 1931.

When twenty of society's popular post-debs and their beaux arrive for dinner this evening at the attractive Ellis avenue home of Mrs. Thomas J. Healy, congratulations and good wishes will set a sprightly tempo for the conversation. This morning Mrs. Healy is announcing the engagement of her younger daughter, Katherine, to John J. Dacey III., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Dacey of New York City.

Soon after Mrs. Healy planned tonight's party, it became known that it was to be a 27th birthday celebration for Mr. Dacey, but the news of the betrothal has been kept a secret.

A pretty brunette of vivacity and charm, Miss Healy was graduated from the Bennett school at Millbrook, N. Y. The last two or three years she has made a name for herself as a star of the annual Service club revue. Mr. Dacey moved to Chicago from New York three years ago and since then has made his residence at 900 North Michigan avenue. He is a graduate of Groton and Yale.

Miss Ann McKeown to Be Bride Today.

Only relatives and close friends will witness the wedding this afternoon of Miss Ann Winifred McKeown, daughter of the John C. McKeowns of Hubbard Woods, to William S. Miles Jr., son of Mrs. William S. Miles of Peoria. Dean Gerald G. Moore of the St. Luke's pro-cathedral in Evanston will read the ceremony before an improvised altar in the music room of the McKeown home on Private road, and a small reception will follow.

Mrs. George Bacon Moore has come west from her in Waban, Mass., to be matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Louise Dunn of Tenafly, N. J., is here to be maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Joy Fairman and Mrs. Kenneth C. McKeown, the bride's sister-in-law. Theodore Page Jr. of Peoria will be best man for his cousin, and Howard Kellogg of Peoria and Kenneth C. McKeown will usher.

After a wedding trip of a month, Mr. Miles and his bride will be at home in Peoria.

Mr. and Mrs. McKeown gave the bridal dinner at home last night.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Bishop and Mrs. George Craig Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney, Angus S. Hibbard, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Welles, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Robinson, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis are some of those who will attend the lecture Anton Lang Jr., son of the Christus of the Passion Play at Oberammergau, is to give at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Gold ballroom of the Drake hotel. The lecture is under the sponsorship of the Church Club of Chicago. Mr. Lang will be the guest this week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Simpson of Winnetka.

Young Society to Enjoy Cocktails.

Young people will gather in an apartment at 203 East Chestnut street for cocktails tomorrow afternoon with Miss Betty Scriven and her fiancé, Dr. Frederick Harney Bassett. The hosts will be Howard J. Snowden, Henry P. Bruner, and Benjamin N. Jackson, with whom Mr. Bassett makes his home.

Tomorrow night Robert Hall McCormick, president of the Alliance Française, will entertain at dinner for M. Rene Jasinski, professor of French literature at the University of Lille and exchange professor at the University of Buffalo, who is giving the usual conference in the Alliance library this noon. M. and Mme. Henri David are giving a dinner for M. Jasinski and his sister, who is accompanying him, tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto G. Schmidt have invited more than a dozen guests for supper tomorrow evening at their Woodlawn avenue home to meet Rose Quong, the Chinese actress, who has been in Chicago at the Stevens hotel the last fortnight.

Mrs. Philip B. Maher, who went abroad suddenly with Mrs. Albert Dewey Jr. of Washington, is arriving at home this morning accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Michelson Dick, who has been abroad with her young daughter, Dorothy, for the last year. They have been visiting the third Michelson girl, Beatrice, now Mrs. Festus F. Foster, and Lieut. Foster, in Washington.

More Interesting News of Travelers.

When Robert E. Kenyon Jr. returned from a month's vacation in Florida he brought news about the former Peggy Glidden and her husband, John Roderick Rogers of Ausable Forks, N. Y., who were married in Highland Park last September and have since been living in the east. Mr. Kenyon spent a week-end with them in Eustis, Fla.

Miss Jane Valentine left her studies at the University of Chicago yesterday to join her parents, the Joseph Valentines, at Aiken for the Easter vacation. Young Billy Valentine will go from school to join his parents at Aiken.

The Edward M. Berthas will not have their children with them for the spring holidays. Miss Marjorie Bertha, who will be graduated from Smith in June, is gone to Bermuda, sailing today with several of her classmates, and their son, Edward Jr., who will be graduated from the Berkshire school in June, is motoring to Florida with Homer L. Dixon Jr. and two roommates to spend his spring vacation.

The Frank E. Wilhelms and their daughter, Miss Jean Wilhelm, and Miss Louise Dewey, are leaving tomorrow for Florida and the Illand of Useppa, where they plan to spend three weeks. Miss Suzanne Morris is leaving on the same train tomorrow to spend a fortnight with Miss Betty Alexander and her mother, Mrs. James G. Alexander, in Palm Beach.

Mrs. Jacob Baur and Mrs. Townsend McKeever are expected to arrive at home this week-end. They are motoring from New York, where they have been for a week after two months in Florida.

Mrs. Helen Walker Szukalska is one of the many busy with preparations for moving these days, for she and her household will move from 2130 Lincoln Park West to 2600 Lake View avenue.

Ed Gargan Has Hopes of Being Auto Mechanic

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 23.—[Special.]—Ed Gargan, brother of Bill Gargan, is playing a Mississippi river hard guy character in Mae West's "It Ain't No Sin." He betrayed an old hobby when he beheld Miss West's new 16 cylinder auto roll into the Paramounts tudio. "Say, Miss West, do me a favor" Gargan asked. "Let me fix that auto for you if anything ever goes wrong with it."

Gargan attended Pratt institute in Brooklyn before becoming an actor, and studied mechanical engineering, and is interested in the intricacies of big, new complicated automobiles.

Bing Crosby and his brother, today obtained sherif's office permits to carry weapons, and each bought a gun, the result of the warning that two men had been talking about kidnaping Bing or his baby.

Bette Davis had a kidnap scare of her own last night, returning from location on "Of Human Bondage," at the RKO ranch, 25 miles out of Hollywood. She saw another car behind her, and gradually became certain she was being followed. Stepping on the gas, the other car did the same, and Bette, panicky, finally got her roadster up to a high speed which little by little lengthened the lead. For mile after mile she kept a lookout for a policeman, and finally spotted two of them, to whom she dodged with screaming brakes. She told the pair about the car following her, and the police started toward the road just as the pursuing car came up, apparently intending to make a stop. The police sprang forward and out stepped Leslie Howard. "You forgot your fur and purse," he told Bette.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We've been experimenting with lipsticks again; we get spells when life isn't worth living if we can't mess around with them, so we can find out their little tricks and learn more about this currently important subject of "indelibility."

You don't take that word too literally, do you? You shouldn't. There are degrees of lipstick indelibility, but heaven forbid that a truly indelible lipstick ever be invented. It wouldn't even be hygienic! We know of some that have the highest degree of the present day interpretation of indelibility where lipsticks are concerned but all is not elegant that's too indelible.

A lipstick that stays on too long doesn't suit us. Personally we don't want to put on lipstick in the morning, eat breakfast, lunch and dinner and in between dash all over this dusty town. We'd prefer to feel a little cleaner, to have that morning coat either wear off or be wiped off and replaced with a nice, fresh, brilliantly red paint job every couple of hours.

Then again, some of these until-soap-and-water-do-we-part lipsticks that stay on so long lose their original color after a couple of hours. There's an undercoating of rouge there, all right, but if it isn't the outer coating of the shade we paid our good money for, what's all the shooting about "indelibility" for?

Bearing all this in mind we were impressed when the maker of some rather new lipsticks with cream rouges to match didn't try to impress us too much about their staying power. He merely said that his lipsticks would stay on the lips, with no change of color, for six hours. We found this to be true. He said too that they would not make the lips dry, or be crumbly. This is also true.

We liked the lipsticks and the matching rouges. The shades are good, there is no suggestion of that odor that instantly reveals the presence of cheap ingredients, and the texture is nice and creamy. On a lipstick or rouge hunt, look into the matter of these. They're in two Chicago stores.

BY MARY MEADE.

It isn't like a "down south" beaten biscuit and it isn't like a northern tea wafer, but it's a cross somewhere between the two. Officially it's known as a hors d'œuvre biscuit or cracker. By nature it's English, although by name it may be French.

All of which refers to a brittle little cracker which goes so well with appetizers and, in fact, is often formed into wee boxes to hold tingling dabs of this or that as a perfect starter for an epicure's dinner. A young gentleman asked for it and after hunting low and high our recipe was finally tracked to earth. Here it is. Why not try it for fun some time?

HORS D'OEUVRES BISCUITS OR CRACKERS
(English Version.)
1 pound bread flour
Pinch of salt
2 tablespoons lard
Cold water

Mix the flour, salt, and lard with enough cold water to make a stiff dough. Be sure the lard is finely cut into the flour before the water is added. Turn out on a pastry board and beat the mixture with a heavy rolling pin. Fold the dough over once and repeat the beating, folding until the dough begins to blister and becomes flaky. Roll out to about one-quarter inch thickness and allow to stand for ten minutes, well covered. Cut out with a cutter and place the biscuits on a greased baking sheet and prick all over with a fork. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until golden brown. It is very important that the dough be kept well covered and moist during this preparation. Do not dust with flour while rolling. Rather grease the board very slightly with a little lard.

The above recipe makes what are known as "water biscuits." To make milk biscuits simply substitute milk for the water.

How to polish the nose of the baked ham is the worry of Mrs. F. E. W., who asks for a nice brown glaze to go over her hams. Our suggestion is that she bake her ham and glaze it in this manner: Scrub said ham enthusiastically with a stiff brush. Then place it, fat side up, in an uncovered pan. Bake it 25 minutes per pound for a 10 pound ham, 20 minutes per pound for the larger laddies. About 45 minutes before it is done cut off the rind and spread with one of the following choices:

GLAZES FOR BAKED HAMS.

1. One cup brown sugar, spread evenly.
2. One cup brown sugar blended with two tablespoons flour.
3. One cup brown sugar combined with one-third cup fine bread crums.
4. One-half cup brown sugar blended with one-half cup fine dry bread crums and three tablespoons minced parsley. Dust the fat part of the ham with beaten egg and sprinkle with the above mixture. This is fine for a ham baked in cider.
5. A pint of tart grape juice or pineapple juice poured over the ham. Baste frequently during baking.
6. One quart apple sauce, one cup brown sugar, and one-half teaspoon cloves, combined.
7. Mix one teaspoon powdered mustard, 1½ teaspoons powdered cloves, and three tablespoons sugar. Spread it over a skinned, half baked ham butt and cover with four green peppers, ground. Finish baking.

And does anybody know why porterhouse steak is named in this wise? Mrs. G. L. J. would like to know and here's what we've unearthed. Back in 1847 Charles Dickens visited the Porter house, a modest hotel in Sandusky, O. To his delight the beefsteak served him was so superior that as he jogged about through the country he told folks about it. Some time later the leading hotels and cafés took up the cry and ever since the steaks next to the sirloin and usually including part of the tenderloin—most choice sections—have been known as porterhouse steaks.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

DELAYING A JUMP RESPONSE.

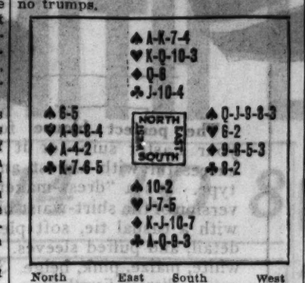
After reading the last few articles dealing with responses in terms of no trumps, when you hold a big hand and your partner has opened the bidding, you must be wondering how to handle the situation when your hand does not quite measure up to the jump response in no trumps, but nevertheless you feel that game is almost sure, and it would be disaster for the bidding to die short of game.

The key to this is in the soundness of the original bid. Our original bids nearly always contain the elements of a second bid, even over a minimum response. It may be on distributional grounds—bidding the second suit on a two-suiter or semi-two-suiter. The second bid, over a one no trump response, may be intended only to reach a safer partial score contract.

The next move is up to you. If your hand was not quite strong enough to respond with the jump raise to two no trump, but was much stronger than your one no trump response implied, then you must immediately bid three no trump unless you wish to play for game in one of the suits bid by your partner. In this event you should raise his suit bid in such manner that he cannot mistake your intentions. Make it clear that you are not showing a preference, but are developing a game bid. For instance, the opening bid was one spade. You responded with one no trump. Your partner then bid two hearts. Should you incline to game in this suit you would bid three hearts, but if you think there is a game in spades you must bid three spades, as a bid of two spades would be merely showing a preference and your partner should pass it.

If over your partner's second bid you respond with three no trumps you are not making any slam try, as your first response was a minimum.

Usually the three no trump response over the second suit shown by your partner denies adequate support for either of his suits, and implies a strong preference to play the hand at no trumps.



North	East	South	West
1 Sp. [1]	Pass	1 N. T. [2]	Pass
2 Ht. [3]	Pass	3 N. T. [4]	Pass
Pass	Pass

1. A defensive type hand. The higher ranking suit is bid first.
2. A minimum response, but contains enough strength to bid for game in no trumps if the opener makes any kind of rebid.
3. Showing the second suit. It may denote that the hand is aggressive in character, which is not the case with the above example.
4. Insufficient hearts to support a secondary heart bid. Certainly no preference for spades. Both suits not bid by the partner are doubly stopped and the hand invites the lead.

The above hand was played in a duplicate game and in no instance were four hearts made. The no trump bid is undefeatable as ten tricks were possible; but by playing safe against a spade opening lead and allowing the opponents to win the first trick, only three no trumps were made.

Shorter Skirts Cause Need for Leg Exercising

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The skirts are becoming a bit shorter for street wear. One could tell the skirt length trend by using the queries, addressed here, as a barometer. For a while, when skirts were longer, there was a let-up on requests for leg exercises, but they're beginning to pile up again. Also summer is coming, and there is the bathing suit in which to be photographed.

So, here are what the leg needs to trim it down:

How about a little hop? If you are very heavy of body I would not advise the hopping but, if you still feel your heart is strong and your health O. K., the hopping is so good for the leg fat that I would urge it. Do it like this. Hands on hips. First hop on the right leg, then on the left, then on both. When you do that a few times hop to a side straddle and return. This type of exercise is good for the thighs, too. But, as I say, if you are easily winded, better keep off it until you lose a few more pounds.

Now, here is another exercise, an old acquaintance, maybe, but recommended to be done in three parts. It's the "squat," but I find so many women are unable to do it at first that I recommend it broken up into three parts until the leg and thigh muscles are stronger. It's too good a leg exercise to be overlooked. So practice it at first with hands on hips, making a slight bend at the knees. Recover to position. Do this fifteen times at first. Then, when you're feeling stronger make a deeper bend at the knees. Return. Then, when the muscles feel pretty well limbered, make a full knee bend, coming down to a squat position.

Another good leg exercise is the bicycle pedaling, but I mean "pedaling," not just going through mechanical motions that do no good. Lie on your back, raise the legs high, support the hips with hands, and bicycle those legs of yours as if you were trying to get to the fire on time. Do it fifty times before you call it a day.

Paris Knitted Suits Accept Two-Color Edict

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Knitted ensembles are lined up this spring with more formal clothes in accepting the dictates of Paris styles for the flaring three-quarter-length coat in one color and the frock in another. The French knitters have developed a cloky knitted fabric that is very rich and coats of this material are handsome enough to wear for a good many occasions.

The Heller-Reiss knitted ensemble shown in our sketch is made of this knitted cloky, the coat being in dark red and the dress in pale, honey beige, a stunning color combination. The coat is loose and from the hipline at the rear swoops out in a double wind-blown flare. It is banded down the back with knitted bands and there is a tuck down the shoulders and sleeves. It fastens with red wooden buttons linked together.

The beige dress has three dark red leather bows that partly cover the slit from the round neckline in front and the red leather belt also fastens with a leather bow. The sleeves have three tucks standing upright near the top and are slightly more than elbow length.

Two Girls Tell Opposing Views of Dutch Treat

BY DORIS BLAKE.

We asked for opinion on girls loaning money to young men temporarily out of funds. "Vienna" says:

"Let's say that boy has been out of work for several years, and is still in debt. Perhaps he is working his way through some course in school while still trying to find work. He picks up a job here and there to pay for his room and board and an occasional suit. He goes with a girl who has a good position. She can afford to dine and dance occasionally, a good show, or other entertainment, and she feels that they are a necessary part of her life. But she would prefer to go once with a young man than twice by herself or with other girls, and pay the bill. She could treat a girl friend in a similar position and no one would think anything about it. The idea of letting a girl pay the way, I will say, is repellant to my friend, but I argue that having him along makes me happy."

That is one side of it. Here is the other:

"Don't Dutch treat, and don't make a money loan to a man," "Bubbles" warns.

She did. The chap had a hard luck story, out of a job for months, which was true. She suggested and started the Dutch treat business, then, when the man admitted having no money, she took over the whole financial responsibility on their outings. The man spoke of what a good sport she was, and promised faithfully that he would pay back as soon as he got on his feet. Well's he's had a job now for six months, and Bubbles learns that he's spending what he has to spend on other girls, not so trustworthy nor credulous as herself. She could use the money she lent him in one lump just before he got his job. But petitioning him on the grounds of her immediate needs only succeeds in earning for Bubbles, alibis for his nonappearance at her home on his former usual evenings for visiting.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 23.—The Pirates concentrated today on the job of making Don Conrads, the 21 year old Kewanee, Ill., southpaw, a busted phenom, at least for the time being. They also dealt out some misery for Charley Root, the veteran of the Cub staf. The upshot of this Pittsburgh industry was a 14 to 8 trimming for the Chicagoans which evened the spring series at two victories apiece.

Young Conrads, a protégé of Vice President John O. Seys, was around just long enough to meet all the Pirates twice. That formality was completed before the second inning was concluded. Eight runs were charged against the phenom's record. For the comfort of the array of Cub officials lined up in their customary third base line box, the Chicagoans later climbed back into a tie. But the worst was yet to come.

Root Yields Homers.

The worst involved Root, who pitched three innings after Lynn Nelson, in his first appearance of the season, had turned out three effective sessions. As soon as Root appeared in the sixth the Pirates revealed an abnormal appetite for homers. Root's mates, Woody English and Dolph Camilli, had an attack of shakes at the same time. Before Root could escape from the torrent of abuse five Pirates had scored on three home runs, of which Paul Waner, Gus Suhr, and Rookie Harry Lavagetto were the authors. Two were on base as the result of the aforementioned errors when Suhr contributed his homer.

The Cubs scored two runs in the first inning, but this didn't seem to encourage Conrads. These two tallies were picked up against Johnson on a single by Billy Herman, a triple by Stephenson, and a single by Stainback. Conrads handed back one of these runs in the Pirates' half of the first. He managed this presentation on two hits, two passes, and his own wild throw to first base.

Deluge Strikes Conrads.

Another Chicago run slipped in on singles by English and Billy Herman in the second and then the deluge struck young Conrads in the second helf of the inning. Details of the sad incident are hardly necessary. Before Manager Grimm had time to make signs that he wanted Conrads out of there the Pirates had picked up four hits, three passes and one batter had been hit. Nelson was rushed in with two out, but the bases were filled at the time. Veltman fixed this in a hurry. He doubled to clean up the bases. It was his second double in the inning.

Despite the unhappy feeling caused by Conrads' tailspin, the Cubs were not completely discouraged. They came into possession of another run in the third when Stephenson whistled one of Johnson's pitches into the bleachers in right. Cuyler did the same thing in the fifth when Harris took over the Pittsburgh pitching task. Then Babe Herman, posing as a pinch hitter for Nelson in the sixth, made good in the rôle by knocking the ball over the left field fence. The inning netted two more runs on a pass to Galan, Billy Herman's double, Traynor's wild throw on Cuyler and a single by Stephenson. This uprising tied the score at 8 apiece.

Tie Quickly Broken.

It was only about 15 seconds after Root started to pitch in the sixth that the tie began to dissolve. P. Waner aimed a homer into the right field bleachers. English did an old fashioned

LOYOLA CROWD CHEERS TRIUMPH OF INDIAN TEAM

Eight Quintets Are Left in Basket Meet.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Five of the Vanishing Americans from the Mission School of St. Francis, S. D., went on the warpath in the second round of the national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament at Loyola university last night. An hour later their victory whoops were swelled by the cheers of a crowd of nigh onto 3,000 who had seen them outrun and outshoot the Ursuline High school team from Youngstown, O., 29 to 27, in one of the most dramatic battles of the tournament.

If the fans gave the Mission boys, all of them full blooded Sioux Indians, a rousing hand in their first round victory Thursday night, it was as nothing compared to the applause theyd rew last night. It was not that the customers begrudged any hollering for the Ohio team, but more as a tribute to a natural crowd pleasing team.

Score on Spectacular Shots.

Leonard Quick Bear, Emil Red Fish, Clarence [Thunder Cloud] Packard, Dude [Turney Thunder] Emery, and Theodore [White Eagle] Prue were the five who had the stands gasping with their reckless, wide open defense and shots from almost impossible angles.

The Indians' victory brought them a place with seven other teams in the quarter-final round, which will open this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The first of these battles to decide tonight's semi-finalists will involve Catholic High of Joliet, which yesterday eliminated the defending champion, Cathedral of Indianapolis, 28 to 24, and St. John's Cathedral High of Milwaukee, Wis., which advanced with a 34 to 30 decision over Catholic Central of Pittsburgh, Pa.

At 2 o'clock the Illinois state champion, Corpus Christi of Galesburg, which outsmarted St. Philip of Chicago, the local Catholic league title holder, 27 to 17, will battle St. Patrick's academy of Chicago. The latter

OWE FORTUNE TO HASENPFEFFER

The William Merringer family of New York had reason to celebrate yesterday when Golden Miller won the Grand National steeplechase, for it meant $150,000 to them. HAWKS RETURN FOR 2D BATTLE WITH CANADIENS

Fresh from their 3 to 2 victory over the Montreal Canadiens in the first game of the Stanley cup playoff series, the Chicago Blackhawks arrived in Chicago last night for the second game of the series at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow.

The Hawks will enter tomorrow's game with a one goal lead over the Canadiens, which means that a tie is all the Hawks need to continue in the playoff series against the winner of the similar two game series between the Rangers and Maroons. The series is decided by total goals for the two games.

The Hawks will work out at the Stadium this afternoon, but so satisfactory was their play at Montreal on Thursday night Manager Gorman will ask for only a short skating drill. The Canadiens will arrive in Chicago today, after taking a final drill on their home rink yesterday.

"Our game with the Canadiens Thursday night showed our relentless back checking has clipped the wings of the speedy Frenchmen and that we are the better team," Manager Gorman said. "The boys were right on edge to take advantage of every break. We got the jump on the Frenchmen and we don't propose to let it slip away in the second game. I've never seen the boys so enthusiastic. Every man on the club thinks we have better than an even chance to go to the Stanley cup finals."

Haas Rides 4 Winners and 2 Thirds at Houston Track

Houston, Tex., March 23.—(AP)—Buddy Haas, apprentice jocky, rode four winners and two thirds at Epsom Downs today. He accepted only six mounts. Buddy climaxed his work by giving Culloden a great stretch ride in the seventh race, bringing in the brown gelding, which paid $28.50, $7.50, and $4.70.

Kirkwood and Sarazen Lose 1st Match of Tour

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTO DOMINGO, March 23.—The touring American golf team of Joe Kirkwood and Gene Sarazen didn't have much success in the first match of their world tour yesterday. They lost to Andy Vellcan and Jim Handry, 1 up, in an 18 hole best ball match.

$150,000 Is Sweeps Reward for Chef's Tasty Hasenpfeffer

New York, March 23.—[Special.]—It all came out of a bowl of steaming hasenpfeffer—that $150,000 which Mrs. Margaret Merringer of New York won today with her Irish hospital sweepstakes ticket on Golden Miller, which raced to victory in the Grand National at Aintree, England.

Mrs. Menninger's husband, William, cooked the hasenpfeffer. That was last fall. He cooked it for a casual customer of a restaurant somewhere in lower Manhattan, where he was then employed as a chef. He was so excited today he couldn't remember the address of the café.

The customer was so pleased with the hasenpfeffer and so grateful to its creator that he handed Merringer two sweepstakes tickets when he paid his check.

"I hope they bring you luck," he said, and went away. Merringer had never seen him before. He has never seen him since. He doesn't know his name or where he lives.

Presents Tickets to Wife.

There wasn't much money around the Merringer home last Christmas. Mr. Merringer had lost his job in the café and was working at a small restaurant in Long Island City. To the small cash gift he was able to give his wife he added the two sweepstakes tickets.

"They probably are worth nothing," he said, "but keep them. Maybe they will bring good luck."

Yesterday the Merringers had an offer of $22,000 cash for their ticket. They turned it down.

Out of that $150,000 awarded the Merringers the United States income tax will be $58,300, or nearly 39 per cent. The tax includes $46,460 surtax 4 per cent on the first $4,000 and 8 per cent on the remainder. It is payable in March, 1935, as 1934 income.

Another New Yorker Wins.

Another New Yorker in the big money class of winners was Mrs. Laura Anderson of Brooklyn. She held a ticket on Delaneige, the horse which ran second. It is worth $75,000.

Mrs. Messinger was beside the radio in her home, broom in hand ready to go back to her housework, when the word of Golden Miller's victory was flashed across half the world to her. She was stunned, momentarily, she said. Then she laughed and cried by turns.

So far, Mrs. Merringer said she has only two ideas of what to do with the money. First she will put aside enough to assure her two children the kind of education they want. Then she and her husband will make a visit to their native Austria—which they never expected to see again—and look up old friends and relatives.

Only One U. S. First Prize.

Mrs. Menninger was the only American among the 18 first prize winners, but tickets held in the name of "Wrigley's PK," by Patrick Coleman and Ralph Massarelli, a couple of Boston porters, and J. T. Burton, civil engineer of Bradford, Pa., were among the 18 second prize winners on Delaneige, the horse which paid $75,000 to ticket holders.

The only American ticket on Thomond II., the horse which ran third, was held by William H. Sweet of Marblehead, Mass. He is one of the 18 persons who will win $50,000.

Other big winners included Samuel Carp of Dorchester, Mass., $35,000; Constantine Carco of Boston, $20,000; W. G. Brittain of North Bay, Mass., $10,000; C. J. Gallagher of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., $30,000; Mrs. C. Smith of Winnipeg, Canada, $20,000; F. C. Schuman of Cleveland, O., $5,000, and E. D. McLeod of Vancouver, Canada, $5,000.

RAID CANADIAN SWEEPSTAKE.

MONTREAL, Que., March 23.—(AP)—Police struck today at a vast sweepstake organization labeling itself "Christian Brothers of Canada," which they said had sold $20,000 worth of tickets in Canada and the United States. Two men and a woman were arrested in a raid which police said netted tickets valued at $1,000,000 and stub booklets revealing sales.

The trio will be arraigned tomorrow on charges of operating a lottery.

"I wish to warn the general public," said Chief Louis Jargaille, chief of provincial police, "not only in Canada but in the United States, to purchase no tickets on the 'Christian Brothers of Canada' sweepstake. The entire organization has been seized and those who have already bought tickets are the losers."

The race on which the tickets were sold was scheduled for May 2, at Newmarket, England.

LANE, MARSHALL ROUTED IN STATE BASKET TOURNEY

State Results

Quincy, 29; Charleston, 20.
Moline, 25; Urbana, 20.
Equality, 33; Marshall, 17.
Thornton, 40; Lane, 18.

TODAY'S GAMES.
1:30—Quincy vs. Moline.
2:30—Equality vs. Thornton.

Champaign, Ill., March 23.—[Special.]—Another spectacular victory for Thornton, defending champion, closed the second round of the state high school basketball tournament at the University of Illinois gymnasium tonight. Appearing almost invincible, the purple clad players fom Harvey ran away from Lane Tech, Chicago champion, 40 to 18.

Marshall, Chicago's other representative, fell before the towering team from Equality, 33 to 17. In the other games Quincy defeated Charleston, 29 to 20, and Moline won from Urbana, 25 to 20.

The victories of Equality and Thornton overshadowed the other contests. So impressive were these teams that the spectators tonight were predicting that their semi-final engagement tomorrow afternoon will decide the championship.

Lane Never in Game.

The title game tomorrow night will start at 9 o'clock. It will be preceded by the third place battle that will bring together the two losers in the semi-finals.

Lane was considered an outstanding team, but the way the Harvey boys clicked the Chicagoans were helpless. Thornton led at the half, 21 to 3. In the fourth period Lane increased its meager total after Coach Jack Lipe had sent in a second team.

The flashy Louis Boudreau and his teammates will have a large delegation of Thornton students and Harvey supporters here cheering for them tomorrow. A special train carrying the rooters will leave Harvey at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Many Pick Equality.

Equality seldom was heard of in state basketball circles until this year, but the exploits of the team are making the southern Illinois hamlet widely known. Many observers are picking Equality to end Thornton's title reign, for the team is composed of six footers who know their basketball. Marshall's players, dwarfed by the conquerors, are willing to concede the championship to Equality.

The town of Equality, with 854 inhabitants, lies in Gallatin county about 45 miles southwest of Evansville, Ind. There are 154 students in the high school, 85 of them boys. The coach is Dolph Stanley, graduate of the University of Illinois school of physical education, of which Lipe, Thornton coach, also is a product.

All Six Footers.

Every member of the Equality team is six feet or more in height and the kingpin of the five, W. R. Barringer, center, stands 6 feet 4 inches. Barringer migrated from Arkansas to Crab Orchard, Ill., a three year high school, and after completing the third year, transferred to Equality for his final year. A protest against his playing was lodged previous to the sectional tournament at Metropolis, but it was overruled by the Illinois High School Athletic association. It was also alleged that Clarence Douglas, forward, was over the age limit, but this was not accepted by the state association.

Equality has won 34 out of 35 games this season, losing its one game to Metropolis, a team it routed later.

Nearly 5,000 saw tonight's round and about 3,500 were present in the afternoon, making a total of more than 20,000 who have attended in two days.

Continues Whirlwind Pace.

Thornton continued the whirlwind offensive pace that it established in its first game of the tourney to assume a 21 to 3 lead at the half. Lane made the first points on a basket by Benzinger, but the Chicago champions

GOLDEN GLOVERS FIND S. R. O. SIGN OUT IN NEW YORK

Chicago Team Arrives Eager for Inter-city Battles

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—The "Sold Out" sign was polished up and hung out at Madison Square Garden today.

Chicago's Golden Gloves team arrived this morning on a special New York Central train at Grand Central station to discover that New York again has paid tribute to boxing's greatest spectacle. From the Hudson to the East river the query was: "Where can we get a ticket to the Golden Gloves bouts?"

A crowd of 19,500 will see the seventh annual intercity tests next Wednesday night, a tournament in which our boys from Chicago have won three matches. New York has won two. The first intercity bouts in 1928 ended in a draw.

While a capacity crowd is an old story in Golden Gloves history, it marks the second time that Madison Square Garden has been sold out in a year. The other occasion was the Golden Gloves finals which were conducted two weeks ago by the New York News. Gross receipts for the intercity struggle, so officials said today, will be between $43,000 and $46,000.

Chicago's boys are enthusiastic. Manhattan, Broadway, the Bowery and the Bronx mean nothing in the lives of these youngsters from around the shores of Lake Michigan.

They are a bit blasé and it is very doubtful if Tommy Barry, our coal miner from Springfield, or Patsy Urso, the apprentice printer from Grand Rapids will even tip their hats to the statue of Liberty when they whirl around it on a tugboat sightseeing tour tomorrow morning.

The taxicab strike is creating much excitement here, but not among our Chicago Golden Glovers. Otis Thomas, our big heavyweight from the south side, says he can break it up on a moment's notice. Otis, along with Fred Caserio, Bill Treest, Ario Soldati, and Keith Graves took particular delight in wheeling up and down Broadway in a taxi. No one disturbed them.

The Chicagoans didn't have time to do much taxicab joy riding, however, for Coach Johnny Behr had them at Stillman's gymnasium in midafternoon where they engaged in a long drill.

It consisted for the most part of rope skipping, bag punching, and routine gymnasium maneuvers, but was concluded with two rounds of boxing by each member of the squad. The boys will work out again at 9:30 tomorrow morning. The turf of Central park, where it was planned to take road work, is frozen hard and the squad will take its exercises in the gymnasium.

Lott Replies to Perry; Says U. S. Will Capture Cup

New York, March 23.—(AP)—George Martin Lott Jr., who has been playing Davis cup tennis since 1928, disagrees with Fred Perry, England's ace, that Japan is the country to beat this year.

Perry recently returned to England from an Australian tour and voiced the opinion that the young Japanese players, Hideo Nishimura and Jiro Fujikura, offer the chief threat to Britain's international tennis rule.

"Australia will take care of Japan," the Chicago doubles veteran said today, "and if Jack Crawford and company can't do it, we will, in the interzone final."

Lott predicted that the United States would sweep through its matches from Canada, Mexico, and Brazil and that Australia would win the European zone final, bringing the Americans and Australians against each other in the inter-zone final at Wimbledon.

Although no hint has been dropped as to the probable personnel of the team, it is generally believed that it will be selected from among Lott, John Van Ryn, Lester R. Stoefen, Sidney B. Wood Jr., Wilmer Allison, and Frank X. Shields.

BOBBY SHOOTS 2D ROUND OF 74 AT ATLANTA

Jones' Card

Par, out	443	545	344—36
Jones, out	453	464	344—37
Par, in	454	343	454—36—72
Jones, in	454	254	454—37—74

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., March 23.—From the superlative field competing in the masters' invitational golf tournament at Augusta National Golf club, Horton Smith of Oak Park Country club emerged today to lead the pack at the 36-hole half way point of the four day test. To his 70 of yesterday, he today added two evenly played nines of 36 each for 72 and a total of 142.

Bobby Jones, characterized by the announcer at the first tee as the "Great and Only Bobby," finished two over par with 74, 37 each nine, for a two day total of 150, thus losing two strokes on the leader. Yet under the pressure and sifting out, Bobby stands in 28th place tonight, against his 35th place 24 hours earlier.

Burke and Dudley Score 143.

One stroke behind Smith were Billy Burke of Cleveland and Ed Dudley, home professional who was Jones' choice for the position when the club was organized. To reach this status, Dudley turned in the low round of the day, 69, three strokes under par. Ralph Stonehouse, Jimmy Hines, and Mac Smith have 144, and a notch higher are Craig Wood, Al Espinosa, once of Illinois; Leo Diegel, once at Lake Shore, and Paul Runyan, who was paired for the first two days with Jones.

From that coterie will come the winner of $1,500 first money unless the leaders crack or some of those close behind turn in a round considerably better than par. Prizes of $5,000 are divided into twelve monies with divisions from $1,500 down to $100.

Under an overcast sky with the thermometer low enough to make sweaters comfortable, Jones and Runyan again commanded the largest gallery of the day as they started play shortly after noon. Bobby was knickered in contrast to most of the long trousered pros, the material being an inconspicuous gray, his sweater a dark blue and his stockings dark green.

Pitching and Putting Weak.

As yesterday, Bobby was long off the tees with his wooden shots, but his pitches and his efforts with Calamity Jane Jr. again were far short of Jones' standards which carried him to such heights before his retirement from active competition. He totaled 38 putts, two more than his previous round.

One would call Jones' game streaky except that hardly seems the proper denomination for a score only two shots over par. Yet Bobby's play was a contrast of scintillating brilliancy in difficult spots and failure to click on much easier chances, with his putts simply refusing to fall.

Let's take just three holes of his first nine as example of that contrast. The dogleg 480 yard fourth is par 5. Both Jones and Runyan's tee shots found them in favorable position. Guarding the green is a gully trap, deep and forbidding. Many players prefer a safe second and a pitch for their third. Both Jones and Runyan, however, needed strokes and unbagged their woods for the long carry toward the pin.

Both Score Birdies.

Bobby, farthest away, took a full spoon and reached the green about 30 feet from the pin for a possible but not probable eagle. Runyan, with a brassie, was slightly over with a downhill pitch, so effectively stroked he was dead for a birdie four. Jones' first putt was nearly four feet short, and his next hung on the lip, but dropped after a trying period of suspension.

On the fifth, a not difficult 425 yard par 4. Both drives were good, but Jones was short, and his pitch again short, followed by three putts for a 6, while Runyan was taking 4.

Then the sixth hole, 485 yards, for another pair of birdies. Both landed on the green after two fine wooden shots, but too far away to sink their putts. So it was during the round, Jones pounding them out efficiently with his woods and long irons but finding his short game lacking despite his practice with his putter before starting. And all that practice did not prevent a heart breaking missed putt on the sixteenth green when slightly more than a foot away.

Smith Is Steady.

Horton Smith's play was steadier and more consistent than the tabulated score indicates, the vagaries being due in part to terrain. His card contained 4 birdies and 8 pars. This adopted Chicagoan, who will be 26 years old next month, is the last pro who won a tourney against Jones four years ago at Charleston.

With an admirable temperament, always in condition and a stranger to tobacco and liquor, not because he disapproves but because he never has

PHAGAN TO MEET DUKELSKY AGAIN MONDAY NIGHT

Battle to Be 4th Between Pair in Six Months.

Johnny Phagan and Solly Dukelsky, Chicago middleweights, will meet for the fourth time in six months in an eight round bout Monday at the Marigold Gardens. Dukelsky was awarded a technical knockout over Johnny at Marigold last Aug. 21. Then he won a 10 round decision from Phagan at Cicero Oct. 13. These bouts were at the welterweight limit.

In a middleweight meeting at Cicero Jan. 1 Phagan whipped Dukelsky in 10 rounds. Since then both battlers have done well. In their latest Phagan triumphed over Young Stuhley Feb. 12, and Dukelsky won from Karl Ogren, Feb. 1.

Eddie Chinski, Kankakee, Ill., junior welterweight, has signed to replace Dick Sisk against Mickey Joy in an eight round encounter at Midway arena Monday. Chinski halted the winning streak of Don Messina, stablemate of Joy, last Monday by winning a six round decision.

Amateur boxers from the German-American Athletic association, not the German-American Boxing club as previously reported, will meet a team from Northwest gymnasium tonight at Lincoln Turner hall. There will be eight bouts, the feature of which will bring together John Logan, winner of the C. Y. O. heavyweight title, and Toni Koch of the German-American association.

The boxing committee of the Central A. A. U. yesterday sanctioned a show at Round Lake, Ill., April 6. . . . The Turner Hall Athletic club of Peru, Ill., formerly presenting outlaw cards, has joined the A. A. U. . . . Henry Rothier, welterweight, will head the program at Quincy, Ill., April 12. . . . The Milwaukee Boxing club is planning its next show for April 15. . . . Joey Sangor, former featherweight, has signed to manage Billy Miller, Milwaukee welterweight.

Negotiations for a 12 round match between King Levinsky and Walter Neusel, heavyweights, at the Chicago Stadium April 6 were dropped yesterday. Neusel refused to come to terms. Matchmaker Nate Lewis now is working on a card involving Frank Klick, junior lightweight champion, Kid Leonard, Frank Sigilio, and Leo Rodak.

John Pacek and Adolph Wiater, Golden Gloves graduates, accepted terms yesterday to meet in the six round feature bout at Marigold Gardens on April 2. Pacek and Wiater, who are heavyweights, are undefeated since turning professional. F. M.

Golden Miller Wins Grand National Chase

[Copyright: 1934; By the New York Times.]

AINTREE, England, March 23.—Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller, the second choice at 8 to 1, romped to victory in the Grand National Steeplechase today in the fastest time ever recorded.

Taking the lead only 200 yards from the finish, Miss Paget's great jumper flashed past the winning post five lengths ahead of J. B. Snow's American owned Delaniege, which had led the field most of the way. Five lengths behind Delaniege came John Hay Whitney's Thomond II., which had shown superb jumping skill throughout the race but lacked speed for the final spurt.

The winner's time was 9 minutes 20 2-5 seconds—nearly 8 seconds faster than Kellsboro Jack's record of last year.

A quarter of a million spectators shouted themselves hoarse as the field rounded a curve and bobbed toward the home stretch. Not in years had so many Grand National horses been on their feet so near the finish. To those sitting in the packed stands it looked as if four were running neck and neck—Delaniege was slightly in front, but Golden Miller, Thomond and Forbra were side by side.

The four leaped together at the next to the last fence, where the favorite, Really True, fell. They were still together at the last fence but Delaniege landed a little in front. Then came Golden Miller's chance. Fifty yards after the last fence he pulled even with Delaniege and with a burst of speed swept past the grand stand to win by five lengths.

"Of course, I am delighted," she said. "Golden Miller is a great horse and he has proved it today."

Victory Is Popular One.

It is many years since there has been such a popular victory at Aintree or such a superb performance by the winner. Not one of the 32 jumps daunted him, although Gerry Wilson, his jocky said his horse blundered once or twice early in the struggle. Wilson was content to stay well behind the field for the first time around and then when the others were tiring he urged Golden Miller into the lead.

Delaniege and Thomond, second and third place winners, are American owned. The other four American entries failed to finish. Forbra, 1932 winner, pounded past the grandstand to finish fourth and then came Uncle Batt, Blue Peter, Apostasy, Gregalach, and Annandale.

Grand Rapids Bowler Takes A. B. C. Lead

Peoria, Ill., March 23.—[Special.]—Jerry Vidro of Grand Rapids, Mich., shot into first place in the singles of the American Bowling congress tournament today with a 721 series. Vidro, receiving his A. B. C. baptism, knocked over the pins for games of 243, 277, and 201 in passing Glen Evans of Canton, O., by 16 pins.

For a few minutes Vidro threatened to break the singles record of 774, set by Larry Shotwell of Covington, Ky., at Cleveland in 1930. Vidro had thirteen pins more than the record holder when he started his final game. With the crowd hoping for a new high mark, Vidro carried on, opening his final blast with three consecutive strikes.

Picks a Cherry.

His fourth ball failed to hit the head pin and he left the 1, 2, and 4 pins standing. He then missed the spare on a "cherry pick." Undaunted, Vidro struck, spared, and then missed another spare shot.

Mineralites Land Sixth.

Husting Printing five of Milwaukee, rolled into second place with 2,946. The Milwaukee lineup bagged games of 936, 985, 1,025.

EARNSHAW HITS HIS OLD STRIDE, FONSECA THINKS

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 23.—George Earnshaw now has all his old-time stuff and will prove it when he goes against the Pittsburgh Pirates tomorrow at Wrigley field says Lew Fonseca, White Sox manager. The last three days have made Mr. Fonseca feel much better than he did right after the steam rolling the Cubs gave his hopefuls last week-end.

Earnshaw, who is under a bonus contract, was expected to come along to the full extent of his ability, but there has been much speculation as to just how much of his skill he has retained.

Likes Earnshaw's Work.

"In the last two drills Earnshaw has shown me all that great assortment of pitching he had before he became unhappy with the Athletics," Fonseca said today. "I don't have to see him in competition to know he's as good as ever."

Lee Stine, somewhat a victim of Luke Appling's slothfulness in his apearance against the Cubs last Sunday, will share the work with Earnshaw in tomorrow's opener against the Pirates. Fonseca and other interested observers haven't quit on Stine because of the six run fourth the Cubs perpetrated against him last Sunday and the youngster is expected to restore his prestige as the best of the Comiskey rookie pitching crop against the Waners, Vaughan, et al.

Lyons to Start Tomorrow.

In the Sunday game, also against the Pirates, Ted Lyons will be the starting pitcher, according to present plans. Ted hasn't pitched an inning but the chilly snap yesterday did wonders for him and he is expected to give a good account of himself. Joe Heving is slated to follow Ted in the Sabbath encounter. Ed Durham still has miseries of one sort or another and probably won't see action until he's had more rest.

Joe Chamberlin continues to be the talk of the camp in his play at second base. Each day makes it seem more certain that Joe will get the second base job at least until it is established that he can't hit major league pitching.

Conrads-Root Give Pirates 14-8 Victory

waltz on Traynor's roller. This induced Camilli to show something bigger and better in the way of errors. Camilli took Vaughan's grounder and threw it into left field in attempting a force play at second. Traynor and Vaughan scored on a homer into the bleachers by Suhr. Then to vary the attack slightly. Lavagetto banged a homer over the wall in left for the fifth run of the inning.

Root was frisked for another run in the seventh and was lucky to get away that easy. The inning started with singles by P. Waner and Thevenow, who had succeeded Traynor. P. Waner was driven in by Suhr's single. Then with two on the bases and one out Root took hold of himself. He fanned Lavagetto, and Finney was the victim of a fly to Stephenson in left.

The Cubs departed for Sacramento immediately after today's game, but will be back here Monday morning. They'll battle the Sacramento team tomorrow and Sunday. Because of the presence on the Cubs of a couple of former Sacramento favorites the gate for the two days should be worth carrying home.

The Cubs carried with them this evening another added starter in the person of Pitcher Davenport, who has been hurling to them in batting practice. On Grimm's recommendation the Los Angeles club probably will sign Davenport, but in the meantime the Cubs will make use of him. The plan is to let him work in part of one of the Sacramento games. Dick Ward and Bud Tinning will share the pitching in tomorrow's games against Sacramento.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—

Dear Wake: The Chicago Athletic society was famous in the '70s for victories of its gymnasts and tug-o'-war teams in competition against challengers from other cities. The society was organized in 1868, with its hall and gymnasium on De Koven street, near Canal street.

About 1874 this society issued a challenge to all comers to meet its representatives in gymnastic feats and apparatus tests. The challenge was accepted by the New York Athletic society. Prizes of $100 were offered for each event. Among the Chicago athletes at various times were the famous Bilek brothers, Steve, Thomas, John, and Adolph; Joseph Pisha, Michael Kristopher, Dr. Frank J. Patera, Gus Patera, Thomas Nader, Frank Kubu, and Otto Bartos. In this competition Thomas Bilek was adjudged the greatest all-around athlete.

For many years these athletes registered victories, even as late as 1892 at the Auditorium, where six first places were acquired in an open meet.

Later the society had a tug-of-war team. In a tournament of eight teams Chicago and Pullman reached the finals. Chicago won the deciding pull and the title. Milwaukee then challenged and was defeated. Joseph Kopecky was captain and Ignatius Nedved anchor of the tug-of-war squad. The boys had the nickname of "De Koven Street Athletes."

Before changes were made on the lake front between Randolph and 12th, we used to go down after supper and spy on the "lovers on parade" sitting on the old time benches. When they'd see us we'd duck and seek another location to watch other caresses being administered. This was in the '80's. The I. C. office building was on the southeast corner of Michigan and 12th. Near 13th street was a little restaurant where the cook knew his egg sandwiches.

To a Diary Completed.

I opened you, intolerant with New Year resolutions,
And steady hand that wrote in innocence with ink;
With courage of convictions born of inexperience
And high and mighty words of manufactured thought.
Your gamut carried me in the emotions
From lowest depths where death and disillusion stalked
To greatest thrills marked by red letter days.
Despair and happiness ran alternately your long relay,
I close you with a stroke not quite so confident
That traces with the fluid of acquaintance.
My pages tell the reader I am growing.
I hide the misery of love that goes begging
And my new book has both a lock and key.

Almost a "Cracker."

Harold C. Kessinger, former state senator from the Aurora district, prominent in reform legislation at Springfield, has bought a permanent home in Fort Lauderdale and says his stay is indefinite, since he sold publications he edited several years ago when they were still salable.

"Sam," as he is known to the locals, is a much sought speaker for service club luncheons and chamber of commerce dinners there and in neighboring cities. This prompts the suspicion he may take a dive into Florida politics after he has been resident long enough to quiet any prejudice against "carpet baggers," as northerners who become too active in local affairs on arrival are still called. To such rumors Mr. Kessinger only smiles, "O, I don't think so."

A Little More Scotch.

Upon a Scotchman complaining of stomach ache, his gude wife prepared the electric heating pad. When ready for use the ache had subsided, whereupon he applied the pad to his feet. "Are your feet cold?" asked the wife. "No," replied Sandy, "but it will save the heat." C. B. G.

Eddie Schroeder Returns from European Tour

Eddie Schroeder, North American skating champion, and his trainer, Dan Canaday, arrived in New York yesterday on the Manhattan. For the last month the two Chicagoans were on a tour of Europe. Schroeder competed in the world's championships at Oslo, Norway, but was unable to retain his 10,000 meter championship he won last year. They are scheduled to arrive in Chicago this morning.

Loyola Fans Cheer Victory of Sioux Five

In the third game the St. Francis Indians will meet St. Mary of Stockton, Cal., which defeated St. Joseph's High of Oil City, Pa., 33 to 10. This promises to be one of the true fights of the tournament, matching the Indians' rapid fire methods against the patient and methodical style employed by the Californians.

In the fourth quarter-final game at 4 o'clock Campion academy of Prairie du Chien, a battling band of light weights who defeated the tournament's heaviest team, Marmion of Aurora, Ill., 29 to 18, last night, will meet Cathedral High of Springfield, Ill., runnerup to Galesburg in the state tournament.

Cathedral and Leo of Chicago maintained the pace of the evening, with the downstate team finally outlasting the Chicagoans, 22 to 19.

Fight on Even Terms.

The St. Francis-Ursuline game last night will probably draw the railbirds' votes as the thriller of the tournament, inasmuch as a rally by the Ohioans came very near making it the first overtime argument of the meet. Ursuline was ahead twice in the first period, but Packard, Prue and Emery dashed up and down the floor, shooting and shooting until they had given St. Francis an 11 to 5 lead at the quarter.

They were in front at the half by 19-11, but Collins of Ursuline began to connect in the third period which ended with the Indians leading only by 21 to 17. Capt. Harrison finally put Ursuline ahead at 22 to 21 in the middle of the fourth period. Then it was that the fans began to howl. Packard dropped in a basket to put St. Francis ahead again, and Emery increased the advantage.

Score Is Tied.

Favarula looped one through for Ursuline, but Quick Bear answered it with another of his blind one-handed efforts. Collins scored from the field and Harrison tied it again at 27 to 27 with a free throw. Quick Bear and Prue then sent the stands into a frenzy by delivering the winning margin on free throws.

Horton Smith Leads Field in Atlanta Meet

With margins so small, however, one under par record by any close contender changes the standing materially while one high round puts the victim practically out of it as Emmet French, Walter Hagen and Henry Pikard found to their sorrow in the second round. Hagen stroked 76 which left him with 147 but French, tied for low place yesterday, took 83 for a 153 total. Pickard with 76 was 147.

Somerville Makes Hole in One.

The only hole in one of the event thus far was recorded at the 145 yard seventh green. It was accomplished by Ross Somerville, the Canadian who took the National Amateur title in 1932.

Of the eight players credited to the Chicago district in this so-called masters event, Horton Smith of Oak Park is leading, Johnny Dawson of Glen Oak, business man amateur, has 147; Joe Paletti, unattached, of the New Trier High school basketball family, and Jim Foulis of Ruth Lake, have 152s.

At 153 is Abe Espinosa of Coghill, at 154 are Harry Cooper of Glen Oak and Dick Metz, recently signed for A. D. Laskers Old Mill road private course. Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr has 157.

The Lituanica squad includes Phil Krause, captain; Joey Kluchinskas, Tony Lauraitis, Pete Petrolaitis, Joe Mysza, Ed Jessen, and Vic Yanzenaitis. The Freights will have Bob Gruenig, Elmer Johnson, Werner Frank, Benny Budrick, Tony Carp, and Nick Christian in the lineup.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

CHUCK KLEIN, Cubs' outfielder, says he can feel himself turning into gold and he is hopeful the Democrats will not take him out of circulation. . . . He brought only $500 when the Evansville, Ind., club sold him to Fort Wayne in 1927. . . . Less than a year later he was sold to the Phillies for $7,500. . . . Last fall the Cubs paid approximately $125,000 for him. . . . Madison Bell, who resigned as football coach at Texas A. & M., will instruct the linemen for Ray Morrison at Southern Methodist university. . . . For lack of a shorter name the University of Chicago fieldhouse is often referred to as the Midway fieldhouse, though it is nearly half a mile from the Midway plaisance. . . .

Al Simmons of the White Sox contributes this one about his mother: "In our Milwaukee home my mother has a sitting room all her own next to the room in which the radio is placed. On Columbus day, 1929, the Athletics were trailing the Cubs, 8 to 0, going into the now historic seventh inning. When I went to bat to start the seventh my mother left the radio and went into her private room to pray for little Aloysius. She came back to the radio in time to hear her son had made a home run. During that inning she made 15 trips between the two rooms, praying for each of the batsmen who faced Cub pitchers in that record time at bat. And when she got through praying, bless her devout heart, the A's had scored 10 runs in the most sensational inning ever played in baseball." . . .

Purdue might be called the Big Ten's even year basketball champion. . . . The Boilermakers have won or shared the title every other year for the last 10 seasons—1926, 1928, 1930, 1932, and 1934. . . . The last three titles have been undisputed. . . . Tug Wilson, athletic director, won a place on the 1920 Olympic team as a javelin thrower, but he threw the discus in the meet. . . . Elmer Layden, 10 years out of Notre Dame, can punt as far and more accurately than any candidate for the Irish team. . . . His brother Mike was ordered to quit track for the indoor season because of the danger of pulling a sore tendon. . . . He is now working out with the football squad. . . . Something's wrong on Randolph street. . . . Nate Lewis, Chicago Stadium matchmaker and watchdog of the loop after midnight, was found fast asleep in a movie at 2 a. m. not long ago. . . .

Her chief reliance in the Kentucky Derby will be Cavalcade, which won the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington last summer. . . . Imagine the embarrassment of Bob Elson, baseball announcer, after he had shelled out $6.60 for a package, sent collect from Chicago to Catalina iland, where he was vacationing, only to find it contained six paving bricks. . . . He accuses co-workers at W-G-N. . . . Pete Walls, who formerly was the jocky in the stable of H. Teller Archibald of Chicago, has signed to ride for Willis Sharpe Kilmer this season. . . . Leo Durocher, Cardinal shortstop, goes in for roller polo during the off season. . . .

A former Northwestern football player and a telegraph operator are fighting for the hand of a beautiful north side blonde. . . . The gridiron gent is said to have made several large gains, the little woman having stood up the debonair operator on two occasions last week. . . . Of the 111 athletes who were awarded major letters at the University of Chicago in the first ten years of its existence, 19 now are listed in "Who's Who in America." . . . Lieut. Jack Kennedy of the United States navy, widely known through the sports world, has been detached from the navy to serve as physical and athletic adviser for the Civilian Conservation corps. . . . Every day during the six day bicycle race Robert Thomas Sr. of Kenosha, Wis., motored to the Chicago Stadium to see Bobby Jr. in action. After staying until at least 2 a. m. he would hit the trail again.

Ten Years Ago Today—Sammy Mandell, making his first start as a lightweight, defeated Mickey O'Dowd in ten rounds at East Chicago. . . . After the bout Mandell issued a challenge to all lightweights. . . . Frank Chance, completely recovered from his long illness, told White Sox officials he would take command of the Sox in a few weeks. . . . The White Sox again defeated the Boston Braves, 8 to 4, behind the steady pitching of Ted Lyons.

Lane, Marshall Routed in State Basket Meet

failed to count again until the state champions had piled up 14 points. The score at the end of the quarter was 10 to 2. Lane's third point came when Cavaretta sank a free throw.

After making only two free throws in the first half, Hellman, Thornton center, came back with ten points in the second half. His work helped the Harvey boys pull away to a 29 to 7 lead at the end of the third quarter. Coach Lipe sent in the second team when the regulars passed the 30 mark. Bensinger accounted for nine of Lane's points.

In its one point victory over Marion yesterday Equality did not look impressive, but tonight the big boys from Gallatin county did everything well as they ran away from Marshall.

New York, March 23.—Bond prices held about steady today in dull trading. Domestic corporation issues and leading foreign loans were inclined to be slightly easier, while United States government bonds were slightly higher.

Total transactions dropped to $10,258,000 from $12,290,000 on the previous day.

Utilities Steadiest.

Public utility bonds showed a greater degree of steadiness, on the average, than did railroad and industrial issues.

Business news was favorable, but labor difficulties seemed to depress traders. Belief that the administration would prevent a major strike seemed to me indicated in the fact that offerings were not much more numerous than bids.

Pressure on German Loans.

German bonds were again subjected to pressure in the foreign group, many issues losing a point or more. Dutch East Indies loans broke more than 4 points and French government issues were down fractionally to 1¾ points. Gains of 1½ to 2¾ points in Argentine government bonds featured the Latin American group.

Curb bonds were steady in quiet dealings.

INVESTMENT CODE APPROVED BY ROOSEVELT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—Fair trade practice provisions for the investment banking business which clamp rigid rules on issuing and selling of securities and provide for wide publicity and other safeguards to the investor were approved in an executive order signed by President Roosevelt today.

Submitted as amendments to the code of fair competition approved on Nov. 27, the provisions were described by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, in his letter transmitting them to the President, as "a remarkable document."

The amendments as approved still contain the clause barring sales or solicitation in residences without specific permission from the customer.

Mutual Benefit Life.

Investors' Guide: My brother is contemplating taking out a contract with Mutual Benefit of New Jersey. Can you advise me as to its standing? —K. B. L.

Answer: Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company, Newark, N. J., was incorporated in 1845. It is purely mutual.

Insurance in force showed steady expansion to 1930, when it totaled 2,491 million dollars. General economic conditions resulted in gradual decreases during the ensuing three years. At the close of 1931 the figure stood at 2,465 million dollars; in 1932, 2,335 million dollars, and in 1933, 2,166 million dollars. The management points out that the decline, which during the three years was only about eight per cent, could have been checked by aggressive sale of annuities and low premium insurance, but that the financial condition of the company was not such that a drive was necessary.

Reflecting in part the drop in insurance in force, income in 1933 was $100,165,000 and disbursements were $117,232,000.

Assets in 1933 dropped about $19,000,000 to $569,523,000, but the decline in liabilities was greater. Cash, United States government bonds and other governmental obligations totaled about $29,500,000. Railroad bonds were $92,978,000; public utility bonds, $31,697,000 [none in default], and miscellaneous bonds, $2,818,000. Farm mortgages were $121,826,000 and urban mortgages, $74,244,000. Foreclosed real estate was $42,175,000 and policy loans, $140,563,000.

The company has been successful in selling a fair portion of its real estate at prices approximating book values.

Bonds in default, all of senior issues, constitute only 3½ per cent of total bond holdings. Valuing all securities at market prices, surplus over all liabilities would have been $6,809,000. Using convention values, surplus was $29,552,000, including a $15,153,000 security fluctuation and real estate reserve.

The company earned a return of 4.1 per cent on invested assets, compared with 4.24 per cent in 1932 and 4.9 per cent in 1931. Ratio of actual to expected mortality in 1933 was 62.91 per cent, against 60 per cent in 1932 and 63.66 per cent in 1931.

Procter & Gamble.

Investors' Guide: Will you please tell me whether Procter & Gamble have any bonds on the market? If so, where can I buy them?—S. F. W.

Answer: The company's outstanding funded debt was called for payment on Jan. 1, 1934, at 105 and interest. There are no bonds of this company now on the market.

CHICAGO BANKS GAIN DEPOSITS; LOANS DECLINE

Buy U. S. Bonds with Surplus Funds.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Chicago banks gained nearly 90 million dollars in deposits in the period between Dec. 30 and March 5, according to figures released yesterday in response to quarterly calls by the state and national banking authorities.

The gains were general throughout the city, practically all banks, large and small, showing substantial gains. Although part of the increase in total deposits was due to larger deposits by the federal government, most of the rise resulted from increasing public confidence in banks.

The guaranty of deposits by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, which began operating Jan. 1, helped swell the return of money to banks, especially small accounts covered in full by the $2,500 maximum guaranty.

Loans Show Decline.

Despite the jump in deposits, however, Chicago banks were lending substantially less money. Shrinkage in loans was also a city-wide experience, total loans and discounts declining about 14 millions while deposits were mounting nearly 90 millions.

Thus, the figures released yesterday by the individual banks emphasized trends which have been reflected since the first of the year in the brief reports of member banks' condition issued by the federal reserve board.

The increase in deposits accompanied by a drop in loans does not mean that the banks were piling up additional cash. Total cash resources of Chicago banks on March 5 were about 88 millions less than on Dec. 30, 1933.

This means that the banks were adding heavily to their bond accounts, principally United States government bonds. Figures showing holdings of government and other bonds are not given in the bank call tabulations, but recent federal reserve member bank reports have shown that this is the case.

Hold More U. S. Bonds.

Figures for the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, available yesterday, are an illustration of what has been happening. This bank on March 5 held 235 millions of government bonds, compared with 125 millions on Dec. 30, the date of the last call.

Lacking a sufficient volume of eligible borrowers, Chicago banks have had to pour more and more of their deposit funds into government bonds in order to get some income.

Yesterday's call marked the first time in three years that the controler of the currency has required first quarter reports from national banks. The order from Washington to give figures as of March 5 instead of a date closer to the end of the month was interpreted as a move aimed to afford a better comparison with figures a year earlier at the time of the beginning of the national bank moratorium.

Grain Trade 'Strike' Hints Tax Protest

Bored by the lack of trading activities and the absence of commissions, traders at the Board of Trade yesterday staged a "strike" of their own by deserting the wheat pit for short periods twice during the day.

The "strike" was staged in a spirit of play, but observers were inclined to attach more significance to the event than the traders themselves. Traders who declined to join the walkout were doused with cups of water by their striking associates, and for a few minutes at 11 o'clock in the morning and again at 1 o'clock the wheat pits were almost deserted.

Commissions Are Small.

For months traders have been barely able to eke out a living from their commissions because of the low ebb of speculative interest in the principal commodities. Many traders complain that they don't earn enough during the day to buy lunches, and others have had to cut down on their office space and discharge clerks and other employes.

The five cent federal tax on each $100 commodity trade is blamed by traders in a large measure for the slack business. Yesterday's unprecedented walkout was seen as a spontaneous protest against the tax.

Bored by Dull Session.

Not all the traders knew what the outburst was all about. A few ringleaders started the "strike" and it spread quickly because of the ever present willingness of traders to join in anything that would relieve the boredom of the dull session.

Members jested with each other as they filed out of the pits over the notion that they were making a protest against something. They soon returned to the pits when messengers brought orders to be executed, but commitments were scarce enough not to disturb many of the traders.

Neither in the morning nor at 1 o'clock, shortly before the end of the trading period, did the walkout last more than a minute or so.

Turnover Is Small.

An idea of the low ebb of business in the pits may be gleaned from the fact that Wednesday only 8,000,000 bushels of wheat were traded. A turnover of 50,000,000 bushels of wheat is considered a "normal" day. A year ago about 24,000,000 bushels were traded.

In deserting the wheat pit most of the traders went to other sections of the trading floor and bantered with other traders in the oats, rye and provisions sections.

The tax which the traders complain so bitterly against has been recommended reduced to 1 cent per $100 trade by the senate finance committee. Prior to the boost two years ago the tax was that amount.

Veteran traders recalled yesterday that only once in the history has there been a serious strike. In 1918 on the day of the false Armistice officials announced that a trading period of only 30 minutes would be held. Because traders struck the decision was recalled.

FREIGHT TRAFIC MOUNTS TO NEW PEAK FOR YEAR

Week's Loadings Are 625,773 Cars.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended March 17 aggregated 625,773 cars, which marked an increase of 13,371 cars, or 2.2 per cent, over the previous week's total. The figures, which were released today by the American Railway association, established car loadings at a new high record for the current year. All districts reported increases for the period over 1933 and all, except the central western district, exceeded 1932.

In comparison with the corresponding week a year ago the total was 172,136 cars higher, or 37.9 per cent. It was also 41,014 cars in excess of the same 1932 week. For the week ended March 10 last, loadings were 1.4 per cent above the previous period and 38.8 per cent over the same 1933 week. Miscellaneous freight classification rose 11,120 cars last week over the previous period, more than offsetting the drop in coal and coke. All classifications showed increases in contrast with the corresponding period of 1933.

Total loadings for the year to date aggregated 6,328,743 cars, against 5,270,980 cars in the same period last year and 6,229,711 cars in the similar period of 1932. The increase in loadings for the week ended March 17 was far more than seasonal. The spurt was said to have been caused partly by rushing shipments in order to get ahead of possible strikes in the major industries.

Miscellaneous freight loaded for the week of March 17 was 227,562 cars, an increase of 11,120 over the preceding week, 76,786 above 1933 and 37,554 above 1932.

Grain Shipments Increase.

Forest products loaded totaled 25,164 cars, an increase of 2,312 above the preceding week, 10,634 above 1933, and 4,857 above 1932.

Ore amounted to 4,010 cars, an increase of 617 above the week before, 1,524 above 1933, and 743 above 1932.

Coal totaled 148,159 cars, a decrease of 3,335 below the preceding week but increases of 58,882 and 17,086 above the corresponding weeks in 1933 and 1932, respectively.

TRADE SURGES FAR AHEAD OF LEVEL YEAR AGO

Retail Sales Up 48%, Says Bradstreet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—Business continued to gain ground this week, according to the trade reviews of current activities, and both dollar and unit production are reaching new highs for the year, despite unfavorable factors of labor difficulties.

"In addition, reports received from all parts of the country reveal sales of Easter and spring goods surging above anticipated quotas and stocks of style merchandise being depleted rapidly," say Dun & Bradstreet. "The average gain in retail sales over those of last year is placed at 48 per cent, while in many instances the 1932 figures have been passed by 10 to 12 per cent.

Inventories Doubled.

"Because of prevailing rising markets, inventories have been doubled as retailers are anticipating needs in advance of normal requirements. Wholesalers report even greater gains than retailers and are expressing concern over the inability of manufacturers to supply some grades of the most popular type of merchandise because of restrictions of operation by NRA provisions.

"The postponement of the automobile strike, the truce among rail workers, and the quieting of the unrest in the steel trades are among the favorable factors which point to a wider bulge in industrial activity in the weeks that lie immediately ahead.

Federal Control Opposed.

"While industry, as a whole, is starting the second year of recovery at a pace probably unapproached during any peacetime period, and with most of the progress admittedly attributable to the benign fostering of governmental agencies, definite opposition is being offered to proposed policies which provide for the extension of government control.

"This is true particularly in those industries which have conformed to all provisions regarding hours of work and rates of pay, leaving the sole cause for recent dissensions, which for a time were fraught with open outbreaks, the matter of company unions, a domain long considered impeachable by extraneous interference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—In the first transactions of their kind since the passage of the national securities law, the banking firm of Kuhn Loeb & Co. has sold nearly $5,547,000 of bonds for the Pennsylvania railroad, it became known today. The transactions were subject to approval by the interstate commerce commission.

The methods used to sell the bonds were unlike those employed in recent years and harked back to the procedure followed in pre-war days. The securities were sold to dealers by the banking firm, but it was on the understanding that these were for the account of institutional or other investors who would retain them. They were sold gradually as circumstances permitted.

No circulars were used to sell the bonds and they merely were represented verbally as the offering of a well known railroad. Under the securities law the details of railroads' offerings are filed with the interstate commerce commission instead of with the federal trade commission, but they are subject to appropriate provisions of the securities law.

The Pennsylvania bonds comprised $1,200,000 Northern Central general refunding mortgage bonds, which were sold to the bankers at par; $750,000 Delaware railroad 4 per cent first mortgage bonds, sold at 94; and $3,597,000 Cleveland and Pittsburgh general and refunding mortgage bonds, sold at 99¾. The interest rate on the Northern Central and Cleveland and Pittsburgh bonds is to be cut from 5 to 4½ per cent and the rate on the Delaware issue from 5 to 4 per cent.

The New York Central is completing plans for the sale of $51,911,000 of 6 per cent convertible secured bonds.

Bar U. S. Banks from Lending Debtor Nations

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—The administration clamped down today on debt defaulting foreign nations by prohibiting New York bank participation in a Dutch syndicate loan to France.

Secretary Morgenthau told newspapermen of the decision and reasons why the treasury's control of foreign exchange had been employed to block the loan.

"The Johnson bill has passed the senate and probably will pass congress," Morgenthau said. "It has the support of the administration.

Blocks Loans to Debtors.

"Since it is the sentiment of congress and the administration that loans should not be made to foreign countries in default on their debts, the treasury ruled American capital should not participate."

The measure referred to by Morgenthau was introduced by Senator Johnson of California, Progressive Republican supporter of President Roosevelt. His bill would prohibit American advances to countries which defaulted in whole or in part on their debts, but would except refunding operations.

First Time Rule Is Applied.

Treasury officials said it was the first time the debt-defaulting rule had been applied to a proposed foreign flotation. Complete authority over foreign exchange transactions was voted the President in the emergency banking act of 1933.

The loan in question was arranged in Amsterdam by a syndicate headed by Mendelsohn & Co. Several New York banks were invited to participate in the block of 100,000,000 guilders of 90 day French treasury bills.

ROOSEVELT CREATES OFFICE OF ADVISER ON FOREIGN TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—President Roosevelt in an executive order issued tonight created the office of special adviser on foreign trade, to be filled by an official yet to be named who will have the broadest possible powers in negotiating foreign trade agreements for the advancement of American commerce. George N. Peek is mentioned prominently as the one to be designated to the post.

The official, who will have at his command $100,000 allocated from public works funds, will have authority to negotiate these trade agreements involving the government in three different categories—financing transactions, barter transactions, and other forms of governmental participation authorized by law.

He may carry on such negotiations under the order, "with respect to specific trade transactions with any individual, corporation, association, group, or business agency."

In carrying out his duties the foreign trade adviser is given full access to the records of the newly created export-import banks, government departments, and other federal agencies, and may request whatever official services he requires.

NEW BUILDING SHOWS BIG GAIN DURING MARCH

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Contracts awarded for all classes of construction in the thirty-seven states east of the Rocky mountains during the first two weeks of March reached a total within 4 per cent of the volume for the entire month of February, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation.

The total of $92,521,800 was also 55 per cent larger than the amount for the entire month of March, 1933, the Dodge bulletin states. While the large increase over last year was due in part to larger governmental undertakings, a moderate gain in private building was noted.

February awards totaled $96,716,300 compared with $186,463,700 for January and $52,712,300 for February, 1933.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, March 23.—Germany in effect went on a voluntary blockade basis today when as a result of her unfavorable trade balance and the precarious gold reserve position of the reichsbank the government further reduced the allotments of foreign exchange for imports to 17½ per cent of actual value of imports in 1930.

Officially the allotment was put at 35 per cent of the "basic amount," but this basic amount in itself represents a cut of 50 per cent.

Today's drastic action followed the passage by the cabinet last night of a law creating control bureaus for trade in industrial raw materials and half finished goods "to assure to German industry a supply of the most vital raw materials with the most economically advantageous distribution."

This law empowers Dr. Kurt Schmitt, the minister of economics, to restrict imports further and ration the distribution of raw materials among German industries. The manner envisaged for its execution is understood to be for the most "efficient" plants and avert price increases threatened by rival bidding among the Germans themselves.

ILLINOIS COAL OUTPUT HIGHER; JOBS INCREASE

Springfield, Ill., March 23.—(AP)—Illinois coal production during February showed another increase over 1933, Director James McSherry of the state department of mines and minerals announced today.

With 151 mines operating, February production was 3,917,817 tons, against 3,560,243 tons for the same month last year. Employment increased 455 men to 36,269, with each working an average of 16.1 days.

He has been a director since 1929. The directors reported that sales of sulphur have been running about 23 per cent ahead of last year.

The First National Bank of Cicero, one of the larger suburban banks, yesterday reported total deposits of $1,770,223 as of March 5 in response to the regular call for statement of condition. Three months ago the bank reported total deposits of $1,294,009. Cash resources increased to $853,732 from $635,292 and savings deposits expanded to $881,523 from $697,089.

New York, March 23.—Production of cigarets for the first two months of the year rose to a new record high level for that period at 20,650,983,550, says Dow, Jones & Co.

February output of 9,167,641,657 cigarets added a gain of more than 16 per cent to the 33 per cent increase in January, said the agency, putting production above the 20,000,000,000 mark for the first time in the industry's history.

Kaspar Bank Depositors Sue to Force Receiver to Pay

Arthur H. Meyer, receiver for the closed Kaspar American State bank, 1700 Blue Island avenue, was named in a petition filed yesterday before Superior Court Judge Harry A. Lewis to force him to use the bank's cash to pay depositors. The petition was set for hearing March 24. It also asks that Receiver Meyer take steps to obtain a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to pay depositors. The bank has already made a 25 per cent payment.

ARMOUR'S NEW FINANCE CHIEF DUE HERE TODAY

Frederick H. Prince, Boston capitalist, the largest individual stockholder of Armour & Co. and chairman of the finance committee, will arrive in Chicago today from New York, it was said at his office here yesterday. Mr. Prince was scheduled to come here yesterday, but delayed his departure.

The purpose of his visit was not revealed, but in view of Mr. Prince's comments on his arrival from Europe Thursday, it is thought some action will be taken in connection with formulation of a final plan of reorganization of capital structure.

Confer at New York.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The affairs of Armour & Co. were discussed informally at a conference here today between Frederick H. Prince, chairman of the finance committee, and a group of company executives. At the conference were T. G. Lee, president of Armour; Philip A. Reed, vice president; C. J. Faulkner, general counsel, and Elisha Walker of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who is a member of the finance committee. No announcement was made after the meeting.

DOLLAR REGAINS LOSSES AGAINST FRANC AND POUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—The dollar recovered today from its weakness of recent days. The franc, which on Thursday had touched par of exchange for the first time since the stabilization of the dollar, fell to 6.59 cents, off 1½ points on the day.

Based on the franc at its final New York rate, the dollar was valued at approximately 59.45 per cent of its former parity compared with 59.31 per cent yesterday. Swiss francs were off 9 points to 32.31 cents and Belgian belgas lost 2 points to 28.33 cents.

Sterling and its group were similarly weak, although these currencies had not shared in the previous movement against the dollar. The pound dropped to $5.10, where it closed, off 1⅛ cents; Scandinavian currencies were 5 to 7 points lower. The Canadian dollar was slightly lower at 99.93⅞ cents.

Further gold imports were reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of which $1,691,400 from Canada added to the monetary gold stocks while $7,366,100 from France consisted of gold previously acquired abroad by the treasury and included in the monetary gold stocks. In addition to the gold imports reported by the Federal Reserve bank, the liner Manhattan today brought in about $4,000,000 gold.

The price of gold declined 2 pence in London to an equivalent of $34.76 a fine ounce at which price approximately $1,533,000 worth of the metal was sold.

EDISON FEBRUARY NET INCREASES TO TOTAL OF $818,024

Net income of the Commonwealth Edison company in February totaled $818,024 after charges and taxes, it was learned yesterday. This compares with $725,426 in the same month a year ago. Gross revenue aggregated $6,391,894, against $6,091,592 in 1933.

For the first two months of the year gross was $13,271,114, against $12,546,690, and net was $1,817,384, compared with $1,632,634. The figures are preliminary and subject to minor adjustments.

TRADE SURGES FAR AHEAD OF LEVEL YEAR AGO

Retail Sales Up 48%, Says Bradstreet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—Business continued to gain ground this week, according to the trade reviews of current activities, and both dollar and unit production are reaching new highs for the year, despite unfavorable factors of labor difficulties.

"In addition, reports received from all parts of the country reveal sales of Easter and spring goods surging above anticipated quotas and stocks of style merchandise being depleted rapidly," say Dun & Bradstreet. "The average gain in retail sales over those of last year is placed at 48 per cent, while in many instances the 1932 figures have been passed by 10 to 12 per cent.

Inventories Doubled.

"Because of prevailing rising markets, inventories have been doubled as retailers are anticipating needs in advance of normal requirements. Wholesalers report even greater gains than retailers and are expressing concern over the inability of manufacturers to supply some grades of the most popular type of merchandise because of restrictions of operation by NRA provisions.

"The postponement of the automobile strike, the truce among rail workers, and the quieting of the unrest in the steel trades are among the favorable factors which point to a wider bulge in industrial activity in the weeks that lie immediately ahead.

Federal Control Opposed.

"While industry, as a whole, is starting the second year of recovery at a pace probably unapproached during any peacetime period, and with most of the progress admittedly attributable to the benign fostering of governmental agencies, definite opposition is being offered to proposed policies which provide for the extension of government control.

"This is true particularly in those industries which have conformed to all provisions regarding hours of work and rates of pay, leaving the sole cause for recent dissensions, which for a time were fraught with open outbreaks, the matter of company unions, a domain long considered impeachable by extraneous interference.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—After repeated gains for several weeks the general average of retail food prices during the two week period ending Feb. 27 declined two-tenths of 1 per cent, Commissioner Lubin of the bureau of labor statistics announced today.

"The decline," Mr. Lubin said, "was due to a decrease in the price of 6 of the 40 items covered by the bureau, namely, fresh eggs, fresh milk, sugar, rolled oats, oranges and cabbage. Of the remaining 36 items, 26 showed minor increases and 10 showed no change."

The index number was 108.1 per cent of the 1913 average of 100, as compared with 108.3 per cent on Feb. 13, and 105.8 per cent on Jan. 30.

FARMER INCOME OFF LAST MONTH ABOVE YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., March 23.—(AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics estimated today farmers received a cash income of $413,000,000 in February, of which $385,000,000 was from the sale of farm products and $28,000,000 from rental benefit payments made by the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

The February income compared with $254,000,000 in February, 1933, and $484,000,000 in January 1934. The bureau explained the decline from January to February was seasonal and due to reduced marketing volume.

STOCK TRADING SHRINKS TO NEW LOW FOR YEAR

Labor Problem and U. S. Control Are Factors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 23.—Speculative activity on the New York Stock exchange shrunk to a new low for the year today as traders awaited developments in the unsolved market problems of the hour. The sales total amounted to only about 792,000 shares, the smallest since early last December.

Many ordinarily active trading favorites did not appear on the tape until the session was half over, and some of them did not figure in more than one or two transactions. Allied Chemical, usually among the first starters, did not come out until the final hour of trading, and then for only one sale. American Telephone figured in only four transactions, and American Can in seven. Western Union's turnover was only 200 shares.

Traders Still Uncertain.

Traders were still uncertain over the labor situation and the new regulation bill, and the developments in each situation have been so confusing that the average trader could not decide which side of the market to take. Movements consequently were narrow, sluggish and mixed.

Aviation and liquor descriptions attracted the bulk of what interest there was. A flurry of buying in the late afternoon brought the first named group back into the limelight for the time being. The manufacturing company issues such as Douglas Aircraft, Curtiss-Wright and Wright Aero were seemingly favored. Wall street could not decide which of the two apparent influences favoring the group was the strongest, the news of the possible early return to private companies of the airmail business without waiting for congressional action, or the prospect of government orders for military aircraft.

Liquor Issues Rise.

Buying in the liquor section converged in Schenley, National Distillers and Commercial Solvents and all were boosted to the best levels of the last few days. All sold off from their tops before the close, however.

The weekly carloading statement showing an increase of 13,371 cars over the preceding week to a new peak for the year failed to measure up to advance estimates and the close found most of the carriers below their previous figures. Delaware and Hudson was an exception, rising about a point.

Motor shares held steady despite the prolonged uncertainty over the outcome of the labor situation in the automobile industry.

URGES SENATE FORCE FIRMS TO REVEAL SALARIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—Stronger authority for the federal trade commission to inquire into and compel disclosure of salaries of large interstate corporations was asked of the senate today in a resolution introduced by Senator Costigan, instigator of the original compensation disclosures.

The resolution also provided an additional fund of $50,000 for the trade commission to carry out its mandate from the senate. The fund would be used in part for prosecution in the courts of those companies that still refuse to disclose their salary lists. The resolution would empower the trade commission, the attorney general and the United States courts to exercise all of the powers and jurisdiction severally conferred upon them by the federal trade act of 1914.

Senator Costigan's resolution was the direct result of the refusal of certain corporations, including General Motors, General Aviation, the American Can company, and the Studebaker corporation, and the failure of others, for various reasons, to answer the first questionnaire of the trade commission for salary data.

Amendments proposing to increase arbitrarily the amount of income taxes on high salaries to the individual and to decrease the amount deductable from the taxable incomes of corporations paying such high compensations are now pending in the senate awaiting the consideration there of the 1934 tax bill.

BORG-WARNER HEADS' PAY TOLD STOCKHOLDERS

Salaries of officers of Borg-Warner corporation were revealed yesterday by C. S. Davis, president, in response to questions by stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday.

G. W. Borg, chairman of the board, has a salary of $30,000 a year, but since spring, 1932, he has voluntarily reduced it by 20 per cent, according to Mr. Davis. Mathew Keck, secretary and treasurer, has a salary of $20,000 a year, voluntarily reduced to $18,000. The base pay of Mr. Davis himself is $60,000, which he has voluntarily cut to $48,000 since early 1932.

All nineteen directors and the officers of Borg-Warner corporation were reëlected yesterday.

Business in January was 177 per cent of that of January, 1933, in February 205 per cent of that in the like month last year, according to Mr. Davis. Business in March will be an estimated 298 per cent of that a year ago.

WORLD WHEAT CONTROL PLANS ARE PREPARED

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

LONDON, March 23.—Drastic measures for the quantitative control of world wheat movements and a minimum price barrier were drawn up by a commission of experts today for submission to the international wheat conference in Rome starting April 5.

An end to all dumping of wheat on all markets is foreseen if a quantitative control is effected. American quarters regard the scheme as even more important than the limitation of prices. It would mean, in effect, the establishment of a constantly functioning red and green light traffic system on trade routes, with all governments responsible for proper control.

Would Balance Movement.

A much closer adjustment of wheat movements to needs would be made than was possible under the annual export quota system formulated last year by the world wheat advisory commission and delegates from twenty-one governments.

The quota system is the only international restriction on grain movements now in effect and binds only the "big four" exporters—the United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina—and the Danubian nations for the current cereal year and the next one.

The world wheat pact was signed last Aug. 25 and since has been supervised by the commission, a permanent body supported by the twenty-one signatories of the agreement.

Representatives of twelve countries attended today's session preliminary to the Rome meeting and considered several plans to fix minimum wheat prices.

Price Plans Considered.

Among the price plans considered were:

The fixing of minimum quotations for a limited number of principal grades of wheat. This would apply only to exports of a few of the larger producers. Its proponents believe it would be easier to enforce and other grades of wheat would tend to keep a proportionately high level as a result.

Establishing a minimum scale for all kinds of wheat and wheat flour of all countries, it was held likely a compromise plan will be offered at Rome.

The United States will be represented at the Rome meeting by John Van A. MacMurray, minister to Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania; Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to the secretary of agriculture, and Frederick E. Murphy, Minneapolis publisher, who took a leading part in wheat discussions at last summer's world economic conference.

A centralized and consolidated banking system was suggested as a possible solution of the problem of promoting American foreign trade and investment by Paul Haensel, professor of economics, at the midwest economic conference opened yesterday at Northwestern university. Prof. Haensel emphasized that the proper handling of international trade and investment presupposes a stable currency. He proposed a "definite international currency based on some standard of gold."

"Only a centralized and consolidated banking system can solve the problem of successfully promoting American foreign trade investment," said Prof. Haensel. "It seems to me that there is a need for a semi-governmental Federal Central Bank of America [similiar to the Bank of France], with branches all over the country. Such banks should be allowed to hold stocks and be affiliated with investment trust companies.

"With a strong banking system of this type, the United States will be able to enlarge greatly its financial influence in foreign countries. Only powerful banking organizations of this type are able to fulfil such a task and by their investment and credit policy increase prosperity and purchasing capacity of other nations for the benefit of their own country."

I. C. C. REFUSES TO SANCTION RFC LOAN TO FRISCO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 23.—The interstate commerce commission today refused to sanction a $6,905,000 loan to the St. Louis-San Francisco railway from the Reconstruction Finance corporation on the ground that it would effect only a "switching of creditors of a bankrupt corporation," and was unnecessary.

The Frisco had requested the loan for three years and for the purpose of purchasing outstanding bonds of the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham railroad, a subsidiary line, which became payable on March 1, of which $3,323,000 are of general mortgage 4 per cent bonds and $3,582,000 are 5 per cent income bonds.

The commission quoted from an opinion of the court having jurisdiction over the Frisco receivership to show that it looked unfavorably on the proposed federal loan and would probably intervene to prevent foreclosure action against the Kansas City, Memphis and Birmingham, if such were attempted by the unpaid bondholders.

The Chicago Great Western Railway company today asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to borrow $1,200,000 from the public works administration to buy 500 box cars. The road offered 10 year 4 per cent equipment trust certificates to secure the loan.

Wieland Dairy Official Heads Bottle Exchange

Robert W. Nessler, secretary of the Wieland Dairy company, yesterday was elected president of the Milk Dealers Bottle exchange, a "clearing house" for the collection of stray milk bottles and their distribution to the companies owning them. More than 250,000 bottles are handled daily by a staff of 100 workers. The bottle exchange here is a pioneer in the work.

BANKERS PLAN WAY TO FINANCE RUSSIAN TRADE

Will Join with Federal Export-Import Bank.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 23.—The first major move to inaugurate soviet trade financing activities of the federal Export-Import bank was made today at a lengthy conference of Wall street bankers and industrialists. At the federal bank's suggestion, the New York bankers discussed their participation in the financing of sales to the soviet union.

J. C. Rovensky, vice president of the Chase National bank, which has for years handled financial business for the Russian government in America, will head a committee representing banking groups throughout the country. The committee will meet next week with trade experts of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce and will prepare a report to be given to Charles E. Stuart, executive vice president of the Export-Import bank, mapping out the way in which commercial banks of the country can share in the lending of the Export-Import bank.

Trade Awaits Financing.

Since recognition by the United States, a heavy resumption of Russian trade has awaited a means of financing. With the conference today, it was learned the manner of financing sales to Amtorg, the soviet trading agency in the United States, will probably be along the following lines:

The selling industrialist, if his financial condition is sound, will be given a government guarantee covering the approximate cost of production. The government will in no case attempt to guarantee the profit to the industry.

The mechanics of the financing, still to be worked out, will probably be that the Export-Import bank will issue to the commercial banks doing business with the industry a guarantee. This guarantee would be held by the commercial banks as collateral for discounting the acceptances for the Amtorg Trade corporation.

Guarantee Based on Labor Cost.

The rule of the Export-Import bank will be to base the amount of guarantee on the amount of labor that goes into the product to be sold. For example, a product where labor is the more dominating factor than materials will bring a guarantee of practically the full cost of production.

The legality of such a plan, it was learned, must still be settled. The banking interests hold the hope such a method can be effected legally inasmuch as Amtorg is an American corporation.

From its inception several weeks ago, the purpose of the Export-Import bank has been not to take business from the commercial banks of the country but to aid them in building up their foreign trade.

At the offices of Amtorg it was learned that orders totaling upward of $25,000,000 are ready for immediate placement when the Export-Import bank is in operation. These orders will affect several hundred industries scattered throughout the United States.

COAL COMPANY DENIED OFF-PEAK RATE FOR POWER

The Illinois commerce commission issued a ruling yesterday that a coal mining company using electricity 24 hours a day in connection with its mine was not entitled to take advantage of "off-peak" rates.

W. A. Brewerton and Louis A. Clements, receivers for the Brewerton Coal company, filed a petition with the commission asking that the Central Illinois Electric and Gas company be compelled to remit to the receivers $13,437.56, claimed to be excessive charges for electricity furnished the coal mine of the company at Lincoln, Ill.

The commission was informed that on Jan. 1, 1932, the Illinois public utility company put in effect at Lincoln a rate for "off-peak" power which was lower than the "on-peak" rate.

U. S. Buys 1,133,000 Lbs. of Cheese to Give to Needy

Purchases of 1,133,000 pounds of American cheese have been made by the Federal Relief corporation for distribution among the needy and unemployed. The cheese is to be in 2½ pound paraffin loaves and will be delivered in March, April, May, and July. Swift & Co. will furnish 80,000 pounds and the Kraft-Phenix Cheese corporation 320,000 pounds.

FARMERS CHECK HOG SHIPMENTS; PRICES RECOVER

Advance Is 5 to 10 Cents; Cattle Hold Firm.

Farmers rescued the hog market from further price recessions yesterday by stemming the flow of supplies into all of the leading packing centers. Eleven markets received only 50,000 head, which was 28 per cent less than arrived on Thursday and 40 per cent less than the supply on the preceding Friday.

Influenced by this sharp decrease in available supplies and the continued cold weather, the trade managed a mild rally, recovering about 5 to 10 cents of the recent loss. Top sales, as well as the general average price, were up 5 cents at $4.55 and $4.25 respectively. Quality was poorer than usual and packers could not find enough good grades to fill federal buying orders. Six packers obtained 2,050 for this account, mostly at $4.45 and $4.50. The quota for the corporation the last few days has been about 2,350 head.

Medium Grades Predominate.

A big share of the run yesterday consisted of "mediums," selling within a range of $3.50 to $4.25, some at the outside figure being in the same weight class as hogs that topped the market, but they lacked the corn finish of those at the top.

The cattle trade yesterday was without feature, a meager supply of mostly common to medium grades totaling 1,500 head being hardly enough to put the price list to a test.

Most interests were in the market, resulting in a fair clearance of the receipts at the week's price gains. Steers are closing strong to 25 cents higher than a week ago, while unevenness in butcher stock caused prices to range from 25 cents lower to 25 cents higher. In hopes of a further recovery next week a few loads were held off yesterday's market.

As a rule this week is one of the poorest periods for all classes of live stock, since stock bought by packers on the hoof this week will come on the market during Holy week, which begins tomorrow. Buying of meat and live stock is always at low ebb just preceding the last week of Lent.

Yearlings Sell at $6.75.

Yearling steers averaging 967 pounds sold at $6.75 here yesterday, while 1,450 pound beeves brought $6.50. The trade is carrying a nominal quotation of $7.65, but nothing in yesterday's small run was eligible to this figure. Calves were firm at the week's 50 to 75 cents advance.

Demand was better in the lamb market yesterday and prices advanced 10 to 15 cents on light supplies. All interests were eager buyers around $9.25 in the better grades of wooled stock, while city butchers nd shippers paid up to $3.35 for their selections. A band of 81 pound shorn lambs cashed at $7.50. Lamb prices still are 10 to 15 cents under the close of last week and show losses of 75 to 85 cents compared with the high point of the winter at the beginning of March.
